ROOSEVELT PLANS 'FIRESIDE' APPEAL THURSDAY FOR FOUR BILLIONS TO AID BUSINESS AND FARMERS

JAPANESE BLAST ALONG 1,500 MILES TO AVENGE DEFEAT

Air, Land and Sea Forces Strike in Thunderous Offensive; Dozen Cities Are Shelled by Aircraft.

RAIDS DEVASTATE CAPITAL OF HUNAN

'Red Napoleon' Escapes by Minutes in Push of Mechanized Columns.

SHANGHAI, (Tuesday), April 12.—(UP)—Japan's air and land forces today opened a thunderous attack at points along a line more than 1,500 miles long in retaliation for the severe defeats suffered by vanguards of the imperial army in Shantung province.

Fleets of army and navy planes bombed a dozen Chinese cities while mechanized infantry columns in Shansi province captured one of the strongholds of China's famed "Red Napoleon," General Chu Teh, commander of the former Communist armies.

Changsha Devastated.

Changsha, capital of Hunan province, was devastated in a series of air raids which resulted in the second destruction of Tsinghua University, which was driven from Peiping early in the war, and the razing of the Hunan provincial library, valued at more than 2,000,000 yuan (about $550,000.)

General Chu and his bodyguard were reported by the Japanese Romei News Agency to have escaped the Japanese "by a matter of minutes."

In Hankow the chief of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's political affairs bureau, General Chen Cheng, described the bombing of Changsha, which lies south of Hankow on the railway line to Canton, as a "wanton act of terrorism certain to intensify the hatred of every living Chinese for Japan."

Bomb Rail Points.

Other cities bombed included all the key points in Generalissimo Chiang's fortified Lunghai railway line defending his capital in Hankow.

Suchow-fu, Kweiteh, Raifeng, Chengchow, Tungkwan and Sian-Fu, all were damaged.

A Japanese spokesman in Shanghai said 24 of 30 Chinese planes which attempted to beat off the Japanese air raiders were shot down in a big aerial battle east of Kweiteh. The Japanese lost two planes.

The Chinese said five Japanese plans were shot down.

Canton Attacked.

The suburbs of Canton, great South China metropolis, were bombed again and the hangers on the air field at Painyunshan were partly destroyed.

The Domei agency said that four Japanese mechanized columns started a secret advance into southwest Shansi province on Friday and trapped parts of eight divisions of General Chu Teh's army

President Places Railroads' Crisis In Congress' Hands

Transmits Advisers' Recommendation for $300,000,000 and Other Loans But He Refrains From Offering Plan of Own; Would Merge Transportation Agencies.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—(AP)—President Roosevelt told congress today, in effect, to figure out for itself how to cure the ills of the nation's $21,000,000,000 railroad network.

Pointedly, he refrained from sending any recommendations of his own to Capitol Hill, where his reorganization bill was defeated and where he received other blows.

He did transmit a mass of recommendations from his advisers, including proposals for lending $300,000,000 for the purchase of railroad equipment and other millions to rescue the carriers from their plight.

He suggested it would be the part of "common sense" to consolidate the seven federal agencies dealing with transportation into two, one handling executive functions and the other all activities of a judicial or legislative character.

Urges Co-operation.

He also chided past congresses for clothing the Interstate Commerce Commission with "purely executive functions," declaring that this was, "in all probability, unconstitutional."

However, he did not press the point, declaring it was "more important for all of us to co-operate in preventing serious bankruptcies among a large number of railroad companies, great and small." He said immediate legislation was necessary pending formulation of a "permanent program."

Congress seemed in no hurry to act.

One leader said there probably would not be much in the way of legislation this session, unless it was a bill dealing with court procedure. Some Roosevelt advisers suggested speeding up of reorganization procedure, and the possible establishment of a single court in charge of reorganization.

May Call Conference.

However, Chairman Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, of the senate commerce committee, indicated he might call the railroad management and labor spokesmen into conference to study the idea of emergency legislation. Arguing that many railroads have already borrowed too much money, he said he was opposed to granting subsidies or loans on inadequate security to forestall receiverships.

Some of the recommendations Mr. Roosevelt submitted were drawn up by three members of the Interstate Commerce Commission, Chairman Walter M. W.

GOVERNORS FIGHT RAIL FREIGHT RATES 'STRANGLING' DIXIE

100 EXPERTS SENT BY NEW ENGLAND

Graves of Alabama Hits 'Barrier To Commerce'; Rivers Also To Testify.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 11. (AP)—The initial thrust of southern governors against rail freight rate "discriminations" they blame for "strangling" Dixie industry was met today by stubborn opposition of an array of attorneys for New England and other eastern and northern states.

Intent upon industrialization of the predominantly agricultural south, the southern conference of governors carried its fight for rate "parity" before the Interstate Commerce Commission in a hearing here.

Governor Bibb Graves, of Alabama, termed present rates a "barrier to the free flow of commerce," and urged the commission to cut rates as a step in assuring "all the people of these (southern) states the right to have a full and fair opportunity to participate in the commerce of the entire nation."

North and East Opposed.

Opposing the states of Alabama, Georgia, Florida, Tennessee, Mississippi, Louisiana and North and South Carolina in their complaint against "discriminatory" rates were more than 100 attorneys and other experts, representing the New England governors' conference, other eastern states and cities, and manufacturers and shippers whose products are in competition with southern-made goods.

First witness for the complainants, Governors Graves said:

"We are asking the commission not only to grant the relief sought on these particular commodities, but to lay down in this case the rule that rates from the southeast into official territory shall hereafter be made on commodities so that we may have a parity in the case of these inter-territorial rates with the rates between points in official territory on like commodities."

"Official" Territory Favored.

Southern governors contend in the petition that rates in "official" territory (north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers) are as much as 39 per cent less than similar rates in southern territory.

Testimony by V. H. Sonderegger, forestry chief for Louisiana, brought the first legal skirmish, with more than a dozen of the scores of attorneys for intervenors and northern and eastern states jumping to their feet with objections and questions.

The witness described Louisi-

Dr. S. V. Sanford Closes Deal for Famous Library

Constitution Staff Photo - Wilson.

The famous DeRenne library became the property of the University of Georgia yesterday and will be transferred to Athens this week. Dr. S. V. Sanford, chancellor of the university system, on the right is completing the agreement with the DeRenne family. METHODIST LAITY WILL FIGHT UNION Leaders Agree To 'Lobby If Necessary' Before the General Conference.

Methodist lay leaders from throughout Georgia pledged themselves last night "to lobby if necessary" in an effort to prevent the passage of a plan to unite the northern and southern branches of Methodism at the general conference in Birmingham April 28.

In an enthusiastic meeting sponsored by the Layman's Organization for the Preservation of the Southern Methodist Church, more than 100 Georgians promised to go back to their respective churches and "let ourselves be heard on the question of unification."

Miller S. Bell, of Milledgeville, urged southern Methodists "to go to Birmingham, fill the galleries, and convince the delegates that we do not want unification. Go there for the purpose of lobbying, if you want to call it that," he pleaded.

Will Go to Meeting.

After his appeal, several leaders stood and expressed their intention of attending the Birmingham meeting. Others agreed to send telegrams.

A resolution introduced by Judge Augustus M. Roan asked the delegates to the general conference "to oppose any plan for unification at the present time, and especially, unless, and until, the facts have been explained to the general laity of our church, and they shall have had a free and independent opportunity to express themselves upon the subject." It was adopted unanimously.

The group of laymen leaders also moved to send Bishop W. N. Ainsworth, of Macon, a telegram inviting him to visit the headquarters in Atlanta "to see for yourself thousands of signatures, including record votes of entire congregations unanimously given against the plan." The bishop had previously issued a statement declaring that little opposition to the unification plan had been brought to his attention.

Meeting Consumes 4 Hours.

Leader after leader was called upon to express an opinion on plans for combatting unification until the meeting had consumed four hours. The plea was "to act immediately" by launching petitions and by doing personal work.

T. Hicks Fort, Columbus attorney who presided at the dinner, said "they may take my church, but they cannot take me with it." He charged those who "had designs" had adroitly and success-

State Takes Over Library Of DeRennes

Sanford Pays $60,000; Plans To Buy Confederate Constitution.

The famous Wymberley Jones DeRenne library became the property of the University of Georgia yesterday and Dr. S. V. Sanford, chancellor of the university system, announced plans for obtaining the original constitution of the Confederacy through the assistance of patriotic organizations.

Dr. Sanford, acting for the board of regents, paid over to the DeRenne estate $60,000 under terms of an agreement made several weeks ago.

Wymberley Wormsloe DeRenne, who will go to Athens to supervise the setting up of the famous library, acted for the DeRenne estate. Charlton Theus, of Savannah, acted as attorney for the DeRennes.

Assistance to Students.

"The purchase of this famous library is in line with the general program of development of the university system under the regents," Dr. Sanford said. "Since their organization the regents have stressed graduate and research work and this great library will prove of assistance to all types of students."

A definite program for the obtaining of the Confederate constitution, which the regents have an option to buy for $25,000 will be announced soon. The option is for one year only.

Dr. Sanford said the library would be moved to Athens this week. Its works include:

1. The only known copy of the second Georgia constitution, 1789.
2. Confidential letters and tele-

GEORGIA TO SEEK MORE WPA FUNDS

Atlanta, Fulton and the State May Spend $7,350,000 If Plans Go Through

Approximately $7,350,000 of WPA money may be spent in Georgia, Fulton county and the city of Atlanta as the result of the national administration's plan to materially increase Works Progress Administration appropriations.

Governor Rivers and Lamar Murdaugh, state welfare director, plan to appear personally in Washington next week to ask for $5,000,000 for an eleemosynary building program, while the Atlanta school board is expected to act today on plans to apply for about $685,000 for a new boys' high school plant.

Applied for Funds.

Fulton county already has applied for funds to aid in road work, bridge building and like projects. These projects will total about $1,000,000, Commissioner George F. Longino, chairman of the public works committee, estimated last night.

The city school system has applied for WPA aid for rebuilding Maddox Junior High school and several other projects in addition to the present building program which totals some $6,000,000.

To Seek More Money.

City, county and state officials were expected to apply for additional money if the congress adopts the administration recommendations. President Roosevelt yesterday urged WPA appropriations of $1,250,000,000 this year and $800,000,000 more in February of next year. Also, it has been tentatively agreed that $1,500,000,000 should be made available to

PRESIDENT SPEEDS RELIEF PROPOSALS TO END RECESSION

Confers All Day With Leaders on Measures To Provide Imperative Aid to Industry, Agriculture

MORGENTHAU SAYS CRISIS GETS WORSE

Low-Cost Housing and Slum Clearing Aims Call for Added $400,000,000.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—(AP) President Roosevelt may go on the radio Thursday night with an appeal for his new multi-million-dollar recovery and relief program, aides indicated tonight.

Stephen T. Early, his press secretary, said the chief executive would send a message on the general economic situation and relief to congress at noon Thursday, if he had time to prepare it between conferences in the meantime.

If the message went to Capitol Hill on Thursday, Early added, it was possible the President would read and explain it to the country by radio that night.

Round of Conferences.

Indications of the probable trend of the message came today in an all-day round of White House conferences on relief and public works, and a press conference statement by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau.

Morgenthau, a White House visitor earlier in the day, told reporters conditions had changed radically since he came out November 10 against federal "pump-priming" expenditures.

He said business conditions were worse now than in February, when he called them "serious," and that they call "for some kind of government aid."

But Morganthau said the administration's program was still incomplete, and that he could not discuss the possible means of financing it, such as using the treasury's $1,000,000,000 fund of inactive gold.

Byrd Group Fights Spending.

Some members of congress expressed belief that one purpose of a presidential broadcast on the program would be to overcome opposition of such economy advocates as Senator Byrd, Democrat, Virginia. The latter group contends increased federal spending would be dangerous and would disturb business instead of stimulating it.

Slum clearance and low cost housing projects may have a $400,-

BROKER WHITNEY GETS 5-YEAR TERM

Pride Unshaken, Ruined Leader, Hears Acid Denunciation From Bench

NEW YORK, April 11.—(AP)—Richard Whitney, slightly haggard but nonetheless composed, waited in a cell in dingy old Tombs prison tonight to be taken up the river to Sing Sing tomorrow to begin a 5-to-10-year term for grand larceny

Pride and urbanity unshaken, the ruined broker stood in general sessions court today, heard his counsel, Charles H. Tuttle, plead for leniency, heard Judge Bohan briefly and acidly summarize his peculations, and finally pronounce the sentence that will keep him behind bars for at least three years and four months.

Wife Stays Away.

Whitney did not blink once. At his own request, Tuttle said, Mrs. Whitney and their two daughters, as well as Whitney's brother, George, a partner of J. P. Morgan & Company, had stayed

SCHLEY PENSION INQUIRY ORDERED

Murdaugh, Meanwhile, Asks Federal Audit of Dodge County Records.

While the Dodge county welfare controversy simmered in advance of a federal audit of records, a superior court judge yesterday instructed the Schley county grand jury that it was obligated to investigate old age pension payments.

Judge W. M. Harper, convening court at Ellaville, told grand jurors in his charge "fairness to the worthy and the taxpayer demands that the rolls be kept free of imposters."

Lamar Murdaugh, state welfare director, said he had asked federal Social Security Board auditors to inspect Dodge county records following suspension of 166 persons from the pension rolls.

Sheik Bathes and Bride Is Unseen In Exotic Wedding of Heir to Araby

BISKRA, Algeria, April 11.—(AP)—A college professor's beauteous daughter and the favorite son of North Africa's ranking sheik were married today in a magnificent ceremony at which the bridegroom was absent and the bride unseen.

In strict accordance with Moslem rites, the modern-minded 22-year-old bride, Douja Ben Smaia, stood discreetly veiled behind a lace-like stonework in the gallery above the huge ceremonial hall.

Also holding to the ancient customs of his forefathers, the bridegroom, Si Mohammed Ben Gana, son and titular heir of the Sheik of Araby, was taking a ceremonial bath in a separate room of his father's ancient palace when the marriage contract was sealed.

Five thousand richly robed guests, including the French governor general of Algeria and the highest Moslem and Arab dignitaries, attended the palace ceremony.

The wedding guests, surrounded by all the splendor North Africa could muster, heard the choir of Biskra's mosque chant passages from the Koran.

Then an Arab troubador sang the praises of the bridegroom's father, Bou Aziz Ben Gana, and his ancestors.

Finally the troubador sang the Arab song of the caravan and the marriage contract was sealed by the Sheik of Araby and other

Motorist Speeds to Visit Four Kin; Passes Them, Dead in Auto Crash

A grinning Fate that sits near the steering wheel of every automobile kept thoughts of tragedy from the mind of Harris Kemp, of Palatka, Fla., early Sunday morning. Later the imp leered.

Along the broad white path of concrete north of Jacksonville Sunday morning Kemp pushed his car, watching ahead as far as the gleam of the lights would permit. He saw other lights and people moving. He slowed down his car as he approached a group by the side of the highway, then stopped. In the ditch, near the railroad tracks, was an automobile and the mangled bodies of the occupants of the car which had crashed into a railroad freight train at the crossing.

Harris Kemp had seen automobile accidents before. There are many of them along the highway that leads north from Jacksonville. Night was slipping by and Kemp felt he must hurry on. He only took time to ask how the accident happened.

None of the bystanders seemed to know much about the accident. Kemp got back into his car and pushed on.

Hours later he reached McRae, Ga., and rushed up the steps of the family home to surprise his mother, father, brother and sisters for a week-end visit.

They were not at home. They had gone to Palatka to surprise him, some of the neighbors said.

He had passed them all on the road—in the demolished car. There was a funeral for four in a little cemetery outside McRae yesterday.

'The Kid' Sues for His 'Shadow' Fortune

MRS. A. L. BERNSTEIN.

JACKIE COOGAN.

Coogan Sues Mother, Step-Dad For His $4,000,000 Film Fortune

'The Kid' Accuses Bernstein of Wasting Estate at Horse Races While He is Denied Even 'One Cent'; Father Is Commended.

HOLLYWOOD, April 11.—(UP) Jackie Coogan, who built up a huge fortune in the silent days of the movies, late today filed a complaint in Los Angeles superior court which accused his mother and step-father of unlawfully withholding $4,000,000 of his past earnings.

The former boy star, now the husband of blond Betty Grable, brought complaint against Mrs. Lillian Coogan Bernstein and Arthur L. Bernstein. The Bernsteins were married after the death of Jackie's father in an automobile accident three years ago.

He accused his step-father of spending his money on horse races, frequently betting $100 at a time and deducting the losses from the estate.

"Haven't Got a Cent."

He told of being under the impression that he would gain control of his fortune when he was 21, but that when he broached the matter to his mother, she told him:

"You haven't got a cent, there never has been one cent belonging to you. It's all mine and Arthur's.

"And so far as we are concerned you will never get a cent."

Coogan requested the court to order an accounting and return of the money he said originally was held for him in trust.

He complained that he has been unable to obtain an accounting, and that once he was ordered from the office when he tried to look over the books. He paid a tribute to his father for conserving his earnings.

On motion of the young complainant, Judge Emmet H. Wilson appointed Attorney John E. Biby receiver of all assets in possession of his mother and step-father and enjoined them from disposing of any of the property.

Hearing April 20

The court set April 20 to hear proceedings for a preliminary injunction.

Named as co-defendants were Jackie Productions, Inc., the Coogan finance corporation, and 14 "John Does," individually and as corporations. Bernstein was appointed administrator of the estate of Jackie's father, the late John Henry Coogan.

Jackie, who at 23 is trying to climb back to the peak of fame he attained as "The Kid" with Charlie Chaplin many years ago, set forth in his complaint that he had earned more than $4,000,000 from his fourth to his 21st birthday.

While his parents controlled his earnings, he was allotted $6.25 a week for spending money until he was 21, he said. This allowance was stopped, he added, when he reached his majority and since then he has been forced to live on his earnings as an actor. He said he received $1,000 in cash as a birthday present when he was 21, but has received nothing else from his past savings.

ARCHITECT TO TALK ON HOUSING PLANS

William T. Warren To Discuss Low-Cost Projects at Meeting Tomorrow.

An address on planning economical large-scale building developments for families in moderate and low income groups will be the feature of a meeting tomorrow night at 8:15 o'clock in the Georgia Tech physics building.

The speaker will be William T. Warren, of Birmingham, Ala., a member of the American Institute of Architects, and the meeting is being sponsored by the Atlanta chapter of the institute.

It is one of a nation-wide series being held to promote new opportunities for architectural services in connection with the program of the Federal Housing Administration under the recently amended national housing act.

The amendments were framed to facilitate construction or large-scale housing projects and to reduce the cost of small homes purchased with mortgage loans insured by the FHA.

Mr. Warren, who has made a special study of the subject, is scheduled to speak in a number of other cities throughout the southeast during the rest of this month.

GOVERNORS FIGHT RAIL FREIGHT RATES

ana's natural resources, stressing the crude oil, natural gas, salt and seafood produced within its borders. Counsel for the various intervening opponents challenged most strenuously his statement that "high freight rates" were responsible for retarding industrial growth in Louisiana.

Harry Ames, of Washington, representing the six New England governors, sought to have Sonderegger's testimony stricken "because he has testified from hearsay concerning freight rates."

Testimony Remains.

Commissioner William E. Lee permitted Sonderegger's statement to remain in the record, and Ames filed an exception.

Parker McCollester, special assistant attorney general for New York, drew testimony from the witness concerning the drive for new industries conducted by Louisiana during 1936 and 1937.

The attorney sought to show the state was attempting to lure industry from the eastern states, but Sonderegger said he did not know "whether any of 86 new industries moved to Louisiana from northern states."

Sonderegger testified Louisiana offered new manufacturing plants freedom from state taxes for 10 years. He declined to estimate the approximate saving under this plan to a plant costing $1,000,000.

Rivers Will Testify.

Harry D. Wilson, Louisiana commissioner of agriculture, testified briefly and without cross-examination, regarding land resources of his state.

L. W. (Chip) Robert, secretary of the national Democratic executive committee, and executive director of the southeastern governors' conference, was here for the hearing, and Governor Graves announced Governors E. D. Rivers of Georgia and Olin Johnston, of South Carolina, would testify before the hearing adjourns.

HEAD SEEKS LEVY ON DOMESTICATED COMPANIES' STOCK

Millions Involved in Decision; Court Battle Expected To Clarify Point.

Although stocks of strictly Georgia corporations are exempt, the state revenue commissioner is attempting to levy an intangible tax on the stocks of corporations chartered in other states but domesticated in Georgia, it was learned yesterday.

A friendly court battle appeared to be impending, it was said, as both the commissioner and a number of taxpayers have made known their desire to have the supreme court pass on the matter.

Rules for Tax.

Commissioner T. Grady Head was out of the city yesterday but Assistant Attorney General Broadus Zellars, assigned to the commissioner, said his interpretation of the law is that out-of-state chartered corporations are taxable.

"The law exempts the stocks of corporations organized in Georgia," the assistant attorney general pointed out. "While it may have been the intent of the assembly to exempt the domesticated foreign corporations, it apparently did not."

Must Initiate Suit.

Officials of the Revenue Department would not discuss the matter in Head's absence but one said he felt it would be up to a taxpayer to make the first move to get the issue before the courts by refusing to pay the tax and forcing Commissioner Head to file suit. The taxpayer cannot take the initiative in court without the consent of the state.

No effort was made to list the amount of such securities in the state but they were said to run well into the millions of dollars as some of the largest Georgia corporations are chartered in Delaware and domesticated here.

SCHLEY PENSION INQUIRY ORDERED

bers of the board resigned following state inquiries into welfare administration at Eastman.

County Commissioner W. D. McCranie, who withdrew from the controversy, said new appointments to the county welfare board would be made by Murdaugh without his recommendations. Murdaugh in Atlanta, however, said the next move was up to McCranie.

Judge Harper told the Schley county grand jury that a state law required inspection of pension lists. He said the act "will no doubt encourage dependence which otherwise might not exist. It must be realized that under present conditions the discharge of the legitimate burden will be quite heavy. . . .

"Feeling Much Older."

"The fact is the passage of the act resulted in a great many of the populace feeling much older and dependent than theretofore. . . ." (Old age assistance is paid to needy persons over 65 years of age under the law.)

The grand jury was instructed to include its pension report as part of the general presentments.

Brother Saved From Drowning By His Sister, 10

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., April 11.—(AP)—Saving the life of her three-year-old brother, Sonny, was "what anybody would have done," 10-year-old Helen Minton said today, but riding on a bus in wet clothing was "rather embarrassing."

Helen took Sonny visiting yesterday. The youngster got too close to a lily pool and fell in. Helen dived to the rescue, pulling Sonny from the pool.

Helen's act of heroism came to light when she told reporters:

"I did just what anybody would have done. He was pretty heavy, but the only thing I hated was having to come home on the bus in wet clothes. It was rather embarrassing."

STRANGE WEDDING OF HEIR TO ARABY

leading Arab and Moslem officials.

The ceremony over, the guests gathered in the banquet hall to await the bride's mother.

Meanwhile, the bridegroom left his companions who had assisted in the ceremonial bath and walked unaccompanied in his ceremonial robe to the bride's room.

He knocked and the door was opened by the bride's mother.

The 23-year-old Arab prince prostrated himself on the threshold and prayed a moment. Thereupon he entered to give his veiled bride a piece of gold as a sign of his fidelity.

The bride's mother left the room and went to the banquet hall to give the signal for the celebrations to begin.

The sheik's own palace guard—he maintains a personal guard of 15,000—fired a salute to announce the wedding was completed.

Riders Fire Guns.

Riding pell mell through the streets of Biskra, Arabian sheiks on their spirited desert horses shouted and fired their guns into the air.

A crowd of more than 20,000 gathered before the palace to cry out their blessings for long life and happiness for the newlyweds.

Arabs in Biskra, "Pearl of the South," danced and sang as the sheik's servants moved through the ancient streets distributing alms and opening all the city's inns and cafes for everyone to eat and drink as guests of the sheik.

For the wedding guests alone 100 sheep and more than 1,000 chickens were slaughtered. The finest wines and champagnes flowed for European guests.

Inside the palace and in its gardens dancing girls from all parts of North Africa danced to the music of a dozen Arab orchestras.

TOKYO SPECULATES ON WAR WITH RUSSIA

TOKYO, April 11.—(AP)—The danger of war with Soviet Russia is increasingly claiming the attention of Japanese leaders and the public.

Persistent rumors of war preparations—lacking official confirmation—and bellicose statements on both sides have intensified public anxiety.

In informed quarters it was understood Japan recently moved some regular army units from China battlefronts to Manchoukuo to man the troubled border of Manchoukuo and Soviet Siberia.

Army of 500,000 Men.

(Russia is believed to have an army of 500,000 men near that border; Japan's forces in Manchoukuo and Korea, including the flower of her army, have been estimated at between 200,000 and 300,000.)

Many Japanese leaders have been described as advocates of an attack on Russia before the Soviet army could strike.

The foreign office spokesman expressed widespread feeling when he said, in comment on alleged mistreatment of Japanese in Russian Sakhalin:

"If Russia cares to aggravate the situation we will not hesitate to respond."

"Now Is Time to Fight."

Tokyo newspapers today gave prominence to a statement attributed to Marshal Vassily Bluecher, commander of the Soviet Far Eastern army, that "now is the time to fight Japan."

"Certain quarters here"—the conventional designation for the Tokyo government—were said to have received authentic reports of this statement.

(Japanese and neutral military writers have agreed that Japan's best divisions were not being sent to China but to northern Manchoukuo. Recently there have been reports that the Tokyo high command refused to send additional divisions from the homeland to reinforce the armies which have met reverses or been held to a stalemate in Central China.)

RUSSIA PROTESTS JAPANESE FLIGHT

MOSCOW, April 11.—(AP)—Soviet Russia today sent a protest to Japan against a flight of 11 Japanese warplanes over Soviet territory near the troubled frontier separating Siberia and Manchoukuo.

Tass (official Soviet news agency) reported nine planes crossed the border at noon today eight miles south of Polavka and flew three miles into Soviet territory.

Two more planes from Manchoukuo were said to have joined them a few minutes later.

Soviet planes chased them away.

Delegates to the conference will include men and women. The convention last year was held at Augusta.

POSTMASTERS GET LONG TERMS BILL

Senate Votes To Give Eight Years to First Three Classes.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—(AP) The senate adopted today a bill providing for appiontment of first, second and third-class pastmasters for eight-year terms. The vote was 49 to 20.

The measure went back to the house for action on senate amendments tightening civil service restrictions on the appointments. Postmasters now are appointed for four-year terms.

The bill was an amended version of a measure introduced by Representative Ramspeck, Democrat, Georgia.

The senate substituted it for a measure by Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, which, opponents said, would have revived the "spoils system" of postmaster appointments by relaxing civil service requirements.

'Not One Quarrel in 50 Years,' Ford Says on Golden Anniversary

Party Also Marks 71st Birthday of Manufacturer's Wife.

DETROIT, April 11.—(AP)—Henry Ford and Clara Bryant Ford went to a party tonight—a party that commemorated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding and Mrs. Ford's seventy-first birthday.

Hosts were their son and daughter-in-law, Edsel and Eleanor Ford, in the younger Fords' home in Grosse Pointe Shores. Several hundred friends, old and new, were invited to honor the couple who began their married life in a farm house not far from where stands the parent plant of the great Ford Motor Company.

In his 50 years of marriage, Ford said tonight, he never had an argument with Mrs. Ford—"not one."

"Who did the yielding?" he was asked.

"We never had any trouble; neither of use ever did any yielding," he replied.

Ford said that besides picking out a "good wife," it was important to "pick a good mother-in-law." Of his own, Martha Bryant, he said: "She always believed in me. She always believed in my experiments."

Ford recalled that he wore a "Prince Albert" at his wedding, that he had no best man and also that there was no honeymoon.

The Ford grandchildren and other members of the family were among those at tonight's reception.

MRS. HENRY FORD.

Old Detroit was prominently represented in the guest list, along with a number of public officials and leaders in the automotive world.

Many Dinner Parties.

A number of separate dinner parties were held in Grosse Pointe, Dearborn and elsewhere in the Detroit metropolitan area, with a buffet supper in the Edsel Ford home. The large drawing room of the home was decorated with white roses, lilies and sprays of white orchids.

Several hundred friends and acquaintances received invitations to the party, exact details of which were carefully guarded throughout the day to provide a "surprise" for Mr. and Mrs. Ford. Henry Ford earlier had said he was not acquainted with plans for the reception other than that "Edsel and Eleanor had fixed up something."

Aside from the elaborate floral decorations, largely a tribute to Mrs. Ford's love of flowers, simplicity was planned in keeping with Mr. Ford's personal life.

Spend Day Together.

Tonight's reception followed a day in which Mr. and Mrs. Ford spent much of the time together at their home, Fairlane, in Dearborn. Here, across the highway from the Ford engineering laboratory and his early American village, floral tributes and telegrams of felicitation arrived throughout the day. Many of the florists' boxes that arrived contained exactly 50 roses.

Tomorrow evening Mr. and Mrs. Ford will be honored publicly at a ceremony arranged in Dearborn by the city's service clubs. Special invitations also have been issued for this ceremony, scheduled to be held in Ford's reproduction of Independence Hall in his early American village.

The highlight of this ceremony will be the presentation to Ford of bound volume of letters from friends throughout the country. Invited guests include 100 friends and former neighbors of the Fords when they started their life partnership in Greenfield village.

WAR DEBT GESTURE PLEA IS SUGGESTED

Sir Geoffrey Clarke Talks to British C. of C.

LONDON, April 11.—(AP)—A plea for British "war debts gesture" to the United States was made today by Sir Geoffrey Clarke, president of the Association of British Chambers of Commerce.

"That debt may be tacitly overlooked in the United Kingdom, but it is a very real thing in America," Sir Geoffrey said in an address at Lincoln.

"A gesture towards payment would go far towards allaying suspicions and reviving that confidence in British integrity which is our great pride."

fully" elected delegates who favored the unification move.

Characterizing the plan as unfair, un-Democratic and un-Christian, Fort said "those who sustain the church are not going to let the powers that be run roughshod over us."

John J. Jones, of Waynesboro, suggested that the general conference be enjoined from taking a vote, claiming it is contrary to church law as interpreted by those who have a right to know."

Court Action Planned.

Other leaders asserted their intention of taking the question into the courts in the event the plan goes through.

"As long as we live we're going to fight," W. N. Banks, businessman of Newnan, declared. "Unification would mean disruption of the southern Methodist church.

"It would split it wide open and leave scars as long as we live," he added. "We'll have endless litigation in the courts if the plan is approved. We must not be merged into a church of divergent views. It would mean disunion—not union."

"What profit will there be and to whom from the rising tide of ill-will and resentment on the part of the laymen against the absorption of the southern church into a new organization, with no safeguards to protect the southern members and with absolute control placed in a body where the majority control will be in the present northern Methodist church?" Hatton Lovejoy, of La-Grange, asked.

Former Governor John M. Slaton spoke briefly, declaring "when you find churches with such divergent views as ours, it is unwise to unite them." Supreme Court Justice John B. Hutcheson was also among those who expressed opposition to unification.

Bishop Warren A. Candler, Bishop Collins Denny and John A. Manget drew frequent praise from the speakers for their leadership in the opposition movement.

Seals Aiken, of Atlanta, charged that "the radicals of the present day are again seeking control of our church," adding that "they are concealing their true purposes in an effort to first obtain complete control."

Judge James C. Davis, of Stone Mountain, pointed out that more than 3,000 signatures protesting unification had been received at Atlanta headquarters since last Friday.

RUSSELL SEEKS TAX ON IMPORTED JUTE

Urges Senate To Adopt Measure Giving Cotton Equal Advantages.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Pointing out that importations of jute have nearly doubled in the past six years, Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., of Georgia, has again urged his colleagues to adopt some measure giving cotton, the south's most important agricultural product, equal competitive advantages.

The Georgia senator insisted that if congress restores a process tax on cotton, as proposed in an amendment to the new tax bill offered by Senator Pope, of Idaho, a comparable tax be imposed on jute, thus maintaining the present competitive condition between the two fibers. Both proposals were rejected in the senate, but the whole matter of processing taxes is expected to come up in the house, which is yet to act finally on the bill.

"Cotton farmers would be selling what should be the sacred birthright of their domestic market for a mere pittance," Senator Russell said, "if we levied a processing tax on cotton and thereby caused a great shift to the consumption of jute."

Joining in the discussion of the proposed processing taxes, Senator George, of Georgia, in supporting the position of his colleague, told the chamber that despite some of the contrary representations made every informed person knew that "there is not a single use for jute, so far as wrapping any American product is concerned, that cannot be as well served by cotton."

Reviewing the steady increase in jute imports Senator Russell charged that activities of the American jute trust are responsible for the failure of congress to provide proper competitive conditions for cotton.

Text of Roosevelt's Message On Problems of the Railroads

WASHINGTON, April 11.—(AP) The text of President Roosevelt's message to congress on the railroad problem:

To the congress of the United States:

During the past month I have consulted with a large number of individuals on the increasingly difficult problem of our railroad transportation. As the congress is aware, the relationship of the federal government to the railroads has been for 50 years through the medium of the Interstate Commerce Commission. This distinguished body was originally set up with the primary purpose of ending serious abuses on the part of the carriers, such as rebating and cut-throat competition.

As the years went by the congress from time to time has extended the authority of the Interstate Commerce Commission, vesting in it other quasi-legislative and quasi-judicial powers and giving to it also a number of purely executive functions. While the latter powers are, in all probability, unconstitutional in that they create executive authority in a fourth branch of the government instead of in the President, I do not at this time raise that issue because for the present it is more important for all of us to co-operate in preventing serious bankruptcies among a large number of railroad companies, great and small.

I invited Chairman Splawn, of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and Commissioners Eastman and Mahaffie to present, somewhat hurriedly and informally, recommendations relating to this serious situation—and I have kept the chairmen of the appropriate committees of the senate and house of representatives informed of the report.

$300,000,000 in Loans Urged Immediately.

Summarized, the three members of the Interstate Commerce Commission recommend as a means of immediate relief the following:

1. That approximately $300,000,000 be made available from government funds for the purchase of railroad equipment, the equipment to be the security for the advance.
2. That for 12 months the Reconstruction Finance Corporation be empowered to make loans without certification by the Interstate Commerce Commission that the railroad can meet its fixed charges.
3. That other forms of government credit be considered from the point of view of public policy.
4. That government traffic pay the full rate by eliminating land grant reductions.
5. That the commission does not feel justified in expressing an opinion for or against reduction of railroad wages.
6. That reorganization procedure under Section 77, of the bankruptcy act receive the attention of the congress, and they suggest consideration of the establishment of a single court in charge of reorganizations.

Transportation Board For Two Years Sought.

The long-term program suggested by the commissioners includes:

1. That a federal transportation authority be created for two years to plan and promote action by railroad companies to eliminate waste, aid consolidation and co-ordination.
2. That the Interstate Commerce Act be amended to broaden the powers of the commission with respect to pooling of earnings or traffic, to eliminate "the consolidation plan" and to approve unifications; that the authority be permitted to intervene in such proceedings before the commission, and make recommendations through the commission to the President and the congress.
3. That the authority investigate economy and all types of transportation, encourage special fitness and abate destructive competition.
4. That attention be given to railroad financial abuses now under investigation.

The full report of the three members of the Interstate Commerce Commission is transmitted herewith, and I am transmitting also certain comments which have been made by others with whom I have talked:

(A) Letter to the President from the secretary of the treasury, March 25, 1938.

(B) Letter to the President from the chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, March 28, 1938.

(C) Letter to the President from the chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, March 28, 1938.

(D) Memorandum to the President from Assistant Secretary of Commerce Ernest G. Draper, March 29, 1938.

(E) Memorandum to the President from the administrator of farm security, March 31, 1938.

(F) Memorandum to the President from Henry Bruere, president of the Bowery Savings Bank, New York city.

(G) Memorandum to the President from J. J. Pelley, president, Association of American Railroads, April 4, 1938.

(H) Letter to the President from George M. Harrison, president, Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, April 2, 1938.

(I) Statistical data from the Interstate Commerce Commission relating to revenues and expenses of transportation in the United States in the year 1936, separated between types of transport.

President Opposes Federal Ownership.

Insofar as information in regard to the railroad problem is concerned, there is probably no other subject to which the congress, year after year, has devoted more study or obtained more information. The troubles of the railroads are not new, but they have been getting, on the whole, steadily more difficult since before the World War. It is true that a general upturn in business would undoubtedly help to keep many railroads from actual receivership. But it is also true that resumption of traffic at last year's level would not solve their growing difficulties permanently.

Most of us have definite objection to government subsidies to the railroads to enable them to meet the interest on their outstanding bonds or for any other purpose, and most of us also oppose government ownership and operation of the railroads. I do.

The suggestions made by the three members of the Interstate Commerce Commission should, of course, be read in the light of the comments thereon made in the letters appended thereto.

I ask your special consideration of the fact that matters relating to transportation in its wider sense are now dealt with by the following departments or agencies of the government:

1. Bureau of Public Roads of the Department of Agriculture.
2. The Bureau of Air Commerce of the Department of Commerce.
3. The United States Maritime Commission.
4. The division of transportation of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce of the Department of Commerce.
5. The Interstate Commerce Commission.
6. The lighthouse service of the Department of Commerce.
7. The Bureau of Navigation and Marine Inspection of the Department of Commerce.

These agencies deal with special phases of transportation rather than the transportation problem in its broader national aspect. Some of the functions are executive, some are legislative, some are judicial.

Suggests Transfer Of I. C. C. Authority.

From the point of view of business efficiency, such as a private corporation would seek, it would seem to be the part of common sense to place all executive functions relating to transportation in one federal department—such as the Department of Commerce, the Department of the Interior or some other old or new department. At the same time all quasi-judicial and quasi-legislative matters relating to all transportation could properly be placed under an independent commission—a reorganized Interstate Commerce Commission. And such action would be highly constitutional.

I refer to this, not by way of recommendation, but only as one method which should receive congressional study.

In the meantime, and until it has been possible for the congress to make any and all studies for permanent solution of the railroad problem, some immediate legislation is, I believe, necessary at this session, in order to prevent serious financial and operating difficulties between now and the convening of the next congress.

TOWNSEND DENIED FURTHER APPEAL

Roosevelt Is Only Hope for Advocate of Old-Age Pensions.

WASHINGTON, Apri 11.—(AP) Dr. Francis E. Townsend, elderly advocate of old-age pensions, must serve 30 days in a District of Columbia jail unless President Roosevelt intervenes in his behalf.

The supreme court declined today to interfere with his conviction of contempt of the house of representatives, thus removing his last hope of reprieve by the courts.

The gray, 71-year-old Californian had appealed to the high tribunal after the court of appeals of the District of Columbia upheld his sentence and fine, imposed by the District of Columbia district court.

Townsend walked out of a house committee room on May 21, 1936, during an investigation of his pension organization. He accused the committeemen of being "unfair" and "unfriendly."

Dr. Townsend's present location was not immediately determined. Elisha Hanson, his counsel, said he thought he was in Philadelphia or "somewhat south." He added that Townsend would present himself to Washington authorities "at the right time." Hanson estimated two weeks would be required to arrange for Townsend's commitment.

Representative O'Connell, Democrat, Montana, recently asked President Roosevelt to pardon Dr. Townsend, asserting that to "persecute a man who, with sincerity and honesty, attempted to give security to old age in the country is undemocratic and unAmerican."

The high court consented to pass upon the right of the federal government to tax admissions to sports contests at state universities.

The government appealed to the high tribunal after the fifth circuit court of appeals had decided that the levy was unconstitutional as applied to athletic events at Georgia Tech and the University of Georgia.

TOWNSEND TO LEAVE FOR JAIL TERM

SAN FRANCISCO, April 11.—(AP)—Dr. Francis E. Townsend, elderly sponsor of the $200-a-month old-age pension plan, said today he would leave before the end of the week for Washington to begin serving a 30-day jail sentence for contempt of a house of representatives committee.

"I'll end the rest of my days in jail if a house committee again ever tries to take away the rights guaranteed to me as an American citizen as they did upon the occasion which has resulted in this jail sentence," the 71-year-old doctor said.

He declared he would refuse to pay his $100 fine, "even if I have to serve additional time."

LAGUARDIA IMAGES NEW TRADE PLAN

Proposes Broad Expansion Program in Central and South Americas.

NEW YORK, April 11.—(AP)—A broad government-subsidized trade expansion program with Central and South America was proposed tonight by Mayor La-Guardia.

Many political observers interpreted the speech as a bid for the presidency. It was broadcast nationally.

The mayor asserted European and Oriental nations, "particularly those under dictatorships," had "invaded the Latin American republics and captured our markets."

This country, he added, should be prepared to act boldly to "remove the danger of improper European and Oriental encroachment in the western hemisphere;" should help make "the Americas for the Americans."

"Of course," he said, "some countries won't like it—some of the countries who boast of violating every principle known to civilization. What are they going to do about it?"

Put briefly, his proposal was this: An immediate survey of present and possible needs in Central and South America," this government to place orders for the manufacture of the export goods found to be saleable.

"The range of the goods required for export would be unusually broad," he said. "They would come from every section of the country. Funds for this purpose can, and must be made available.

"Fair and reasonable prices, based on production costs and a fair profit, should be paid for these manufactured goods. A government agency could properly allocate these orders to factories and farm agencies all over the country," he declared.

INLAND STEEL ASKS BARGAINING DELAY

Company Waits Upholding of NLRB Order by Courts.

CHICAGO, April 11.—(AP)—The Inland Steel Corporation announced today it would petition the United States court of appeals to set aside last week's National Labor Relations Board ruling, which ordered the company to sign any collective bargaining agreement reached with CIO's Steel Workers Organizing Committee.

In a letter to Leonard C. Bajork, regional director of the labor board, Inland's attorneys stated the company had "taken no steps to comply with the board's order and will take no such steps until the order has been upheld by the courts."

RAILROAD CRISIS PUT UP TO CONGRESS

F. D. R. Advisers Recommend $300,000,000 Loan for Rails.

Splawn, Joseph B. Eastman and Charles D. Mahaffie.

Morgenthau "Disappointed."

While Mr. Roosevelt expressed no opinion on the advisability of these proposals, various of his aides did so in letters to the President which the latter attached to his message to congress.

Secretary Morgenthau said he was "disappointed" and thought the program represented an "overcautious approach." He opposed the creation of the temporary federal transportation authority and urged instead the creation of a permanent department of transportation.

Chairman Jesse H. Jones, of the RFC, generally concurred, but suggested government loans to help the roads reduce their fixed charges, such loans to be at interest rates "substantially" below those the roads now pay. He stressed a need for the elimination of "cut-throat competition", and unnecessary duplication of services.

Chairman William O. Douglas, of the Securities and Exchange Commission, thought the long-term program "sound" except where it concerned the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission. He said the recommendations for immediate action "fall short of meeting the immediate crisis."

Intelligent Force and Brutality Is Loose, He Writes—Seems More Like a Dream or a Play Than Life in 1938.

By RALPH McGILL.

LONDON, England—(By Mail)—Last night I had dinner with a man who had escaped from Vienna one hour ahead of Hitler's troops and the closing of the border.

We had the dinner at a home, in one of the quiet and better residential sections, with one of the city's well-known men. Because my passport identifies me as a newspaperman, I have as yet been unable to go into Austria. This man had just come out.

He is about 50 years old. He is a cultured, educated, intelligent man and was a successful lawyer in Vienna. He had been in politics as head of a pacifist party. His name was on the German concentration camp list. He knew it. The Nazi government does not like pacifists. They preach the doctrine of war and the beauty and glory of moaning out one's life with a piece of iron blown through one's stomach or both eyes burned out with mustard gas. They do not care for peace or those who espouse it in politics.

The man's wife was along. A friend in the Austrian government had called him on the telephone and told him of what was coming. He didn't wait. He and his wife, taking what they could, got in their car and drove for the border. They made it by an hour.

"My mother is there," he said. "She could not leave. I do not know if they have harmed her. My wife's mother is there. We have heard nothing from them."

As we sat there talking over coffee at the table, the telephone rang. The two men exchanged glances.

The businessman got up and went to the telephone.

No one said anything.

LIKE A PLAY—
CAN'T BE 1938

I kept thinking it was like a play. This couldn't be 1938. This couldn't be a world in which a people were being driven from their homes, murdered, flung into concentration camps, their property appropriatad, their bank accounts taken, their work in their professions prohibited. It was like a play. There we all sat talking and a telephone had rung.

The businessman came back. His face was set.

"I am sorry," he said to the refugee, "but the call was that —— killed himself today."

There was silence for a moment. The refugee, to whom the thing was not a play but harsh reality, swung his head back and forth.

"I don't believe it. He was not the man to kill himself. Unless, of course, he was treated so brutally that death would be a relief."

There was silence again. That feeling of unreality came over me again. It was impossible. I was sitting in a home in England with a man who had fled for his freedom and possibly his life and that a telephone had rung and the suicide of a friend in Vienna announced over the wires. But it was.

"IT WAS SUCH A HAPPY COUNTRY"

"It was such a happy country," said the refugee, breaking the silence. "We understand why people don't comprehend. It just is not possible to conceive that such people and such deeds are possible. People in other lands believe the stories are exaggerated, they think of them as something having no reality because they are far away.

"Many of the reported suicides are not suicides. I know people who saw the body of Major Emil Fey. He was the first of the announced suicides. He was my close friend. Often he had dined at my home. They said he killed himself and his wife and son. I will never believe it. These friends who saw his body said he had three bullet wounds in his head. Does a suicide shoot himself three times in the head?"

There sat a man who had achieved success in his profession. He lived a quiet, decent life; working for the cause of peace. Troops marched. A government fell, and the work of a lifetime was wiped out. He took it well. Now he must sell what has been left at what prices he can get. He may not bring any of the money out of Austria. No person leaving Germany or Austria may bring out more than 10 marks more than they take into the country.

TRAVELERS DRAGGED FROM TRAINS, SEARCHED

If there is the slightest suspicion, the travelers are taken from the trains and searched to the skin. All the wealth in Germany stays there. Her currency is not on the exchange.

It must not be thought that the Schuschnigg dictatorship was an idyllic one in which freedom flourished, but it was not the dictatorship of Germany.

In considering all these moves in Germany and Austria do not forget that it is built on the young people of both countries who, since the dark days of the war, have had little or no chance to attain economic stability and who now provide the real power of the Nazi regime and the backbone of all demonstrations.

Germany has never put on such pressure as she has put on in Austria, thereby substantiating claims if the Schuschnigg dictatorship had not been overthrown the Austrian chancellor would have been sustained by 80 per cent of the people. It should not be forgotten that he, too, staged frantic street demstrations.

Again, the student of the affairs of central Europe should not fail to notice that the first official act in Austria was to change all the frontier posts into youth hostels and that the first visitors taken from Austria to Germany were young people.

"Give me their first 17 years," says Goebbels, the greatest propagandist in the world and the one who, for a time, almost convinced the people there were but the two alternatives, either Fascism or Communism.

ONLY YOUNGSTERS
OPPOSE SCHUSCHNIGG

I asked the man at dinner, after he had recovered from the shock of the news, about those first demonstrations in Vienna when there was opposition to Schuschnigg's plan for an Austrian plebiscite.

"Only young people," he said, "from about 18 to 25, and even when Hitler came the demonstration was by about 200,000 people, of whom thousands were Germans and 80 per cent were too young to have voted in Schuschnigg's plebiscite, which included only those who were 24 or more years old. The others remained at home."

You may mark this down. Force is loose in the world. Brutality is loose. It is backed by intelligence and careful, methodical planning.

The Democratic governments, termed those "impotent, degenerate forces" by Herr Goebbels, alone stand in the way.

At 60 He Had Earned $135,000—
But Where, Oh, Where Has It Gone?

He'd always been a saver. In his twenties he had regularly laid money aside. Now, at 60, with earnings that totaled $135,000 surely there were savings enough for his old age. But his tragedy was that he hadn't kept what he had saved.

Where had it gone? Depressions . . . here and there poor judgment . . . too much reliance on individual opinions. The usual things that whittled away hard-won savings . . . that left him at 60 no closer to retirement than he'd been a dozen years before.

GEORGIA TO SEEK MORE WPA FUNDS

cities and political subdivisions through the PWA.

Though the city school board is considering a building program on which estimates run from $1,250,000 to $3,300,000 (as recommended by Dr. Thomas H. Reed, municipal expert who made a survey of the city and county governments), no decision on the amount or method of securing it has yet been reached.

Recommendations Made.

The building and grounds committee, however, yesterday recommended that application be made to WPA on the Henry W. Grady (Boys' High and Tech High) plant.

Murdaugh said he and the Governor would go to Washington Sunday to file formal application for the $5,000,000 with Harry L. Hopkins, WPA administrator.

The state plans to supplement this fund with $1,500,000 to be obtained by discounting rentals on the state-owned Western & Atlantic Railroad. The road is leased to the N., C. & St. L. Railway for $540,000 a year.

Tentative plans call for distribution of the funds as follows:

State hospital at Milledgeville, $4,265,000; Alto tubercular sanatorium, $1,000,000; Boys' Training school, at Milledgville, $600,000; Girls' Training school at Atlanta, $100,000; School for the Blind at Macon, $65,000; Grace School for Mental Defectives, $70,000, and Cave Spring school for the Deaf $75,000.

Sewer Funds.

Commissioner Longino declared the county may apply for more funds for a lateral sewer program, "if the government does not require the county to put up too large a portion."

This sewer system would be in addition to the trunk line system with disposal plants now nearing completion.

The city of Atlanta is applying for about $350,000 of WPA money to build a new armory, remodel Taft hall at the city auditorium and to develop the auditorium park if it is acquired. Plans have already been drawn and are ready for submission to WPA officials in Washington.

Four alternative building programs were discussed by the building and grounds committee of the city board of education yesterday afternoon.

All contemplate elimination of portable classrooms at the Grady school and Maddox and Murphy Junior High schools and other improvements. Board members postponed any recommendations pending a special board meeting to be called sometime this month to consider the full report of Dr. Reed.

INDIAN AUTHORITY SUCCUMBS IN N. Y.

Dr. Grinnell, 88, 'Father of Conservation,' Dies.

NEW YORK, April 11.—(AP)—Dr. George Bird Grinnell, 88, who often was called "the father of conservation" and the greatest living authority on the plains Indians, died today after several years' illness.

An heir to the tradition of John James Audubon, artist and pioneer American naturalist, Dr. Grinnell founded the Audubon Society for the Protection of Birds in 1886 and participated in organizing the Boone and Crockett Club in 1887 and the American Game Association in 1911.

From the Boone and Crockett Club stemmed the New York Zoological Society, of which Dr. Grinnell was an original trustee. He selected the site of the present zoological park.

SLAYING SUSPECTS SOUGHT ON BORDER

Hunt for Torture-Killers Centers on Laredo.

EL PASO, Texas, April 11.—(AP) The search for an elusive blonde woman and her male companion, suspects in the torture-slaying of Mrs. Weston G. Frome, and her daughter, Nancy, narrowed down tonight to the vicinity of Laredo on the Mexican border.

While Texas rangers and peace officers bottled up highways in an attempt to trap the pair, a woman arrested at Temple, Texas, was released after questioning by state police at Austin. Sergeant Massengale said she had no connection with the case.

At Laredo, C. Mendiola, chief of police, said he believed the pair, driving a dark automobile filled with luggage, were in the tightening police net.

Sluggings, Shootings Raise Curtain On Stormy Illinois Primary Today

CHICAGO, April 11.—(AP)—A quarterless fight for domination of the Democratic party in Illinois pits Governor Henry Horner's organization against the Kelly-Nash faction in state-wide primary elections tomorrow.

A force of 5,000 regular and special police and at least 6,000 watchers was recruited for duty at Chicago polls.

Both factions joined in the unusual precautions against violence amid reports of two sluggings and a shooting and conflicting interpretations of the election laws.

National Committee Chairman P. A. Nash, who shares leadership of the Chicago organization with Mayor Edward J. Kelly, instructed his watchers to challenge Republican voters who seek to cast a Democratic ballot. Nash contended all who voted Republican in the 1936 primary must do likewise in this election. Governor Horner appealed to Republicans to aid in "smashing the Kelly-Nash machine" by switching to the Democratic side. Horner and the Chicago board of election commissioners insisted such action was permissable.

Republican chieftains urged the G. O. P. faithful to stay out of the Democratic struggle and compile a huge vote as a protest against the New Deal in the nation's first primary.

POLICE ARREST SIX IN THEFT RING DRIVE

Thousands of Dollars Worth of Merchandise Stolen From Truck Lines.

Efforts to smash a ring said to have victimized trucking companies of thousands of dollars worth of merchandise during the past six months reached a climax with the arrest of six persons, police disclosed last night.

The arrests followed two months' investigation by Detectives Dock Sims and R. T. Denny, who followed a twisting trail that led all over the city and ended at a clothing store at Courtland and Cain streets.

Those arrested were listed as Fred Fillingame, 40, of 1013 Euclid avenue, operator of the store; his wife, Bertha, 34; D. B. Tyson, 24, of 110 Harris street; Cobb Hunter, 23, of 512 Grant street; Jacobs Smoke, 26, of 126 Cain street, reportedly a West Indian, all employed at the Fillingame establishment, and John Gates, 27, negro, of 316 Auburn avenue.

Gates Sent to Jail.

Gates was charged with suspicion of larceny and sent to the county jail. The others were charged with suspicion of receiving and selling stolen goods.

The Fillingames and Tyson, who denied the charges, obtained writs of habeas corpus, following their arrest last Friday. Proceedings on the writs will be heard at 10:30 o'clock this morning before Judge Ralph McClelland, of municipal court.

Police said they arrested Gates on Spring street as he was loading $40 worth of shirts from a truck of the Miller Express Company into his own small truck.

A short time after Gates' arrest, Detective Sims went to the Fillingame store and purchased from Hunter two overcoats which they charged had been stolen from a vehicle of the New York Trucking Company. The loss occurred as the truck was bound for Canton, Ga.

Others Taken Rapidly.

The others were arrested in rapid succession, Sims and Denny, accompanied by Detectives Leo Nahlik and R. R. Bradford, first going to the Fillingame home and then to homes of the others.

Smoke, according to the detectives, was recently released from a federal penitentiary, after serving a one-year term for forging money orders. Police said he would be turned over to federal authorities.

Gates also would be turned over to federal authorities for alleged interstate commerce violations in connection with his charge, an agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation said.

Hunter will be arraigned in recorder's court this week.

The charged thefts involved men's, women's and children's wearing apparel mainly, the detectives said. They listed as victims the Northern Trucking Company, Central Truck Lines and the Transportation Company, besides the other firms.

The detectives said thefts between $1,000 and $3,000 a month had occurred during a six-month period, and that loads they charged Gates took averaged from $25 to $100.

According to police records here, Smoke's career includes arrests for burglary, embezzlement, vagrancy, carrying weapons and other offenses.

Gates was sentenced here in 1926 to 20 years for burglary, and was paroled in 1934. In 1935 he was arrested on a larceny charge. Tyson, Fillingame and Gates are in the county jail, and Hunter and Smoke are in the city jail. Mrs. Fillingame is at liberty under $300 bond.

EDUCATORS AND THE STATE

Atlanta will be host this week to the educators of Georgia. They come, from rural schools and city institutions, to review the progress made in education in Georgia during the past year and to map their path for the coming year. Their organization, the Georgia Education Association, has been in the forefront of the fight for improved facilities and practice since its inception. Operating now under a new constitution which permits of greater service in the modern era, they look forward to a more fruitful future.

Despite the advances made in the field of education in Georgia with additional funds provided by the general assembly, much remains to be accomplished. It is to the teachers of the state that citizens generally look for the impetus to wider service in all the concepts of a modern system. No longer is it necessary for children in isolated areas to reach maturity clothed in abysmal ignorance. Motor transportation and better roads have reached into the fastnesses of illiteracy. Better-trained teachers have worked faithfully, despite low salaries, to bring to all the benefits of knowledge, which is a sword to slash the knot of poverty. With education comes the enlightenment and the wider horizon necessary to greater earning capacity.

It is largely in education, elementary and adult, that the future of Georgia and of the south lies. Without universal education, continued beyond childhood and the elementary reading and writing courses, it is impossible to attain the diversified economy so necessary to the growth of the state. Modern farming requires education for its intelligent application. The coming of industries cannot be fostered unless these balancing factors are provided an educated labor supply. Modern manufacturing requires workmen capable of craft training, which can only be assimilated after basic learning enables a ready grasp of intricate machines.

So it is more than a general convention assembling in this city. It is upon this group Georgia must depend for leadership in one of the most important fields of state growth. The teachers will find Atlanta a city with a ready appreciation of their problems and the great, disinterested services they render.

"SUFFER LITTLE CHILDREN . . ."

Throughout the nation today thousands of children are suffering. Some physical pain, from crippled limbs. Others mental anguish—their twisted limbs make them different from their fellows and happy play cannot be their lot. To relieve and correct these faults among Georgia children, the Georgia Crippled Children's League and the Fulton County Crippled Children's Society are conducting an Easter seal sale, similar to the Christmas seal sale to combat tuberculosis.

Proceeds of the sale will be used to meet the needs of crippled children in the state through co-operation with public and private agencies in providing medical and surgical treatment, educational guidance and placement in useful employment.

"To come unto Me. . . ." At Easter the words of the Christ ring once again. These little children can be saved a lifetime of agony and helplessness through the contributions of those more fortunate beings who have lived a normal life. Most of these crippled children can be restored to full health through treatment and surgery.

"And forbid them not. . . ." The Easter seals sell for one cent each. One hundred for a dollar. Each dollar can be matched with state and federal funds to swell the money available for the rescue of a human life. Blue, white and gold, depicting a small crippled girl watering an Easter lily, the seals are being offered through many of Fulton's great civic organizations, which have urged that all contribute to one of the greatest of humanitarian causes. . . .

SPEECH WITHOUT KNOWLEDGE

A course in elementary military and naval tactics might well be required of congressmen who insist on spreading their views on national defense before the country. An interesting example of this need is presented in the recent statement of Representative Maverick, of Texas, that large coastal cities of the United States would be abandoned in event of a major conflict. He has been answered, and quite properly, by Major General George Van Horn Moseley, commander of the fourth corps area.

General Moseley answered in general terms, without explaining in any detail, the error of reasoning inherent in Maverick's statement. As a general officer of the army, it is out of his province to take the congressman strictly to task for his statement.

However, with the many loose remarks being made about the danger to the United States from an imaginary invasion, it is high time the public realized the task an enemy nation would face in attempting punitive bombing or assault of the shores of the United States.

In the first instance, it must be remembered that few nations, or possible combinations of nations, possess sufficient naval strength to overcome the sea power of this nation. Particularly so when our shores lie thousands of miles from their bases of operation. It would be necessary, unless a suicidal foray was launched, for the attacking fleet to capture a base within striking distance. Few ships, and these capital ships, have a wide enough range to accomplish even this purpose. These battleships would have to face the entire United States fleet for, while lighter vessels might accompany the ships of the line, they would not be able to return, without difficult refueling operations, in the event their purpose was not accomplished.

If, under an outside chance, this base of operations was established, the range of attack would be extremely limited and the object of attack would scarcely be seacoast towns. Military objectives, generally speaking, are not located in coastal cities. If bombing of civilians was the major objective, and seacoast towns were the main point of attack, still to be reckoned with would be the combined army and naval air forces.

Representative Maverick, being from Texas, sports a ten-gallon hat and, in this instance, speaks through it.

NO RIFT IN THE SOUTH

The opinion emanating from London to the effect that the President's Gainesville speech foreshadowed, if, indeed, it did not actually suggest, a cleavage in the Democratic party of the south, is based on an inaccurate appraisal of the facts. It should be taken with an extra large grain of salt.

It sets up the false premise that a rift between the conservative and the New Deal elements would inure to the benefit of some particular faction within the party organiaztion.

No man in public life familiar with the problems of this section of the country, least of all a man of Mr. Roosevelt's political acumen, could be so rash as to imagine there could be any advantage, either to the party or to himself, in such a movement. Even as a pure gamble, it's simply not in the cards.

The foundation of the Democratic party in the south is built far down into the bedrock of conservatism. Any effort to separate the New Deal structure from this foundation would probably destroy the building and leave the foundation as solid as ever.

Some New Deal lieutenants may fail to recognize this fact. It is believed, however, that the President and other influential leaders of the party are fully cognizant of it.

The south is not inimical to change; is, in fact, changing all the time. But, because of problems peculiar to it, no sudden upheaval in the political, economic and social life of the section is desirable.

With great historical events clamoring for newspaper space, the seven-day wonder at the southern baseball camps was cut this year to three editions.

The songwriters have been slow to come through with an on-to-recovery lyric, as no way has been found to rhyme "confidence" with "moon."

Being short enough to make Il Duce seem tall by comparison is the smartest thing Victor Emanuel ever did.

Editorial of the Day

WHAT OF THE FOREIGN CORRESPONDENTS

(From The Montgomery Advertiser.)

More than a dozen of the British and American foreign correspondents in Vienna have been forced to flee for their lives. They have gone to Prague, Budapest, Geneva, or Paris.

Perhaps the most brilliant of all the Viennese correspondents was M. W. Fodor, author of the excellent book, "Plot and Counterplot in Central Europe." Few persons know more about the political, social and economic life of Central Europe than Mr. Fodor, the correspondent of The Manchester Guardian. But he has had to leave since the Nazi conquest.

A correspondent of the International News Service was arrested, his passport was confiscated. Fortunately, the United States Legation was able to obtain his release, and his organization transferred him to the Paris office.

Perhaps the most amazing experience the correspondents had was on the day Hitler made his address in Vienna. Fifty-five writers were invited to call by the chancellery to receive special press cards so that they might hear Hitler at close range. As they started out of the building they were stopped by a soldier who blocked the door. He announced that he had orders to shoot anyone who attempted to pass. The correspondents protested; the Austrian official to whom they had reported for their cards was obviously embarrassed. He apologized profusely, and said that he was sorry he had no refreshments to offer. Finally the correspondents got hold of the American and British ministers, who demanded their release. When they finally emerged from their temporary prison, the Fuehrer's speech was finished.

The correspondents who work in Berlin, Rome, Moscow and Vienna are terribly handicapped. In the first place, they cannot depend upon officials to give them accurate information. If they depend upon natives to help them gather information they remain in constant fear that their informants will be arrested or liquidated. More than one correspondent in Berlin is known to have suffered a nervous breakdown under the guelling work.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

"SHOCK TROOPS" DESERT WASHINGTON, April 11.—The cruelest incident of the defeat of the President's beloved reorganization bill was not the rebellion of 108 fractious Democrats. It was the desertion of the New Deal by six Wisconsin Progressives, whose votes would have given the President the victory.

Since 1932, these men have served as the shock troops of the New Deal. With a handful of New Deal left-wingers like Representative Maury Maverick, of Texas, they have shared the peculiar distinction of being the only members of the house who really believed in the whole New Deal program. And now they have refused to give the President a "vote of confidence," as Speaker Bankhead called it.

Their action has only one meaning. In the months of stagnation since the new depression began, the President has lost his hold not only on the middle-class groups represented by the 108 rebelling members of his own party. He has also fallen from favor among those left-liberal and Progressive voters whom he has always most cherished, to whose desires he has always lent his most attentive ear.

There was a tragic irony in the Progressives' desertion of the President. The President had waited all winter to act, hoping against hope for better times, uncertain what his action should be. And then, only two days before the vote on the reorganization bill, he allowed it to become known that he would spend again, that he would act at last. But action had been delayed too long.

POLITICIANS IN BUSKINS There was a deal of drama in the vote on the reorganization bill. That same afternoon the senate finance committee's tax bill moved toward passage in the senate. While Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, whom the President had not thought obedient enough to be his senate majority leader, was sipping the cup of revenge in one chamber, Representative John J. O'Connor, of New York, who had suffered a similar rebuff, was draining the same delicious draught in the other.

The presence on the hill of every member of the administration capable of putting pressure on house members, the milling crowd on the floor, the mob of political voyeurs in the galleries, the worried leaders circulating among their men—all these lent a peculiar excitement, a special tenseness to the scene. But the most dramatic incident occurred unseen when the President's friends went to the Progressives to make a last plea.

Such men as Representative Maverick, such friendly big-wigs as Majority Leader Sam Rayburn, worked hard to bring the Progressives around. Their theme was simple. "Roosevelt is our man," they said. "This bill means nothing. This is a vote of confidence, and, if you vote against the bill, you simply vote against your man."

The Progressives returned a simple answer. "You mean he was our man," they said. "But, after these last months, he is no longer. We haven't deserted him. He's deserted us."

No doubt, politics being what it is, the administration's backing of a regular Democrat, Senator F. Ryan Duffy, for re-election from Wisconsin, had something to do with the Progressive feeling. But that their basic motive was a bitter resentment against months of inaction in bad times is amply attested by the fact that they were joined by two Minnesota Farmer-Laborites.

THE FUTURE It is fruitless now to wonder why the President did wait so long. From the start of the depression it was predicted in this space that the President would spend in the end, but that he would wait until he was forced to do so by the unkind pressure of events. He would not even have promised a spending program so soon, had not the latest and most dreadful collapse in the stock market really frightened both him and the conservatives around him who had held his spending hand.

But the important question is, what effect will his long delay have now? Will the bitterness of such men as the Progressives continue? Will the fractiousness of the President's orthodox partisan followers resist the soothing influence of the spending program? Will his defeat cause the fumbling uncertainty of the last months to surge up again within the President, or will he be able to act decisively in spite of the shattering experience of public repudiation by his followers?

TENTATIVE ANSWERS The great questions posed by the future can be only half answered. Immediately after the reorganization vote, "high quarters" attributed the administration's defeat to "wicked propagandists and lobbyists." After all, the propagandist machinations of Mr. Frank Gannett could have had little effect on the six Wisconsin Progressives. The President officially took a more realistic attitude when he informed Majority Leader Rayburn that the killing of the bill offered "no occasion for personal recrimination and there should be none." This seemed to recognize that the house vote expressed a fundamental discontent throughout the country.

And, in congress, it seems probable that the damage of the months of delay cannot soon be repaired. Once men have left the reservation, it is as hard to bring them back as it is to woo an escaped canary into its cage. Even the promise of lavish spending has a wearisomely repetitious echo in it, and there does not seem to be any other issue on which the President can rally his former followers to his faded standard.

Anything can happen, but it does not seem a bad prediction that, even on the pending program, congress will rebel, and, while voting the money, refuse a blank check. On a broader front, the angriest anti-New Dealers may have reason to regret the reorganization bill vote, for it will infuse every effort to deal with the depression with the poisons of confusion, disunion and indecision.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES

I wanted a subject to write about,
Sought it through all media,
Finally found it, with victory shout,
In the encyclopedia.

Looking For a Topic.

In desperate need of a topic for the column today. Tried various hitherto prolific sources without avail. Finally stuck right hand on to a shelf at random and took down that volume of the encyclopedia entitled "Birds of Paradise to Bulfinch."

Opened anywhere and discovered a resume of the life of Thomas Bowdler. Ever hear of him? He gave the English language a new word, "bowdlerism," the synonym for senseless expurgation. He was an Englishman, born in 1754, died in 1825. Here's how his chief memorial came into being:

"In 1818 he published "The Family Shakespeare," in 10 volumes; in which nothing is added to the original text; but those words and expressions are omitted which cannot with propriety be read aloud in a family. The work had a large sale, and was long popular, despite the ridicule it brought down upon the head of its over-prudish editor, who had the happiness or unhappiness to add permanently to the English tongue the word "bowdlerism" as a synonym for senseless expurgation. The last years of Bowdler's life were given to the task of preparing an expurgated edition of Gibbon's "History."

So Turned A Few Pages

That was interesting. So turned a few pages of the encyclopedia and came to Zachary Boyd, Scottish divine, born about 1586, died about 1653.

In 1629 he published his principal prose work, "The Last Battell of the Soule in Death; whereby are shown the Diverse Skirmishes that are between the Soule of Man on his Deathbed and the enemies of our Salvation carefully digested for the Comfort of the Sicke."

He published various other works, chiefly devotional, and left a large quantity of manuscript writings, which are preserved in the Glasgow College library. Among the latter is one entitled "Zion's Flowers," consisting of poems on select subjects of Scripture history. It is popularly called "Zachary Boyd's Bible," and although it abounds in homely and ludicrous passages, it is not without a fine strain of devotional feeling.

American Inventor.

American, invented patent leather? He was a native of Massachusetts, born in 1785. This is part of what the reliable encyclo. has to say about him:

"He was brought up on a farm and attended a district school. Mechanically inclined, he spent much time experimenting in a blacksmith shop. His first invention was a machine for making nails, and in 1809 he undertook to manufacture both nails and files.

"Soon afterward he invented a machine for splitting leather, and in 1815, he took it to Newark, N. J., where he engaged in the leather business. In 1816 he invented a machine for cutting brads, and followed this by the invention of patent leather, which he manufactured till 1831, when he began making malleable iron castings, on a system of his own.

"Another invention was one for making Russia sheet iron. In 1835 he turned his attention to steam engines; substituted the straight axle for the crank in locomotives; and invented the cut-off now used instead of the throttle valve. In 1849 he went to California, but was unsuccessful, and returned to New Jersey, where he applied himself to farming, and developed a variety of strawberry previously unequalled in size or quality."

Quite the Edison or the Burbank of his age, don't you think?"

Sources of Inspiration.

Interesting reading of those worthies of the past, isn't it? Should be some inspiration in their lives, for us. Even those who were later ridiculed, you notice, were at least sincere.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

From The Constitution of Saturday, April 12, 1913:

"One hundred and twenty long-term convicts have escaped from the camps in the state within a period of only eight months just passed, and this does not include the misdemeanor convicts that have gotten away, numbering some 240."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From The Constitution of Thursday, April 12, 1888:

"Hon. Jack Shannon, of Elberton, is in the city with a blue badge pinned to the lapel of his coat. Mr. Shannon is a Knight of Honor, as well as a lawyer and a politician, and has just been elected grand dictator of the order. That he will make a good officer goes without saying."

FAIR ENOUGH

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Inland Steel Decision NEW YORK, April 11.—After five months of hearings in which hundreds of witnesses appeared, the National Labor Relations Board has ruled that an employer must not only come to terms with the bargaining agent of his employes but must put the agreement in writing. Formerly it took two to make a bargain, but that principle has been waived in favor of a movement which has ambitions to become a dominant or decisive political power.

Now it is held, by a decision of a mere board, that the bargain must be written down and that lack of responsibility on the part of a union is no excuse for refusal by the employer to bind himself to terms which may not be enforceable on the union. The board chides the Inland Steel Company, defendant in the case, for refusing to treat the union with the same dignity that it would show to another soulless corporation in a complicated business deal, but ignores as of no importance the fact that the other soulless corporation may be compelled to observe its contracts or pay for losses resulting from its failure to do so.

If irresponsibility were a valid reason for an employer's refusal to enter an agreement, says the board, it would be a valid reason for a refusal to deal with the union at all. That is true, but the law now compels the employer to treat with the union, and from that first compulsion the board has now amplified the law to mean that he must negotiate and agree and post forfeits, including the liberty of company officials, to secure an agreement whose other party has the right to flout the contract at great loss to the employer.

Responsibility In Contracts The employer is represented in these dealings and in the public imagination by a high-salaried captain of industry, but his name is George Spelvin, average American, and the losses which the union may inflict under the immunity of that irresponsibility, which the board so airily disregards, must be borne by him. To say it a little more directly, Mr. Legion or Mr. Spelvin, with a little money invested in a soulless corporation, must make a contract, guaranteed by his invested savings, with a political group which carries in its pocket a writ virtually relieving it of responsibility.

It would be silly to quarrel with the proposition that any agreement as intricate as an employment contract between a huge company and the workmen ought to be written in precise terms, signed and witnessed, if both parties were equally bound, but those terms would be enforced as written and the labor board, which is always in the union's corner and has yet to be accused of impartiality, would be quick to disallow any attempt by the corporation to read into such an agreement any implied or unwritten extensions or evasions of the black-and-white provisions.

Yet these amplifications of the law itself constitute just that, and the long and expensive process of hearings and wordy judgments could have been obviated by nothing more than a nickel telephone call to the office of Senator Wagner, of New York, who wrote the law and surely must know what he intended it to mean.

Boy, Page Senator Wagner Senator Wagner is no recluse, and a word from him would clarify the intentions of the act and remove it from the field of mind-reading and guesswork. It does seem odd, however, that he refrained from writing in a definite requirement of written agreements between employers and unions unless he had some studied reasons for this omission, and even more curious that he has not been asked to say whether he meant anything that he didn't write. If boards with apparent prejudices are now adding riders to acts of congress, the famous complaint against the nine old men that they nullified the will of the statesmen seems insincere.

The politial ambitions of the CIO have been apparent for some time, and a national government enjoying the power and privilege that John L. Lewis thought he had bought by his contributions to Mr. Roosevelt would establish in the White House the principles of the sitdown, the quickie and the one-sided contract.

The Wagner act may have hidden meanings, but it would have been more honest and constructive of the board to say that while agreements obviously should be reduced to writing, the irresponsible party should be compelled to assume obligations as binding as those which it demands: Mr. Lewis sometimes contends that the CIO is responsible, but that is debatable and beside the point of the current decision. That decision takes the attitude that it makes no difference whether it is responsible or not.

"No Man E'er Felt the Halter Draw, With Good Opinion Of the Law"

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

In the wisest of books it is written that where a man's treasure is, there will his heart be also.

That is a profound truth, with a deeper and broader significance than the religious meaning usually given to it.

A man's "heart" means his affection, his loyalty, his partisanship, his deep concern, his chief interest.

The Book does not say that his heart is sometimes where his treasure is, or that it may be there, but simply that it is—always and without exception.

It isn't a matter subject to his will, but something that happens to him, like falling in love, without his being aware of it till it is finished. Unconsciously and automatically, as naturally as he breathes, his heart follows his treasure.

It isn't necessary to ask him what his principles are, or what thing he believes in, or which side he supports. No matter how honest and reasonable he may be, and though men as honest and reasonable oppose him, he believes in the rightness of the thing that serves his interests.

This doesn't mean that he deliberately and basely "sells his honor," or that he is "blinded by greed." As he naturally believes in himself, and naturally believes his opinion right, so by nature he believes in the justice and equity and righteousness of the cause that benefits him. For all we know to the contrary, he is incapable of seeing justice in a cause that would injure him.

This belief in the thing that butters our bread, and disbelief in the thing that would hurt us, is so universal and unfailing that to report an example of it as news is much like announcing in print that ducks will swim.

A recent survey "reveals" that most of our people oppose taxing smaller incomes. Well, most of them have small incomes. Of course they oppose a tax on themselves. Who doesn't?

A news story tells us that the Mexican people approve their government's seizure of oil properties. Of course they do. It always seems right to get 400 million dollars.

Once you learn how the human mind works, the opinions of interested parties don't impress you much. They are like automatons or hypnotized persons—sincerely believing their cause right, yet helplessly believing as self-interest requires them to believe.

'Savage' Conquest.

NEW YORK—This is the characterization bestowed on the annexation of Austria by Mr. Gedye, the correspondent of the New York Times who has just been expelled from Austria and from Germany by the German secret police. There were many incidents, according to this correspondent, who now writes freely from London what he saw, where German soldiers interfered with the cruelties being practised upon defenseless citizens by the Nazi mobs. Tens of thousands of prominent citizens, Catholics and Jews especially, were deliberately ruined the moment the Nazis took over the reigns of the government."

Unless, of course, reprisals are justified for having been loyal citizens of the Austrian republic under Schuschnigg. And that is exactly the motivization of much of the conqueror's cruelty. They have lists prepared in every country of all men and women who ever said or did anything against their ideas, tactics and behavior. When they came into the Saar and in the Rhineland they dug up the registers and men who had advocated back in 1918 just when the war stopped that the Rhineland should be made into an independent republic were taken from their homes and shipped off to concentration camps for special "educational punishment."

German Atrocities.

I had a letter the other day from the head of a well-to-do family in Germany who wrote me from Paris where he was on business that he could not have written me earlier because of the censorship prevailing in his country. He wanted me to know what happened to his daughter, whom I knew quite well.

Two years ago, wrote this Aryan German businessman, who owns and operates a small chemical factory in one of the cities of the south, "we had to visit at the house of a patrol of the Gestapo (secret police). They ransacked the house from top to bottom, but would not say what they were looking for. Finally the two of them came up from the cellar bearing in triumph an old typewriter which my daughter had used in her college days. They asked me who owned it and I said that it was my daughter's property. They carried it away with them and the next day my daughter was arrested.

"When I presented myself at the police headquarters I was informed that my daughter had loaned the typewriter in 1931, that is to say, two years before Hitler came to power, to a young man, who was a student in the same university she attended. This boy had used the typewriter to write a political thesis against Nazism and Hitler. The police had vainly searched for that boy, and failing to find him had taken my daughter into custody. She was to remain in the concentration camp for women for a year, to undergo a special course in German educational punishment.

"This course consisted in being hired out like a slave to a landowner in East Prussia. She slept in a hayloft with other girls and boys for six months and was then return to camp where she was set to work with a pick and shovel.

"After a year we gathered at the house to await her liberation. Her mother was ill and I went with my sons to the station to meet her. While we were at the station a telegram arrived at the house that her term of education had been extended for another year. We have since discovered that she has had a child and that she is ill with tuberculosis. Her mother has died of anguish, but we have never been allowed to see her even once."

GOOD MORNING

BASEBALL.

Ralph and Betty McGill, writing from London on March 30, have many interesting things to say about Scandinavia, Germany, France, England and Ralph's expected trip to Austria on April 10 for the plebiscite; but the letter closes with these significant words, "Be sure and go out and help the Crackers for us. We expect to be there to do our bit for them in June," which is a fine way of saying that baseball remains the grand old game for most folks.

Whether it is Atlantans pulling for their Crackers, Savannah pulling for their Indians, Columbus pulling for their Red Birds, Georgia pulling for their Bulldogs, Tech pulling for their Jackets, Mercer pulling for their Bears, Oglethorpe pulling for their Petrels, or a group of young Americans pulling for their sand lot team, baseball is baseball. I am sorry for the person who has missed the love of baseball.

Here in Atlanta we will all be all keyed up for the opening game Thursday when President Earl Mann and Manager Paul Richards send forth their chosen nine young men to build a crackling fire under the Smokies of Knoxville. I was talking with a 10-year-old boy a day or two ago, and he suddenly shifted the conversation from marbles to ask:

"Are you going to be able to manager your crutches well enough to get to the game next Thursday? If I can help you, let me know. You see, we could go early, say about 12 o'clock and you could be seated before the rush. Let me know if you want me to come and go with you."

What about that? Just that sort of enthusiasm and just that sort of good will is one of the great blessings of baseball. I like to get a bunch of boys together and ask them to name the players on the different teams throughout the country. I like to call a certain number and let them name the player, as for example, No. 8—Paul Richards.

And not only professional baseball, but amateur baseball has come to be a national pastime. Every afternoon throughout the summer hundreds of boys and young men get together in the parks and improvised diamonds in cities and villages for a friendly game. Amateur baseball provides one of the finest forms of mass athletics we have ever discovered.

And so, here's to baseball for 1938—may the best teams win and may all the teams win over their previous records.

Roosevelt : The Flight of the Blue Eagle

President Discusses Complexities of NRA, Declares Confusion Was Inevitable; Industries Clamored for Codes, He Writes.

(Editor's Note—In yesterday's instalment, the purposes, basic principles and rapid organization of the National Recovery Administration were described. In the following, taken from President Roosevelt's notes and comments to his volumes of public papers, the creation of the Blue Eagle, and the early development of difficulties in enforcement, are told in the President's own words, never before published.)

ARTICLE NO. 18

Although there was quick and widespread response on the part of industry in submitting proposed codes. I thought that a strong impetus should be given to the re-employment program in order to get as many unemployed back to work as quickly as possible.

The President's Re-employment Agreement (PRA) was devised to be signed by individual employers of labor. The agreement dealt only with wages and hours and not with trade practices. Prices were rising and I believed that workers were entitled to a more just percentage of them in the way of wages.

The re-employment agreement was also necessary in order to bring all labor under the same rulings, in order to protect interstate commerce from the competition of intra-state manufacturers, and to arouse a more widespread public opinion in support of the plan.

In connection with this agreement the Blue Eagle was devised as an official symbol to be used only by those who were operating under approved codes or who had signed the President's Re-employment Agreement. Patriotic citizens were expected to patronize only those concerns which displayed the Blue Eagle. The withdrawal of the right to display the Blue Eagle thus became an important method to enforce compliance.

Over 2,300,000 of these individual agreements were signed with the President, covering approximately 16,300,000 emlopyes. The agreements also had the effect of causing the submission of a deluge of codes, increasing markedly the administrative difficulties of the NRA.

Major Problems.

By the end of the first year of NRA, code administration had developed several major problems, particularly in the matter of enforcing compliance with the codes.

In many instances, code authorities were able to maintain a high degree of voluntary compliance. In others, code authorities frequently exceeded their proper function in efforts to enforce compliance.

It was realized at the outset that code requirements, particularly as to wages and hours, would result in price increases, although every effort was made to provide against any rises in prices not made necessary to meet code requirements or justified by actual costs.

Particularly in the President's Re-employment Agreement an effort was made to avoid price increases by a specific agreement to limit such increases to those made necessary by increased cost. It was inevitable, however, that prices would rise as industrial recovery took place, since one certain effect of the depression had been to drag prices down below profitable levels.

To meet a rising volume of consumer complaints, public hearings were held in January, 1934. These hearings uncovered some legitimate complaints of efforts at price control under the codes, but in the main they showed that price changes had generally followed naturally upon an improved market and upon rising labor costs, and that there had not been any substantial amount of profiteering under the aegis of the NRA.

These price hearings developed discussion of major price problems which persisted through the NRA. Foremost among these was the effort to control unwarranted price-cutting by requiring in codes that products should not be sold below cost. But a definition of what was "cost" proved elusive throughout NRA.

In the case of the retail trades a strong effort was made to eliminate the so-called loss leader, a method of enticing custom by advertising standard articles at practically a cost, or even a below-cost, price. The elimination of the loss leader proved very helpful in some lines of business, particularly where small independent retailers were suffering from big store or chain store competition.

The Darrow Board.

In order to have an independent study made of complaints which were coming in about monopolistic practices resulting from codes under NIRA, I set up the National Recovery Review Board by executive order. The board, by reason of the name of its chairman, Clarence Darrow, became known as the Darrow board.

Unfortunately, the board, in its investigation, proceeded rather as a prosecuting agency to prove a case against big business, than as an impartial investigating body.

Little evidence was produced of increased monopolistic power. On the other hand, it was established that the NRA on the whole had not interfered with the existence of legitimate competition.

Most of the monopolistic conditions uncovered by the board were found to be based either on control of certain natural resources or patents, or in the inevitable power inherent in vast industrial organizations to dominate in the price and marketing policies of an industry.

I do not think it can be proved that the relaxation of the anti-trust laws during the NRA, to permit co-operation between business men, did in fact develop any additional monopolistic controls over trade and industry.

On the contraryy, it was a demonstrated fact that innumerable small and independent business men were greatly helped in their struggle to survive by the establishment of fair competition and the elimination of such monopolistic practices as destructive price cutting.

It is true that many smaller business men, who had been able to survive through sweat-shop practices of long hours and low wages, were handicapped by the labor provisions of their codes. Many of the complaints of monopoly came from some business men who were thus compelled to pay decent wages for decent hours of labor, and who sought by such complaints to cover up the reasons for their resultant distress.

Consumers Protected.

Of course the real victims of monopolies are always the consumers, who are forced to pay excessive prices unless the government itself protects them.

The rebuilding of the purchasing power of all classes of our population was the cornerstone of our program of recovery from the very beginning. This required first the raising of income. But the creation of conditions by which a larger portion of the population could obtain larger incomes would not be effective if the increase in the cost of necessities of life proceeded at a faster pace.

The farm and industrial programs of the administration which were building up the incomes of producers and workers could result in a general increased capacity to consume only if they were used in such a way as not to inflate prices unduly.

As a protection against this frustration of the recovery program, the administration at an early period created several new offices charged with the specific duty of safeguarding the interests of consumers, not only in the matter of prices but of policies affecting the quantity and quality of goods.

The creation and operation of these consumer agencies represented a new principle in government. It was the recognition of the right of consumers to have their interests represented in the formulation of government policy and administration of laws affecting the production and distribution of goods.

I think it can be safely stated that never before had the particular problems of consumers been so thoroughly and unequivocally accepted as the direct responsibility of government. The willingness to fulfill that responsibility was, in essence, an extension and amplification of the meaning and content of democratic government.

As has been pointed out, the initiative in code-making, and the administration of approved codes remained in the hands of organized producers and sellers. The natural result was that codes were directed to remedying the evils most observed by such groups rather than the evils suffered by consumers. While the protection of purchasers was one of the functions of the NRA, little could be done affirmatively.

The board did maintain constant vigilance for consumers' interests in the formulation and administration of codes. Proposed provisions which would lead to price-fixing or price maintenance were closely examined. Only when facts and circumstances showed a clear necessity for price maintenance clauses and only where a maximum amount of consumer protection was provided would the consumer adviser approve the code.

NIRA in seeking to improve business conditions and wages and hours as a whole, had made no distinction, as to codification, between interstate and intrastate commerce. The law did provide that, when codes were violated, penalties should be attached only to transactions in and affecting interstate commerce.

Confusion Inevitable.

Confusion was inevitable because all businesses of all types were subject to voluntary codification, and particularly because the President's re-employment agreement could be voluntarily signed by businesses which were purely local—the local cleaner and dyer, the barber, the laundryman, the restaurant proprietor, the garageman, etc.

Although these so-called service trades are ordinarily thought of as insignificant in comparison with such industries as steel, oil or automobiles, the number of persons employed therein is actually as large and in many cases larger. Moreover, some of the worst labor conditions existed in these trades, which were likewise beset in many instances by various kinds of racketeering. In consequence, labor groups and the trades themselves clamored for codes of fair competition.

The code which became, in a sense, the typical case was the code for the cleaning and dyeing trade, approved on November 8, 1933. The code contained provisions for minimum wages, maximum hours, collective bargaining, and the fixing of minimum prices.

When the problem of enforcement came, however, the statute required that the line must be drawn between interstate and intrastate transactions. This was a difficult matter to explain and a difficult policy to maintain.

Death of NRA Tomorrow

In a third and final article on the NRA, President Roosevelt describes tomorrow the diffculties of enforcing codes for industries wholly contained within a state and reviews the legal battles which led up to the supreme court's decision in the Schechter case.

This article is one of a series by the President taken from notes and comments to his five forthcoming books, "The Public Papers and Addresses of Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Mr. Roosevelt recalls the case of Jacob Maged, the New Jersey tailor who was prosecuted for violation of a state code; and also the plans outlined for the future of the NRA when it was declared unconstitutional.

'CONSTITUTIONALITY' REMARK MISQUOTED

Editor's Note: Following a series of supreme court decisions disastrous to the New Deal, the President's views on the issue of constitutionality were eagerly sought. Consequently a sensation was created when he appeared to express his attitude in a letter to Representative Samuel B. Hill on July 6, 1935.

The congressman had written expressing fear that the pending coal bill would not be held constitutional. Here is the last paragraph of the President's reply:

"Manifestly, no one is in a position to give assurance that the proposed act will withstand constitutional tests, for the simple fact that you can get no 10 but a thousand differing legal opinions on the subject. But the situation is so urgent and the benefits of the legislation so evident that all doubts should be resolved in favor of the bill, leaving to the courts, in an orderly fashion, the ultimate question of constitutionality. A decision by the supreme court relative to this measure would be helpful as indicating, with increasing clarity, the constitutional limits within which this government must operate. The proposed bill has been carefully drafted by employers and employes working co-operatively. An opportunity should be given to the industry to attempt to work out some of its major problems. I hope your committee will not permit doubts as to constitutionality, however reasonable, to block the suggested legislation."

President Roosevelt's own hitherto unpublished comment on the incident follows.)

The last paragraph of the letter to Congressman Hill should, of course, be read as a whole. when it is, it will be seen that the paragraph merely sets forth the traditional rule which the courts are supposed to follow in determining whether or not a statute is unconstitutional.

As a matter of fact, in one of the earliest cases in which the courts assumed power to pass on the constitutionality of statutes (Ogden vs. Saunders), Mr. Justice Bushrod Washington stated the terms under which that power would be exercised. He said: "It is but a decent respect due to the wisdom, the integrity, and the patriotism of the legislative body by which any law is passed, to presume in favor of its validity until its violation of the constitution is proved beyond all reasonable doubt."

The letter to Congressman Hill was really an understatement of this rule. During the past two years certain newspaper publishers and columnists have quoted only the last sentence of the letter, taken completely from its text, so as to give a wholly false impression of the letter.

It is perhaps typical of methods now prevalent among certain newspaper owners and publishers.

BAPTISTS REPORT 800 NEW MEMBERS

More Than 20,000 Attend Services in Churches Here Sunday.

New members of Baptist churches engaged in the city-wide evangelistic campaign have gone over the 800 mark, Dr. Roland Q. Leavell, director of the series, stated yesterday following a tabulation of reports from the pastors and evangelists.

"Usually in such a campaign," Dr. Leavell said, "we can count on twice as many the second week as the first, so by the time the meetings close next Sunday night around 2,500 will, no doubt, have been added to the churches."

Services continue each night in the churches, the director pointed out, as well as at the four points for noonday outdoor meetings. Speakers today in the outdoor services, he said, are Dr. O. M. Seigler, Peachtree Arcade; Dr. Norman W. Cox, Tenth and Peachtree; Dr. W. F. Powell, West End, and Dr. Zeno Wall, Little Five Points.

More than half of the additions thus far in the two-week campaign were received Sunday, Dr. Leavell said. Attendance at the churches Sunday morning, according to the reports, went above 20,000.

At the conference of Baptist pastors yesterday morning, Dr. Leavell outlined a program of evangelism for the entire state, to be led by Dr W. H. Faust, superintendent of evangelism, and Dr. James W. Merritt, executive secretary, of the Georgia Baptist convention.

"More than one-fourth of the Baptist churches in Georgia," he said, "do not have a single new member in one year's time. This poor record should challenge all of the Baptists in Georgia to engage in a state-wide campaign in 1939."

BRITAIN DEMANDS PROPERTY RETURN

Mexican Expropriation Motivated by 'Political Desire,' Says England.

MEXICO CITY, April 11.—(AP) Great Britain charged in a note made public tonight that Mexico was motivated by "political desire" in expropriating the $400,000,000 foreign oil industry.

The note, presented the Mexican government last Friday by Owen St. Clair O'Malley, Britain's minister to Mexico, demanded return of the properties of British-owned companies taken over March 18.

O'Malley said he expected the Mexican government to reply tomorrow. It was believed generally Mexico would reject the British protest.

Aguila, subsidiary of the British-controlled Royal Dutch Shell, was the largest of 17 British and American companies expropriated by President Lazaro Cardenas.

"The expropriation was tantamount to confiscation and was carried out under a veil of legality formed by basing it upon labor issues," the British note said.

"The consequence has been the denial of justice and transgression by the Mexican government of the principles of international law.

"The real motive of the expropriation was a political desire to acquire for Mexico in permanence the advantages of ownership and control of the oil fields."

Britain charged the Mexican supreme court in denying the appeal of the companies against the arbitral verdict, which paved the way for the expropriation, "ignored the fact that essential evidence has been improperly excluded, inadequately considered or unjustifiably overridden by experts and the labor board."

The arbitral verdict, which increased wages and other benefits of the industry's 18,000 workers, was defied by the companies who said it increased expenses by $12,000,000—more than anticipated profits.

WHISKY HELD HERE SOUGHT IN SUIT

Wholesaler Asks Release of Load Confiscated on Way to Augusta.

An Augusta wholesaler's truck load of whisky confiscated here December 29 became the object of a Fulton superior court suit yesterday as the Star Products Company sued to recover from county police by payment of the new state liquor tax.

The products company, which operated in Augusta under a city ordinance permitting sale of liquor named County Police Chief George Mathieson as defendant in the suit.

Meanwhile, the liquor, 216 cases of bonded whisky valued at $2,700, is in the county police storeroom. An order temporarily restraining police from pouring out the liquor was granted recently by Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy, who set a hearing for April 15.

The suit sets out that since passage of local option, the liquor is subject to court action and should be turned over to the State Revenue Commission and stored until the products company pays the tax and regains possession. The tax would amount to about $800, according to Hamilton Lokey, attorney for the Augusta company.

Declaring that other untaxed liquor has been seized by the revenue commission and released after payment of tax, the petition contends the same course should be taken in this suit. Lokey said he would ask the revenue commission to enter an intervention.

The liquor truck has been confiscated and sold, while the two drivers, J. F. Mears and George Perkins, have paid $500 fines in Fulton criminal court.

COMMISSION ADOPTS DRINKING RULES

COLUMBUS, Ga., April 11. (AP)—An ordinance placing strict regulations on the drinking of liquor here was adopted by the commissioners this morning after the rules had been suspended to allow passage on first reading.

The drinking of liquor on the streets, in automobiles or other vehicles, whether standing or moving, in alleys, parks and other public places is prohibited.

To drink in cafes or other eating places and in any business house, the drinker must fire secure permission from the proprietor.

BOLTON MAN FOUND SHOT DEAD IN AUTO

O. A. Sullivan Leaves Note to 'Pauline' Hoping to 'Meet You in Heaven.'

A man identified as O. A. Sullivan, 27, of Bolton, was found shot to death last night in his automobile on Howell Mill road, near the city reservoir, Patrolmen C. C. Heard and F. C. Thompson, of Fulton county police, reported.

A shell from an automatic shotgun had penetrated the left side, near the heart. The officers said they found a pencilled note, addressed to "Pauline." Full contents of the note were not disclosed, but there were references to "hoping to meet you in heaven" and "you don't know the trouble I've gone through," the patrolmen said.

Sullivan was found by M. F. Mulenax, night watchman at the reservoir. The body was taken to the establishment of H. M. Patterson & Son, where an inquest will be held this morning. He was an employe of the Georgia Power Company.

Loyalist Resistance Fades As Franco Seizes Roads

Hemingway Says Girls Could Hold Positions Falling to Rebels.

By ERNEST HEMINGWAY.

(Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

TORTOSA, Spain, April 11.—(By Wireless)—In the last five days, this correspondent has checked on a front extending from the shining snow slopes of the Pyrenees down to where the hard bright blue of the Mediterranean turns milky from the yellow flood of the Ebro and a single date palm marks the entrance into shattered Tortosa.

In the far north, under the shadow of the Pyrenees, General Franco's troops have advanced steadily north and eastward in a country where positions could be held by determined graduates of any good girls' finishing school. One of the first moves of the new government will undoubtedly be to stiffen and make serious the resistance in this northern sector, which, when this correspondent visited it three days ago, gave entirely too bucolic an impression.

Rabbit-Catching Soldiers.

It may have been the amount of rabbits that soldiers carried slung over their shoulders or it may have been a general feeling that, with so much mountain country to work in, what is one valley more or less between armies, but the fact remains that this northern sector is the back door to all Catalonia.

After watching the heroic stand made to block Franco from the sea, it was disheartening to any observer to see loss of this potentially vital terrain, controlling vast hydro-electric resources, being taken more or less as a matter which could be stopped whenever serious.

Italians Attack.

On the left bank of the Ebro above Tortosa it was as different from the north as the hard bright lights of the prize ring differ from the sleepy siesta time of a dusty country square. Since this correspondent left there on April 5, the positions are absolutely unchanged. Attack after attack by two Italian divisions, identified from prisoners taken as La Littoria and Flechas Negras, supported by World War scale barrages of six-inch, three-inch and the new lighter and quicker firing guns had not succeeded in piercing the government lines at any point.

So many planes were being used this afternoon that they were never out of sight, sometimes the sky being full of their hammering roar. This correspondent watched the metalic shine of Savoia Marchetti bombers high in the cloudless Spanish sky circling in the insectlike precision of high altitude bombing and the unbelievably quick trip over the mountains, seeming almost applauded, it went so fast, by puffs of anti-aircraft smoke blossoming behind it, of one of the new black Rohrback bombers going over to bomb the bridges of Tortosa from less than 2,000 feet.

Bridge Holds Up.

The bridge was hit at both ends between the time this correspondent passed it and returned, but the light, fast bombers with light bombs have little effect on the open steelwork. It's like trying to cut a bottle on a string at a French fair. You hit the string all right if you are a good enough shot, but just a strand or two parts and the bottle doesn't fall.

After watching the progress of the Ebro defense from an observation post, this correspondent came down the steep trail through vineyards and ate a plate of three mutton crops, smothered with tomato sauce and onions, with the divisional staff. The divisional commander, one of the most famous of the young generals in the Spanish army, was jubilant over the holding up of the advance.

"Last night they attacked with heavy artillery preparation and tanks," he said, "and again this morning. As you can see, the lines are exactly the same as they were here four days ago. They use as many as a 100 planes to machine-gun the road and bomb these towns, but we are holding them the same as we did at Madrid. They're going to be able to see the sea and never get there. But as soon as it eases up, I am going down and take a bath in it myself."

Young Oldsters.

Allowing for all the fighting spirit and optimism of these old defenders of Madrid—old in nearly two years of fighting, but young in age—the situation still is that Franco's forces are absolutely held up in their attempt to come down the Ebro.

As we ate, we heard the crack of artillery fire and the whishing and rushing shriek of a shell. It burst 150 yards away in some houses at the turn of the road, throwing up a cloud of yellow smoke. Six others came in the same way, all falling within 20 yards of each other.

"They're shooting by the map," said the young general. "That sort of shooting isn't serious."

As it goes now, Franco is trying two main drives to the sea. One is absolutely checked, and has been for five days, above Tortosa. The other is down from Morella to San Mateo and Vinaroz. The latter has been progressing spottily for several days, but the government forces have still not fallen back on the best positions.

North is Danger Spot.

However, while these best Spanish troops, veterans of the entire war, are holding up the drive toward the coast, the country along the French frontier is the danger spot. In this last big Franco push it has been demonstrated again and again that good troops can hold the very toughest positions and unseasoned troops can be blasted out of positions that good troops consider it a picnic to hold, by air attack.

In order to hold the Catalonian front, the government must hold and stiffen the north at once. The center and south are holding now as they did at Madrid.

Insurgents Take La Rapita; Red Push in Caceres Is Stalled.

HENDAYE, France, (At the Spanish Frontier), April 11.—(AP) Spanish Insurgents striving to open a direct way to Barcelona today swept into La Rapita, controlling important crossroads in Lerida province.

La Rapita is a short distance east of Balaguer, 14 miles northeast of the city of Lerida.

The fierce government resistance which disputed the Insurgent crossing of the Segre river at Balaguer yesterday diminished as Generalissimo Francisco Franco's forces pushed east.

Dogged bands of militiamen still were clinging to mountain positions, however, making clean-up operations necessary to protect the flanks of the advancing column.

With La Rapita the heights commanding Balaguer on the east were taken, putting that city outside the range of enemy bombardments.

La Rapita is a key point on the road connecting Balaguer with Agramunt, 15 miles to the east, where another road angles southeast to Cervera and thence, in serpentine fashion, to Barcelona.

Insurgents reported minor successes by troops operating south of this sector, in the region of Torotsa, where a final drive to the Mediterranean was being shaped.

One hundred miles southwest of Madrid, Insurgents reported they had stopped the government advance in Caceres province after rushing up reinforcements.

GREEN TAX CASE OPENS IN FLORIDA

Bank President Says Colonel Regarded Texas as Home.

MIAMI, Fla., April 11.—(AP)—A Miami bank president, F. Lowry Wall, testified Colonel E. H. R. Green regarded Texas as his domicile at hearings today to adjudicate the claims of Florida to approximately $5,000,000 inheritance taxes on Green's estate. The claims of Texas, New York and Massachusetts already have been heard.

Wall said he first met Green in 1924 and that the multi-millionaire later became a stockholder in his bank. Green also conferred with Wall about local charity contributions.

BOYKIN ASSAILS PAROLE OF FELONS

Solicitor General Warns of Crime and Terrorism If Releases Continue.

Assailing the state prison and parole commission for what he termed "wholesale release of professional criminals," Solicitor General John A. Boykin yesterday asserted "another wave of organized crime or terrorism may be expected unless the commission, and the Governor, put an end to this practice at once."

Boykin referred to a story in Sunday's edition of The Constitution carrying a list of 97 prisoners to whom clemency had been granted since the recent organization of the commission.

He also said he just had been asked to write a letter recommending clemency for Frank Mayo, convicted of robbery in 1935 and sentenced to 12 years. Boykin added, however, he had refused and "would continue to refuse to recommend release of prisoners with previous criminal records."

"The wholesale release of professional criminals will bring another wave of terrorism to Atlanta," he said.

Boykin charged that if the state commission "continues this practice, there is little encouragement for the courts which have to prosecute these criminals. Efforts of both courts and prosecutors will be nullified."

"The commission's action has dumped back on the city several persons who can do nothing else but resume their criminal activities. Facing depressed economic conditions and with belief they can 'beat the rap,' these persons naturally will turn to their old pursuits of crime and violence, for which the taxpayers must pay a heavy price."

Boykin said the remedy lay in "putting an end to these practices" at once, adding it was up to the commission and the Governor to do so.

"Continued confinement of criminals with long records behind them is for the good of law and order. Atlanta could not afford to employ enough policemen to protect the city if this reckless granting of pardons, paroles, suspensions and probations is not stopped immediately," he said. "The Governor and the commission should see to it that desperate characters are not turned loose on the public again.

POLICE SEEK NAME OF AMNESIA VICTIM

Atlanta Officials Try To Aid Florida Authorities to Identify Man.

Police last night sought to aid West Palm Beach authorities to identify a middle-aged man who walked into police headquarters in the Florida city and told officers "I can't remember who I am."

In his pockets were found envelopes from the United States veterans' administration here and the veterans' hospital at Bay Pines, Fla. The envelopes also bore notations including the names "J. Hansen, Peachtree street" and "Smith, Five Points."

The man, apparently a victim of amnesia, said he was "certain he lived somewhere in Florida." Officials at Base Hospital No. 48 were unable to throw light on the man's identity.

NATION'S MANAGEMENT IS ASSAILED BY LANDON

KANSAS CITY, April 11.—(AP) Alf M. Landon, the 1936 Republican presidential nominee, said today the nation's affairs "have either been planned so badly or, if the plans were sound, have been mismanaged so badly we have suffered longer from the recession than any other people of our class in the world."

He spoke at a luncheon where he received a magazine "high hat" award from its editor, Harry Newman, "for having kept a level head against publicity, praise, adulation and criticism."

Debonair Whitney Is Sentenced To 5 Years of Drab Prison Routine

Financier Spends Night in Cell Near Slayer of Model and Two Others.

away. He wished to be alone when sentence was passed.

The probation report had disclosed that Whitney and his wife were estranged from June, 1936, to June, 1937, but now were reconciled.

Sentence passed, Whitney was taken across the Bridge of Sighs to the Tombs prison and locked up in a cell near Robert Irwin, sculptor who is awaiting trial for the Easter Sunday, 1937, killings of Veronica Gedeon, the model, her mother and a lodger.

Whitney had pleaded guilty to two indictments, charging first-degree grand larceny in the misuse of $105,000 in securities of a trust fund left by his father-in-law, the late George R. Sheldon, and $109,000 in securities from the New York Yacht Club of which Whitney was treasurer. He was sentenced to five to 10 years on each, the sentences to run concurrently.

The maximum penalty would have been 20 years, ten on each count.

Distinguished Prisoner.

Accompanying Whitney on the trip to Sing Sing tomorrow will be 15 or 20 other prisoners.

Whitney, according to Sing Sing officials, will be the most distinguished prisoner since Ferdinand Ward, partner of President Ulysses S. Grant in the brokerage house of Grant & Ward, was sent up the river in 1885.

Whitney will be granted no special privileges, Warden Lawes said today. His routine roughly will follow this course: Upon arrival he will be searched, given a serial number, photographed, fingerprinted and questioned about his ancestry. Then he will be taken to the bathhouse, bathed, given a superficial physical examination, and handed a shoddy gray uniform.

He will join the reception or recruit company for 10 days and for the next six or seven months will live in a stone cell in the 113-year-old cell block. The walls of the cell are stone on three sides. The door is solid iron with a small grating at the top.

Removal to the new cellhouse depends on seniority, and with Sing Sing now holding 2,730 prisoners, Whitney's chances are necessarily slim at present.

Prison Inquisition.

For the 10 days he is a member of the recruit company, Whitney will do little or no work. He will be questioned extensively by a school teacher, an industrial officer, a psychiatrist, a chaplain and a psychologist.

Later he will work outside, loading or unloading freight cars. After that the assignment board may give him clerical work to do.

During the first 10 days he will be allowed no visitors, will be denied the privilege of receiving or sending mail or making purchases and will be under constant supervision. Purchases made later from the prison stores must not exceed $3 a week, and all mail sent and received will be censored.

Slipping into this routine will be more difficult for Whitney than for most prisoners. He leaves "outside" a New Jersey estate staffed by 11 servants, and a life of luxury which began in his school days at exclusive Groton and Harvard University.

As Whitney entered prison, the career in which he had attained the heights and depths of success and failure was closed to him forever by a consent order permanently enjoining him from selling securities in New York.

CHATTOOGA'S PEACHES REPORTED WIPED OUT

SUMMERVILLE, Ga., April 11. Fruit growers here believe the entire peach crop in Chattooga county has been wiped out by the recent freezes.

It also is believed the strawberry crop has been destroyed, and early vegetable gardens were killed.

Most of the peach crop was killed during the cold weather early last week, and the heavy frosts during the past three days is believed to have completed the destruction of the crop.

Whitney Fired Boy For 'Theft' of Stamp

NEW YORK, April 11.—The sentencing of Richard Whitney today for grand larceny ironically recalled the fate of Whitney's office boy two days before last Christmas.

While the world was gaily filled with generous thoughts of the Yule, Whitney personally fired the boy for "stealing" a three-cent stamp to mail a personal letter.

SPURIOUS STOCKS BELIEVED FOUND

12 Certificates of Coca-Cola Company Discovered on Man Here.

The regional office of the Securities and Exchange Commission here has exposed 12 allegedly spurious stock certificates purporting to be for stock of the Coca-Cola Bottling Company of St. Louis, Mo., it was revealed yesterday.

The regional office, of which William Green is administrator, notified the St. Louis Stock Exchange of their findings, and photostatic copies of the certificates were sent to the bottling company for further checking.

Certificates Found.

The stock certificates turned up when a man listed as Sam G. Kennedy was arrested here last March 26 by a United States marshal, on an indictment charging violations of the securities act of 1933, mail fraud statutes and conspiracy.

Kennedy, with four others listed as Elias T. Stone, alias Silverstein, Harold F. Stone, John G. Anderson and E. T. Shaw, alias S. Tate, was indicted by a federal grand jury at Greenville, Tenn., last March 17.

Indictments Kept Secret.

The indictments were kept secret, however, pending apprehension of the alleged offenders. In searching Kennedy, the Coca-Cola certificates were found. He was arraigned before United States Commissioner E. S. Griffith, but waived a hearing and was returned to Knoxville, Tenn., under $25,000 bond.

The five men are now in Knoxville, it was said here, and no charges have been placed against Kennedy in connection with his alleged possession of the Coca-Cola stock.

It was learned that five of the certificates did not specify any number of shares, four were for 50 shares each and three for 25 shares each. The certificates bore allegedly forged signatures of Willard R. Cox, president, and W. L. Grooms, secretary of the Coca-Cola Bottling Company of St. Louis.

Kennedy and the others were indicted in connection with promotions of television and electric projector company stocks. According to commission officials here, they operated in 26 states, but principally in eastern Tennessee.

COLD HURTS CROPS FOLLOWING FLOOD

Seventeen Dead in South as Reconstruction Gets Under Way.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., April 11. (AP)—Flood waters receded in the south today, baring thousands of dollars damage to crops and property. Fruit and truck suffered from the nipping cold wave which followed rains responsible for the floods. Georgia counted 13 dead, Alabama 2 and Mississippi 2 from rampaging streams.

Crop damage from floods in the Montgomery area alone will amount to $70,000 to $80,000.

In Georgia crops will have to be replanted in certain sections. General planting operations were slowed by the rains of last week. In the north portion of that state some damage to orchards was reported from wind, rain and hail.

Highways also suffered from the inundation.

A seventh body was discovered today in the search for the 13 persons swept away at Whitestone, Ga., by a cloudburst-born mountain torrent.

FLOOD WATERS RECEDE RAPIDLY AT ROME

ROME, Ga., April 11.—Waters of the Oostanaula and Etowah rivers were rapidly receding tonight, following the worst flood Rome has experienced in five years.

The Oostanaula, which reached a crest of 33.8 feet early yesterday, dropped to 30.2 feet by 7:30 o'clock tonight, and the Etowah likewise was dropping rapidly, although the Second avenue route to West Rome is still flooded. The Fifth avenue route through the fourth ward is open, and no sections of the city are cut off. Shuttle train service to West Rome, however, has been discontinued.

BRIDGES DAMAGED BY TROUP RAINS

LAGRANGE, Ga., April 11.—Approximately $20,000 damage was done to roads and bridges in Troup county by Thursday night's 4.25-inch rainfall, Judson J. Milam, chairman of the county board of commissioners of roads and revenues, estimated following partial check during the week end.

FRENCH TERRORIST HAD U. S. 'MISSION'

Secret Armed Group Sent Its Agent Here for Unrevealed Purpose.

PARIS, April 11.—(AP)—The accused chief of the Csar, secret armed military organization, today told Surete Nationale inspectors one of the organization's members was sent to the United States "on a mission."

Eugene DeLoncle, arrested on November 25 as head of the Csar, said the emmissary was a Frenchman named Mouget but declined to disclose details of the American mission. Police found in DeLoncle's possession a check signed by Mouget on a New York bank for $3,000.

DeLonckle said arms and ammunition found in recent months by police came chiefly from consignments for the Spanish government intercepted by his organization.

(Numerous arrests have been made and large stores of arms and ammunition have been uncovered since the Surete Nationale launched an investigation of the Csar.)

ROOSEVELT PLANS 'FIRESIDE' APPEAL

000,000 or $500,000,000 place in the President's program, administration leaders reported.

They said Mr. Roosevelt might ask congress to increase by that amount the sum the Federal Housing Authority already is authorized to lend and grant to local public bodies for clearing slums and erecting new dwellings for low income tenants. The housing authority now is authorized to use $500,000,000 for this purpose, lending public bodies 90 per cent of the cost of projects and making annual contributions afterward to bring the dwellings within the reach of low income groups.

Wagner Sees Building Spurt.

Senator Wagner, Democrat, New York, said an increase in funds would permit quick action on additional projects in New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, which are near their quotas under present legislation limiting the amount available to any one state to 10 per cent of the total authorized.

Senate Leader Barkley, Democrat, Kentucky, spokesman for a group of congressional and administrative leaders who met with the President, said they decided WPA would need $1,250,000,000 in the first seven months of the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Reflecting the serious inroads of the recession upon employment, this estimate indicated a relief budget of approximately $2,000,000,000, for the full fiscal year, compared with the tentative $1,000,000,000 suggested by President Roosevelt in his budget message to congress last January. The current year's relief appropriations total $1,750,000,000.

Big Public Work Program.

Barkley also gave significant new testimony as to the seriousness with which the President is considering a $1,500,000,000 public works program. The senator said the relief estimate approved today was intended only to finance the present WPA payroll of 2,600,000 persons.

He added that any other persons needing help would have to be taken care of by a new program, such as the proposed lending of $1,500,000,000 to the states and cities for public works. Details of the works program would be discussed at a later conference, he added.

Asserting that the relief fund increase was sought to "preserve the situation as it is," Barkley declared that failure of congress to meet the request would necessitate a layoff of 400,000 WPA workers.

The conferees also decided to add $50,000,000 to the $230,000,000 budget of the Civilian Conservation Corps for 1938-39, to prevent reductions in the 1,250 existing camps.

Agree on Two Funds.

Senator Byrnes, Democrat, South Carolina, said the conferees had agreed on a $150,000,000 appropriation for the next fiscal year for the Farm Security Administration and $50,000,000 for the National Youth Administration.

These appropriations, for the full 12-month period, would be in addition to the $1,250,000,000 agreed on for WPA for the first seven months of the year, Byrnes said.

Preliminary discussions were held by various administration officials on means of financing the huge spending program. Some of them urged use of $1,000,000,000 of sterilized gold in order to prevent that much additional borrowing. Gold in the Treasury's sterilization funds was bought with borrowed money, and the funds could be turned loose simply by issuing currency backed by the metal.

'Cabinet Dictatorship' Law Sought by French Premier

Premier Seeks Decree Powers for Three Months in Face of Spreading Strikes; 130,000 Out and Factories Fly Red Flags.

PARIS, April 11.—(AP)—Premier Edouard Daladier, determined to strike before the opposition could consolidate against him, drew a revised plan today to make his "national defense" cabinet dictator of France's destiny for the next three months.

As the new premier worked on his program, rapidly spreading strikes paralyzed the metal industries in the Paris region despite his appeal to the nation for discipline. Workers from a dozen of the capital's largest factories joined some 60,000 strikers already out, swelling the total to nearly 130,000.

Leaders of the strike, which up to tonight had closed nearly 100 factories including a number of nationalized plants working for the national defense, appealed to workers in other industries to join the movement. The huge Renault Automobile Motor plant was occupied by its 35,000 workers.

Red flags flew from many factories while heavy forces of police and mobile guardsmen moved into industrial districts in the Paris region to preserve order.

Employers said the strikes were purely political, designed to show Leftist workers' discontent at the resignation of Leon Blum's People's Front government. Strikers, however, blamed the walkouts on the employers' failure to keep wages up to the rising cost of living.

The time limit on the proposed powers was cut from six to three months as a concession to Leftists in parliament who let it be known they would vote against such long-term powers.

Daladier's new program, as drafted at present, provides that the cabinet shall have decree powers over all of France's internal and external affairs.

ANGLO-ITALIAN ACCORD NOW BEING DRAFTED

ROME, April 11.—(AP)—The drafting of the Anglo-Italian accord began today while diplomats speculated on the effect it might have on the Rome-Berlin axis.

Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, and the Earl of Perth, British ambassador to Rome, held their last formal discussions yesterday prior to turning their work over to expert drafters.

From usually well-informed sources it was reported that the government was anxious to relax the bonds which have tied Fascism and Nazzism.

The German annexation of Austria brought German troops to the Brenner Pass and aroused Italians in all walks of life to such a pitch that despite repeated assurances from both Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Premier Mussolini, they are avowedly skeptical.

BRITAIN MAKES BID FOR ITALY'S FRIENDSHIP.

LONDON, April 11.—(AP)—Great Britain laid the groundwork today for a new friendship with Italy which she hoped would wean Premier Benito Mussolini from his working agreement with Adolf Hitler.

She showed her willingness to recognize the conquest of Ethiopia, against which in 1935 she led the League of Nations' 52-country boycott of Italy.

Recognition of Italy's African empire is one of the chief terms of the Anglo-Italian friendship agreement being drafting in Rome.

Without waiting for formal signing of the pact, the British government asked the League of Nations to put the question of Ethiopia on the agenda of the League council meeting opening May 9.

That will be the second anniversary of Italy's annexation of the country.

Britain intends to request that the League free its members of the pledge not to recognize the results of the Italian conquest.

Formal recognition of Ethiopia as Italian then could follow.

HITLER'S NEXT STEP DEBATED IN BERLIN

BERLIN, April 11.—(AP)—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's next step was debated tonight in the wake of the greatest vote of confidence ever accorded him.

Germans in every walk of life speculated whether now he would be inspired to take rapid-fire action on other Nazi "unfinished" business.

Issues seen as particularly pressing in this connection were:

1. The minority problem of the 3,500,000 Germans in Czechoslovakia.
2. The reunion with Germany of former German territory, such as Memel, now a part of Lithuania, and the Polish corridor with the Free City of Danzig.

"EASTER PEACE" HOLIDAY DECLARED FOR AUSTRIA

VIENNA, April 11.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler's Austrian lieutenant, Joseph Buerckel, tonight proclaimed a political holiday of "Easter peace" for Austria until April 25.

"Entire activity of the national Socialist party in Austria must rest during this time," Buerckel decreed.

He announced it was Hitler's wish to enable Nazi organizations thus to replenish their physical and moral power after the period of strenuous campaigning that led up to yesterday's plebiscite, in which Austrians voted 99.75 per cent approval of Austro-German union.

ITALY BACK IN LEAGUE SEEMS POSSIBILITY

GENEVA, April 11.—(AP)—The British move to bring the Italo-Ethiopian question before the League of Nations was viewed here tonight as possibly an effort to bring Italy back into the League.

Reichsfuehrer Hitler has said that Germany would never again return to the League. Therefore, if Britain could cause Italy's return, the observers pointed out, a break in the Rome-Berlin axis might be produced.

'Flying Autos' Urged To Train War Aviators

WASHINGTON, April 11.—(AP) Edwin L. Rice, a Silver Springs, Md., engineer, suggested today that the government supply 20,000,000 citizens with "flying automobiles" as a means of training civilian aviators for military emergencies.

Appearing before the senate naval affairs committee to discuss the $1,221,000,000 naval expansion bill, Rice also proposed that $1,000,000,000 be spent to start a transcontinental waterway development that would permit shifting the fleet right across the country from coast to coast.

At first some of the committee members questioned him, but as he proceeded they subsided into astonished silence.

Only Four-Mile Cut.

The waterways project could be put through, Rice said, by linking the Columbia and Missouri rivers by "one cut of four miles at say, Butte, Mont." As a result the nation would require only one fleet for both coasts and $5,000,000,000 could be saved on warships.

As for the flying automobiles, which he called "Triphibions," Rice said they could be built "under high mass production for as low as $20 apiece," and that if the government would give away 20,000,000 of them it could develop a large reserve of aviators.

Senator Bone, Democrat, Washington, remarked that if 20,000,000 persons took the air "there wouldn't be a house safe in America."

"There'd just be a succession of thuds—of these things dropping on houses," he said.

Gas Would Be "Cushion."

Rice said his flying automobile embodied the streamline design of a biplane with clipped wings and depended for lift both on a propellor and gas. The gas in the lower wing, he pointed out, would serve as a "cushion" in falling.

Rice also proposed that the government should make greater use of "outside brains" in planning national defense.

"If you give the navy a billion, give the outside brains 10 billion," he said earnestly.

"Where are we going to get it?" inquired Chairman Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts.

"Where are you going to get all this money that's going to be spent anyhow?" replied Rice.

REED REPORT STUDY PLANNED BY BOARD

Elimination of Standing Committees Considered by Educators.

The full report of Dr. Thomas H. Reed on the city schools is to be considered at a special meeting of the Atlanta Board of Education later this month, members said yesterday.

The views of the school administration heads will be submitted to the board members at the same time.

Elimination of standing committees of the board, as urged by Dr. Reed after his survey of the city and county governments, was considered yesterday by the rules committee but no action was taken. Ernest Brewer, chairman, and D. F. McClatchey said they favored a "try" at abolishing standing committees.

Several members of the board, attending the rules committee, declared they wish to determine if the board, acting as a committee of the whole, can legally hold executive sessions. Mrs. Z. V. Peterson, board member, asserted an executive session of the board as a committee of the whole would be illegal, since the board must by law have all its meetings public.

"The board as a committee of the whole in executive session would be violating the spirit of the law, even though no final action on a matter was taken," she said.

The rules committee voted to report adversely at the board's regular meeting this afternoon on Brewer's proposal to allow physically and mentally fit teachers to serve to the age of 70. Automatic retirement now comes at the age of 65.

'Losers' Pay Dinner' At Lake Wednesday.

East Lake's golfers may select their own partners in the "Scott Hudson" day dinner tournament Wednesday afternoon, it was announced Monday. And in arranging their own foursomes, the players must decide on which of the teams they will participate.

Entries for the one-day event must be made with Harold or George Sargent, the East Lake professionals, by 9 o'clock Wednesday morning so that the pairings may be made for the 1 o'clock start.

Although the tourney is for golfing members of the club, members who do not play but desire to join in the dinner and entertainment which follows, may reserve plates with George Bell, the East Lake Club manager.

It's the opening of the annual East Lake tournament schedule and preparations are being made to care for a record entry.

Scott Hudson Jr., chairman of the board of directors, and Colonel Bob Jones, president of the club, will be the team captains and the winners will be guests of the losers at the dinner.

Stagehand To Make It Triangle Race—Sande

ST. LOUIS, April 11.—(AP)—Earl Sande, once rated America's greatest jockey, opined today that within another month racing fans will be talking about a three-cornered match race for the 1938 turf championship instead of merely a test between War Admiral and Seabiscuit.

The third horse—and the greatest of the year—is Stagehand, Sande said, as he attended the three-year-old he is taking to Churchill Downs for the Kentucky Derby.

"I won't even wait until after we win the Kentucky Derby to say that Stagehand is entitled to consideration when they talk about a match race for the 1938 championship," the mighty rider of bygone days declared. "This horse beat Seabiscuit in the handicap and on a weight for age basis he can do it again. Stagehand is getting older and stronger every month."

Sande, who has ridden three Kentucky Derby winners, said he could ride again this year but "I wouldn't think it was right to rob Johnny Westrope (Stagehand's regular rider) of his chance. He's good enough to win with this horse."

A fast track for the Derby is Sande's greatest hope. "If it's muddy, this Sun Egret stands a great chance," he said, "and he'll be hard to beat." Stagehand, Sande pointed out, is "just a fair mudder."

BREAK O'DAY!

Fleet Street Was a Street Centuries Ago---It Hasn't Changed

LONDON, England.—(By Mail.)—We were looking in a window where those tweed coats and things are on display and The Lady Who is Traveling With Me said, "Come on in. I am tired of you looking so uncouth. No wonder all the bus and taxi drivers spot you as a tourist. You look like one."

So, that is how it came about that a few days later your correspondent was to be seen on Piccadilly and the Strand wearing what the well-dressed Englishman will wear this spring. The tweed smelled of peat smoke, which all good tweed should do.

There was an engagement down on Fleet street at a newspaper office and so we took the bus at Trafalgar Square and sat down.

The conductor, courteous as they all are, came by to collect. He looked over your correspondent's new tweed jacket and flannel trousers and then leaned over and said:

"I suppose you are going to see the Cheshire cheese, sir, and I will tell you when to get off. All Americans want to see the Cheshire cheese."

So, we got off at the Cheshire cheese, which is just next door to the newspaper office. Having lunched there weeks before we did not gratify the bus conductor's curiosity as he looked from his departing bus.

"Well?" said your correspondent, smoothing down what the well-dressed Englishman will wear.

"I guess," said the Little Woman, "you are just one of those people who look as if you sleep in your clothes."

So, we let it go at that. It's a lovely jacket, though.

A LOOK AT FLEET STREET.

Fleet street was a street centuries ago. Today it is a marvel, filled with tobacco shops, restaurants, pubs and scores of newspaper offices, large and small. The overflow extends down to Tudor street, near the embankment of the Thames.

Weeks ago, as aforesaid, we did lunch at the Cheshire cheese, which was rebuilt in 1667 and which has been there under 14 English kings. It was where Dr. Samuel Johnson and his Boswell used to sit and the place hasn't changed any since. Dr. Johnson's seat is marked with a brass plate.

We had a look at the cellars, which exist from the fifteenth century, and the gentleman showing us around said:

"The boys in the street haven't changed since Dr. Johnson's time. We know from Boswell and other writers how they were. They still are the same, spending their money and having a good time and lending money to people they know won't pay it back. They like a good pint of bitters or a drink of whisky and good food. I think the old man would not feel much out of place if he were to come back now."

AND THEY WOULDN'T.

And I doubt that he would. Nor would Oliver Goldsmith or any of the others who knew the street.

Johnson writes of Goldsmith:

"One morning I received a message from poor Goldsmith that he was in great distress, and, as it was not in his power to come to me, begging that I would come to him as soon as possible. I sent him a guinea, and promised to come to him directly. I accordingly went as soon as I was dressed and found that his landlady had arrested him for his rent, at which he was in a violent passion. I perceived that he had already changed my guinea and had a bottle of Madeira and a glass before him. I put the cork in the bottle and desired he would be calm, and we began to talk of the means by which he might be extricated. He then told me he had a new novel ready for the press, which he produced to me. I looked into it and saw its merit; told the landlady I should soon return, and having gone to a bookseller, sold it for 60 pounds. I brought Goldsmith the money; and he discharged his rent, not without rating his landlady in a high tone for having used him so ill."

The book was "The Vikar of Wakefield."

It's a great place for memories—Fleet street.

And yesterday, at the British Museum, I saw the first copy of Boswell's "Life." It was turned to a section regarding the frankness of Dr. Johnson. He was a real epicure and if, on eating at a friend's home, he found the dinner nothing extra, he was wont to say:

"Well, it was a good dinner, but nothing to invite a man to."

The old gentleman used to insist, with some force, that a man who ate at home or at one place was no real judge of food. Only one who ate at a wide variety of places and enjoyed all food, was a real critic.

As for myself, I know that the taste for caviar, truffles and roast duck acquired at the cafe of the Bothers Hanjaras, has been difficult to dissipate.

PETRELS BATTLE FLORIDA 'GATORS TO 2-2 DEADLOCK

Darkness Halts Well-Played Game After 11 Frames; Play 2 Today

By ROY WHITE.

Oglethorpe and Florida battled 11 innings to a 2-to-2 tie Monday afternoon at Hermance field in the opening of the college baseball season for Atlanta. The game was called on account of darkness at the end of the 11th.

A double-header will be played this afternoon starting at 2 o'clock. The first will be nine innings and the second game seven innings, it was agreed Monday after the tie game.

It was perhaps the best opening college game ever played here.

Lefty Archer, pitching in mid-season form, gave the 'Gators only six hits and kept them so well scattered that no two came in the same inning. He struck out nine batters and walked only two.

Kerby, who last year beat the Petrels a double-header, also was plenty stingy with his base hits, allowing the Petrels only eight. Kerby struck out nine batters and walked only two.

Axelberg, a half-back on John Patrick's eleven, was the hitting hero. It was his first game and Coach Frank Anderson was not counting very heavily on his stick work, but more than pleased, as the football star came through with a double and two singles.

Ivey's two singles led the hitting for Florida.

In today's double-header, Oglethorpe will use Ed Clement and Barrett, while Florida will most likely use Walker and Willis.

'AND EVERY WHERE THAT RUDY WENT . . . . .'

A'S SHORTSTOP INJURED BRAIN

NORFOLK, Va., April 11.—(AP) Lamar (Skeeter) Newsome, shortstop, who was hit on the head by a pitched ball during the Philadelphia A's-Portsmouth baseball game Saturday, received a "moderately severe" brain injury, Dr. Robert L. Payne, his physician, said today. Newsome is in a local hospital.

Dr. Payne made his announcement after examining X-ray pictures showing a fracture of the skull. He said, however, the fracture may have resulted from a head injury sustained by Newsome some time ago. Newsome is conscious at times, the physician said.

Newsome was hit by a fast ball thrown by Scheren, of the Portsmouth Piedmont league club, in the fifth inning. He collapsed at the plate. The injury did not appear to be serious at first but he was taken to the Naval hospital for observation.

Wally Moses, Athletics' outfielder, who injured his right shoulder while sliding home in yesterday's game at Portsmouth, took no part in today's game here. He showed up at the ball park, however, and was not believed to be seriously hurt.

OFFICE MOVED.

NORFOLK, Va., April 11.—(AP)—Headquarters for the Piedmont Baseball league will be moved from Asheville, N. C., to Norfolk, Ralph H. Daughton, newly-elected league president, said today.

Mickey Sees Tigers As Hot Flag Threat

Manager Cochrane Here, Says Rudy York Vastly Improved Catcher; Rowe Looks Good.

By JACK TROY.

Rudy York has improved as a receiver, Schoolboy Rowe is cutting loose again and looks good and the Detroit Tigers, as a whole, appear to be getting ready to make a strong bid for the American league pennant, Manager Mickey Cochrane averred here last night.

"York's catching is much improved," Cochrane declared, "and, of course, there is not much need to go into his hitting. He is a natural hitter. He doesn't hit at many bad balls and he knocks a lot of good ones right out of the park."

COCHRANE.

Cochrane, who is in good shape and has a deep-seated yearning to get back of the plate again, said he didn't guess "there is any chance."

That's one of the nice things about having York around. Mickey would have to beat him out.

Cochrane said he thought the Tigers would figure in the pennant race, all right. "I think we have three hitters in York, Hank Greenberg and Gehringer who will stack up with the best in the game," he said with a grin.

BURDEN ON ROWE.

"A lot depends on Schoolboy Rowe, of course. If he keeps on coming we'll have him and Auker and Bridges and Kennedy and Wade and Lawson," he said without taking a breath.

"Wade has been going great and this young fellow, Babe Davis, a Georgia boy, looks good in a relief role, too."

Mickey asked about the Yankees. Not casually, but in a businesslike manner. He wanted to know how they looked here. And the answer was, of course, very good.

When informed all the Crackers had been looking at this spring was the best pitchers major league clubs had to offer, he responded, "Well, we're going to send Bridges and Kennedy against them."

The Crackers ought to be able to see Southern league pitching pretty well by Thursday. To date they have faced Williams, Kelley, Thomas, Caster, Ross, Ruffing and Gomez. And today and tomorrow they'll see Bridges, the Tennesseean, and Kennedy, who at this time is as good a pitcher as the Tigers own.

NOT JUST THREE.

Cochrane would not agree that the Yankees, Tigers and Cleve-

Well, the Yankees made the Giants look pretty bad, too.

There's that much consolation to be gained out of yesterday's finale in which the Ruppert Rifles were victorious by a score of 9 to 4.

They had the Crackers pressing, forgetting to catch innocent fly balls and generally looking like a modern-day Custer making one of those last stands.

And to make matters worse, a fellow walked into the press box just about the time Steve Sundra went in to relieve Gomez, who retired in the seventh.

"Who?" asked one of the boys.

VARIOUS AND SUNDRA.

"Sundra," said the gentleman who had just walked in. "He was a member of that old vaudeville team of Various and Sundra."

Lefty Gomez was generous with base hits—especially in the first two innings. The Crackers started out with singles by Marshall Mauldin and Emil Mailho. Buster Chatham's sacrifice and Eddie Rose's timely single.

Bolling singled in the second and went to second and third, respectively, on a passed ball and an infield out, and scored on Mauldin's single.

The Crackers, with a three-run lead, seemed off to the races. But the Yankees opened up in the third and tied it up on a five-hit

Scout Molesworth In Narrow Escape

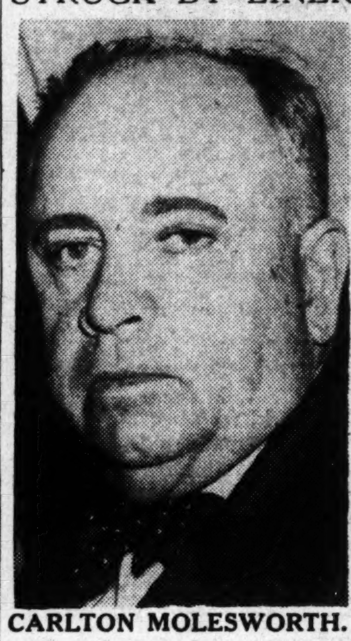
Veteran Struck by Line Drive at Oglethorpe; Bagby One of Finest Rookies He Has Seen.

By TOM McRAE.

Jim Bagby Jr., who at the start of the training season was described as having a big league name but a minor league future, is one of the best rookies seen in the Grapefruit league, Carlton Molesworth, for 13 years a scout for the Pittsburgh Pirates, said here last night.

"He's big and strong and has a fine fast ball. He shows plenty of stuff, too. He impressed me as having 'baseball' sense. If Bagby doesn't make the grade, I miss my guess."

STRUCK BY LINER



CARLTON MOLESWORTH.

Other rookies who Molesworth believes will come through are Enos Slaughter, of the Cardinals, who led the American association in batting last year; Harry Craft, outfielder of Cincinnati; Joe Gordon, New York Yankee second baseman, who fills the shoes of Tony Lazzeri.

The Pirate scout would make no definite prediction on the National league race. "The Pirates will be among the first four," he said.

CARDS DANGEROUS.

He thinks the Cardinals will be hard to stop. "I didn't see anything wrong with Dizzy Dean and surely no one saw anything wrong with the way Medwick, Mize, Martin and Slaughter hit the ball."

Spurgeon Chandler, up for a while last summer, should make the Yankees a very valuable man, Molesworth believes.

Old-time Southern league fans remember Molesworth as the manager of the Birmingham nine for 17 years. He started with the Barons in 1907. After this he managed Columbus in the American association for three years. Since 1925 he has been with Pittsburgh.

He has "discovered" many great players, among them Pie Traynor, John Morrison, Johnny Gooch and Cy Blanton.

And, oh yes, the territory

GIRLS TO HANDLE SALE OF TICKETS TO KENNEL SHOW

Proceeds To Be Used for Tallulah Falls Scholarship Fund.

By YOLANDE GWIN.

Working forces of the two junior groups for the Tallulah Falls school—the Washington Seminary and the North Fulton Circles—were pressed into action yesterday when the members began a ticket sales campaign for the forthcoming dog show to be sponsored by the Atlanta Kennel Club Friday and Saturday at the Shrine Mosque.

The girls—who number more than 100 of the most popular members of the younger set—will be in charge of the advance ticket sale. The show proceeds will be used for the Tallulah school scholarship fund.

Meeting yesterday at the Piedmont Driving Club, the girls were given final instructions and information on the show by I. J. Osbun, president of the Atlanta Kennel Show. The show is the twenty-sixth to be held here.

Last week end in Birmingham, the Atlanta dogs took the Kennel Club's dog show there in stride as they prepped for the Atlanta show.

Atlanta owners of these thoroughbred canines were in a jovial mood yesterday and rightly so. Hadn't their dogs stacked up favorably with the champion show dogs which have been on the tour of the circuit and were all versed and trained in the art of showmanship?

Mrs. Earline G. Clegg's dachshund, Raecher's Dunder v. Earlenheim, was adjudged winner's bitch in stiff competition.

In the Boxer class, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur K. Adams' male "Next Bet of Barmene" was declared reserve winner's dog and their "Mazaline Deborah" was chosen reserve winner's bitch.

I. J. Osbun's Champion Marlene Morning Glory, a Scottish terrier bitch, won acclaim as best of breed and was second in the terrier group, being defeated only by Champion Davishill Little Man, owned by Hallwyre Kennels, of Dallas, Texas, and recognized as one of the outstanding wire fox terriers of all time.

William G. Kiliska's miniature Schnauzer male, "Hallowells Bausond Baume" was picked best of breed and was later placed third in the terrier group.

These three terriers will compete again in the Atlanta Dog Show Friday and Saturday, when the Atlanta dogs will seek revenge, having profited by experience in the Birmingham show.

Osbun's newly acquired male Airedale puppy, "Mike," easily won the winner's dog award and Miss Catharine Erwin's Cairn terrier, "Fiddown Daintiness," was adjudged best of breed. Her miniature poodle, "Fiddown Sparklette," was winner's bitch, and the miniature poodle owned by Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Swanstrom was best of breed.

The Atlanta Kennel Club's twenty-sixth annual purebred dog show is being sponsored by The Constitution and staged under the direction of the Foley Dog Show Organization. When entries closed Friday night, 350 dogs had been entered in the 1938 show.

'It's All in the Wrists,' Says Iron-Man Gehrig

Lou Explains How To Sock 'Em Without Employing a Body Swing.

By BILL MUNDAY.

For some time now a number of folks have been anxious to ascertain just how Mr. Lou Gehhrig, America's No. 1 baseball man ($39.000 per year), can stand at the plate flatfooted, sans a body swing, and smack the ball into neighboring commonwealths. Also to what he attributes his record, still on its journey of playing in nearly 2,000 consecutive contests.

One found the answers. From Mr. Gehrig himself, the star being here exhibitioning with the Yankees.

As we talked we were standing behind the batting cage as the World Champions' half-million dollar diamond talent was according a new coat of horsehide shellac to Ponce de Leon park's outerposts, the stands in left, the sign boards in right and the temporary bleachers which Earl Mann is erecting in center in contemplation of the Crackers' opener Thursday.

"It's all with the wrists, this hitting," affable Lou explained. "Just as in boxing and golf, it's that snap at the instant of contact which brings the pay-off. I see the ball coming and when I swing I endeavor to twist those wrists the second I feel the meat of the bat strike the pitch.

"Other ideas on hitting? I have none. Talent in any line of sports endeavor comes natural and is unexplainable. Take Bobby Jones here in your home town. He could not right now tell you why he has the game which is his. He may theorize, give you all the pointers he knows—but could you go out and play golf like Bobby Jones?"

About this time up sprang from nowhere a gang of gate crashing youngsters, defying law, order and bouncers, for Lou's autograph. He obliged.

"My consecutive record? Only luck. That's all. Pure and simple luck. I have been very fortunate.

"But Mr. Gehrig are you never ill?" the writer asked.

"I said it was luck."

"You have colds sometimes and busted fingers, do you not?"

"Yes, but I'm lucky. They have not been bad."

"Traveling around as you must through the big towns eating in varied and sundry hotels and train diners one would think that at some time or other you might tackle something which would cause ptomaine poison—say catch hold of a deviled crab which had been bedeviled."

"Luck," said Mr. Gehrig just as Bill Dickey swatted one up against the right field signs.

"Is it a charm or would you say predestination?"

"That last is too much. Just luck." He smiled.

Mexican Champ Is Here Friday; Great Scrapper

Bricio Garcia, the fiery Mexican welterweight, that will meet Battling Burroughs in a 10-round fight for the southern welterweight championship in the feature of the Elks' show Friday night at the Warren arena, is one of the greatest Mexican fighters of the present day, and that is saying quite a bit, for some top-notch battlers are fighting under the colors of old Mexico, including Baby Arizimendi, Tony Herrera, Yucatan Kid, Kid Azteca, Cerfibo Garcia and Baby Cazanova.

This little Mexican "wildcat" will make his first southern start here Friday. He is rated right up alongside of his fellow countrymen when it comes to being a top-notch crowd-pleaser.

Reports from south of the Rio Grande below San Antonio and Laredo and El Paso, Texas, where Garcia has been making quite a name for himself, state that he is a regular little "wildcat" in the squared circle. Some of the boys he has beaten are Kid Ortega, Young Joe Rivers, Kid Allen and Battling Chico, "Cowboy" Owens and a few others who are leading fight names down around Texas.

When Garcia first came to the States about four years ago he looked so impressive that he was imported to New York at once to meet the then lightweight champion, Tony Canzoneri, in New York. He gave Canzoneri one of his hardest fights, and it was only the lack of ring experience that caused him to lose. Since that meeting the little Mexican has been battling all comers.

PURPLES MEET TYPISTS; CADETS PLAY SMITHIES

Marist Gets Bye; Two Games Carded in N. G. I. C. League.

By ROY WHITE.

Atlanta's two prep baseball leagues will make another attempt to open the season with four games scheduled this afternoon.

And the weather man has predicted "fair and warmer," which should help to make today's opening the best in the history of prep baseball here.

Two well-balanced leagues have been formed, to take the place of the former widely scattered loops. Tech High, Boys' High, G. M. A., Commercial and Marist have banded together and formed a city prep league, forcing the Monroe Aggies, Columbus and Jordan, of the former Big Eight, to form a new North Georgia Prep league.

LOSING PROPOSITION.

The Big Eight was a losing proposition for some six years for Atlanta's teams and the new league will not only create a new interest locally but will eliminate the former expense of traveling to and from the other cities.

Boys' High and G. M. A. will be host in the opening today, with Marist having an open date. Commercial plays the Purples on the Henry Grady field and Tech High plays the Cadets on the College Park diamond.

Norcross and Fulton High, the defending champion, will be "at home" in opening the North Georgia Interscholastic conference. Norcross plays Decatur and Fulton meets Marietta at Brisbane park. Southwest DeKalb, the other member of the N. G. I. C., will be idle.

TODAY'S SCHEDULES.
CITY PREP.
Commercial at Boys' High.
Tech High at G. M. A.
Marist, bye.
N. G. I. C.
Decatur at Norcross.
Marietta at Fulton.
S. W. DeKalb, bye.

Crackers Ask Waivers On Evans; Vols Claim

The Crackers asked waivers on Art Evans, leading pitcher in the Sally league last year, and Nashville promptly claimed him, President Earl Mann announced yesterday.

Evans, a left-hander, failed to show enough to stick with the Atlanta club, what with John Michaels coming around and Tom Sunkel giving every appearance of being good enough to win in the Southern league. The Crackers also have Lefty Leo Moon, whose record speaks for itself.

Evans will join Nashville right away, the Vols being in need of pitchers. Evans will help them if he gains needed control. Earl Mann revealed that waivers were first asked on the southpaw last Friday. Yesterday was the last day he could be claimed. The Vols almost waited too long.

Nashville also bought Walter Signer and John Kimball, right-handers from Brooklyn, yesterday.

Ex-Fulton Bagger Joins Durham Nine

Rufus Harper, a southpaw formerly with Fulton Bag, reported Monday to Durham in the Piedmont league. Harper won 21 and lost 12 last season in the Florida State league.

He is the property of the Cincinnati team and is reported to be one of their best-looking prospects in the lower class leagues.

Bobby Riggs Eliminates Cooke; David Jones Defeats Boulware

HENDRIX DOWNS BOBBITT; MALON COURTS BEATEN

Jones Will Play Coghlan-Everett Winner at 4 O'Clock.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

Top-seeded Robert Riggs, of Chicago, turned on the power yesterday to eliminate Elwood Cooke, seventh-ranked player from Portland, Ore., from the Atlanta invitation tennis tournament on the Northside Club courts. The scores were 6-3, 7-5.

Riggs, extended for the first time in the meet, displayed superb tennis in trouncing the steady Cooke to win his way into the semi-finals.

He will battle Arthur Hendrix, No. 4 of Lakeland, Fla., who, after dropping the first set to Atlanta's youthful Russell Bobbitt, came back to win, 3-6, 6-0, 6-4.

In the other quarter-final match played, David Jones, unseeded surprise winner over fifth-seeded Martin Buxby, continued his brilliant play in blasting Burtz Boulware, 6-1, 6-2, in an all-Atlanta battle.

BEATS COURTS.

Bernie Coghlan, of Los Angeles and seeded sixth, eliminated Malon Courts, of Atlanta, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4, while young Harris Everett, of Jacksonville, whipped Georgia Tech's Red Hill, 6-2, 6-2, in a pair of late third-round matches.

These two winners will meet at 11 o'clock this morning for a place in the semi-finals opposite Jones.

Hendrix, completely outplayed by Bobbitt in the first set, changed his style of attack in the second and third to eliminate the Tech youngster in a pat-ball battle.

In the final point of the match, the ball crossed the net 26 times, which was typical of the long, drawn-out battle.

Boulware, like Buxby, could not cope with Jones' terrific service and net game, and was never in the match.

One of the most interesting contests of the day was furnished by Courts and Coghlan, but the steady Californian, playing almost errorless tennis, outlasted the Atlanta star.

FIVE SETS.

Today's semi-final singles rounds will bring together Jones and the winner of the Coghlan-Everett match at 4 o'clock. Bobby Riggs will battle Arthur Hendrix at 7:30 tonight. All semi-finals will be the best of five sets.

In addition to the singles battles, two semi-final doubles matches will be held. Action is promised when third-seeded Jones and Courts meet the second-ranked team of Hendrix and Cooke at 9 o'clock, and Bobbitt and Bill Moore, No. 4, take the courts against Dr. Glen Dudley and Malcolm Manley at 3 this afternoon.

RESULTS.

Quarter-Final Singles.

'Old Order Changeth'

Many New Names, Faces in Southern League Line-Ups; George Only Pel Holdover From Last Year; Crackers Have Fewest New Players.

By Jack Troy

Ladies and gentlemen, you are going to have to turn to your score cards for names and numbers of the players in the Southern league this summer because there aren't many faces you will recognize.

The Southern league generally is a league of new cognomens and features. There has been a tremendous turnover in all towns except Atlanta.

The Crackers will have three new players in the opening day line-up, but only two of them are brand-new—Al Rubeling and Jack Bolling. Eddie Rose, in left, played most of the season.

Fans around the circuit can identify the Crackers rather easily, but in some cases the only way one can tell what club is playing is by believing the names on their shirts.

New Orleans has had the biggest turnover. Only Charley (Greek) George, former Oglethorpe catcher, is not new.

You might say Little Rock has had as many, since Skinny Graham, in center, is the only starter of 1937 back on the roster. But Kola Sharpe, who will pitch opening day, is an old Pebble. That makes two for Doc Prothro.

Then, too Nashville does not look the same. Only Bill Rodda is back as a '37 starter. But Ray Starr will hurl opening day. He's an old Vol. So they have two.

Manager Neil Caldwell is the only Smokie left from the starting team of last season, with Gordon Maltzberger, former Cracker and a holdover, slated to pitch on opening day here in Atlanta.

NEW TALENT.

All the other teams—Birmingham, Memphis and Chattanooga—have dealt largely in new talent.

In the case of Chattanooga, however, Johnny Gill and Fred Sington are back as old favorites.

In order to get a good idea as to how the clubs have changed a comparison of the starting teams of last year and this year is offered herewith:

Lindsey Explained Pitching Secret.

A rookie once asked Big Jim Lindsey the secreta of success in pitching.

And Big Jim responded, "Get a job pitching for the Yankees, son."

It always was Lindsey's idea that a Yankee pitcher had a fairly good job because of the hitting strength behind him.

This is largely true, no doubt, but you find that the Yankee pitchers, in many cases, don't need a whole lot of runs to win. Fellows like Ruffing, Gomez, Pearson, Chandler and others are capable of winning on a narrow lead.

The Ruppert Rifles simply make it easier when they come through in the big innings.

York, Davis, White Here With Tigers.

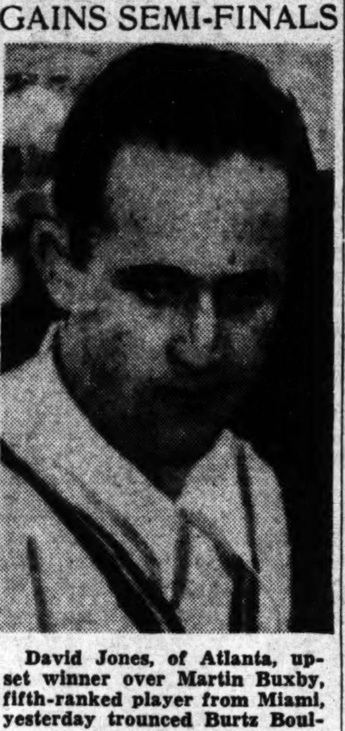
Three Georgia boys will be here today with the Detroit Tigers, who are tied for second place in victories in the Grapefruit league.

The three native-born Bengals are Rudy York, of Cartersville, the home run sensation; Jo Jo White, of College Park, fleet outfielder, and Babe Davis, of Odum, a right-handed pitcher.

Davis pitched Cordele to the pennant in 1936. Toronto picked him up and he won more than half his games. He is expected to make good with the Tigers.

Thanks, Mr. E. B. Smith, for the reminder.

GAINS SEMI-FINALS



David Jones, of Atlanta, upset winner over Martin Buxby, fifth-ranked player from Miami, yesterday trounced Burtz Boulware to enter the semi-finals of the fourth annual Atlanta invitation tennis tournament on the Northside Club courts. He will play the winner of the Coghlan-Everett match today at 4 o'clock in an effort to gain the finals.

CRACKERS

attack which included singles by Joe Gordon, Gomez and Knickerbocker, a double by Rolfe and a single by Lou Gehrig.

FIELDER'S CHOICE.

In the fourth, Myril Hoag singled, Gordon walked, Gomez sacrificed, Knickerbocker walked and then, so help me, if Hoag and Gordon didn't score on Red Rolfe's fielder's choice. Both of them scored, I mean.

The Crackers played a bit wierdly in the sixth. After Gordon's single, Knickerbocker was given a double when Eddie Rose and Marshall Mauldin let the fly drop between them. Rolfe and Gehrig singled and Dickey also got a double on a ball that should have been caught. The Yanks' three runs in this inning ended their scoring.

In the previous inning, Tom Henrich lowered the boom and when Mauldin finally retrieved the ball on the center-field bank and it was relayed a couple of times, Henrich was across home plate with room to spare. It was a well-socked homer.

WILLIAMS SCORES.

The Crackers closed out the game with a run off Sundra. Rubeling singled and was forced by Williams. John Rucker batted for Tom Sunkel and singled. Then Mauldin singled past second, scoring Williams.

Sunkel sort of shut the door in the Yankees' face in the last three innings, allowing only one hit. Harris was a trifle wild, but nevertheless pitched a lot better ball than his record might indicate.

And Sunkel came along to hurl masterfully in his three innings. This young left-hander really showed the Ruppert Rifles something. Only 10 men faced him.

Of the Crackers 12 hits collected off Gomez and Sundra, Mauldin got three and Mailho and Rose obtained two each.

MAULDIN GETS THREE.

Rolfe and Gehrig topped the Yanks' 14-hit attack with three blows apiece.

Today the Detroit Tigers will challenge the Crackers in the first of a two-game series. The Tigers came to town last night.

Ralph Buxton, the young right-hander recently acquired from the Athletics on option, will pitch for Atlanta.

The game begins at 3 o'clock.

through which he works. From Canada to Texas.

He is now working his way up to his home in Frederick, Md., scouting college and amateur players. He saw the Oglethorpe-Florida game yesterday and narrowly escaped serious injury when grazed by a fouled line drive while sitting on the bench. Tubby Walton drove him in to town. Last night he appeared to be all right. A tradgedy may have been averted by a fraction of an inch.

"I reckon I've been pretty lucky," he said. "It's the first time in 43 years in baseball that I've come close to serious injury."

COCHRANE SEES TIGERS IN RACE

land Indians seem to be the class of the American league. "The Boston club is much improved and Washington has a pretty good ball club, too. It may lack a little something defensively, but offensively it is rather powerful."

Jo Jo White, the College Park boy, is being used in a utility outfield role. Pete Fox, Dixie Walker and Cullenbine, a sensational young player, patrol the Tiger outfield.

"If White could hit day in and day out he would be a wonder. There are few outfielders who can go and get them any better than Jo Jo," Mickey said.

Asked for a definite opinion of the Tigers' chances, Cochrane declared that "We'll give any of them a battle. You can bet on that.

CAN BEAT YANKS.

"We need Rowe because he can beat the Yankees. They have been tough to get out in the stadium. They practically have won two pennants on their home grounds. They haven't had to be much of a road club.

'And you can put this down—pennants are won in the pitcher's box. The power is discounted if you don't have that pitching," the peppery Tiger pilot continued.

Cochrane believes the El Dorado, Ark., right-hander, Schoolboy Rowe, is getting right. And that may explain why he grins when one brings up talk of pennant. Because, as he says, pennants are won in the pitcher's box. And with Rowe the Tigers will have a staff second to none in the American league.

"Billy Rogell will start at shortstop for the first time this spring in the Cracker game tomorrow," Cochrane said. Rogell has been out with a leg infection.

CLASS INFIELD.

So that gives the Tigers a full strength infield of Mark Christman, third; Rogell, short; Gehringer, the American league's most valuable player last year, second, and Hank Greenberg, first base.

Fans who attend the two-game series may easily be looking at the next American league pennant winner. Or at least the fans who will have had a chance to see both the Yankees and the Tigers can count on having had the privilege of witnessing the first and second clubs for this season in the Heydler circuit.

Cochrane tried to recall the last time Detroit had played in Atlanta and finally gave up. "It's been a long time, but we hear a lot about Atlanta as a baseball town. Such popularity must be deserved," he concluded.

GEORGIA TOBACCO TO HOLD UP IN PRICE

Rivers Says Marketing Act Will Increase State's Acreage Slightly.

MACON, Ga., April 11.—(AP)—Georgia tobacco growers will receive "substantially the same prices" as last year under the tobacco marketing control act, Governor Rivers said here today after a conference with federal and state marketing officials.

Governor Rivers was en route from South Georgia speaking engagements to Birmingham, Ala., where he will testify before an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing tomorrow on southern freight rates.

He conferred with J. B. Hutson, assistant federal farm administrator in charge of tobacco; LaFayette Patterson, associated with Mr. Hutson, and L. R. Lanier, Georgia Extension Service agent for the southeastern section of the state.

Mr. Hutson is en route from Washington to south Georgia, where he will study the tobacco situation and try to relieve "inequities" which some growers contend exist under the new marketing control act.

"Under the administration of the control act, as it affects tobacco, there is a curtailment in production of about 100 million pounds," Governor Rivers said, "taking the whole belt including Georgia, North and South Carolina, Florida and Virginia.

Despite this curtailment, the executive said, "the total Georgia acreage will not be reduced; on the contrary, our allotment will exceed slightly the total acreage of last year. In effect, the curtailment over the entire belt comes from states other than Georgia."

CHERBOURG, France, April 11. (UP) — Lily Pons, lithesome French opera star, limped down the gangplank of the liner Queen Mary with an assortment of bandages today after carrying out the trooper's creed that "the show must go on," even in a raging Atlantic storm.

Miss Pons, one of 40 passengers hurt when a 24-hour long storm sent great waves smashing over the liner on her trip from New York, suffered an injured wrist and "other slight injuries" when she forgot to keep a tight grip on a safety rope and skidded across the stage during a shipboard show. She had promised to sing and did, regardless of the gale.

BATTLE FOR PROXIES TO CONTROL C. & O. ON

CLEVELAND, April 11.—(AP)—Charles L. Bradley and John P. Murphy, fighting Robert R. Young for control of the Van Sweringen railroad empire, carried their battle direct to the profitable Chesapeake & Ohio railway today by announcing they were soliciting proxies for its April 19 meeting at Richmond, Va.

The present C. & O. management solicited proxies February 15 and followed with another letter April 4, stating "these proxies are being solicited on behalf of the management."

'PEE WEE' BURNS ENDS GRAND JURY EVASION, TESTIFIES

Attorney Secretly Produces Witness in 'Pay-Off' Probe; Grilled at Length.

The Fulton county grand jury yesterday completed its game of "hide-and-seek" with A. T. Jeans, alias "Pee Wee Burns." He turned up in the grand jury room after failing to answer a summons, and his attorney had insisted he didn't know the whereabouts of his client.

Burns, well known among Atlanta's underworld characters, and now at liberty on a $5,000 appeal bond from a robbery conviction in Macon, was slipped into the grand jury room and escorted out on the run by his attorney, W. R. Bentley, behind a screen of grand jurors recessing for lunch.

Grilled at Length.

Jurors questioned Burns more than two hours. The ex-prize fighter was reported to have been "out" when special investigators from the solicitor general's office attempted to serve him with a subpoena Saturday. It was understood he was questioned in connection with the probe into police "payoffs" by bootleggers and other Atlanta racketeers.

When investigators returned to Burns' home later Saturday, they said he outran them. They reported they were armed with a court order for his arrest. Bentley, however, informed Assistant Solicitor E. E. Andrews Burns would appear yesterday morning.

Others Are Examined.

Included among witnesses yesterday were Walt Jones, Ralph Burnside, Charlie Christian, Charlie Strickland, Paul Johnson, Ike Sneed and others.

More than a score of witnesses were summoned to appear yesterday, including several roadhouse operators, businessmen and well-known underworld characters.

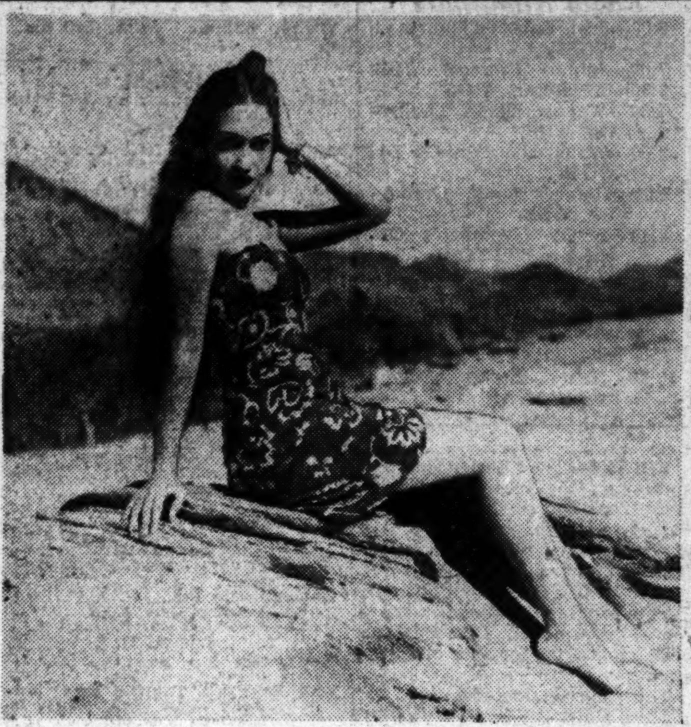
Could YOU Double for Dorothy? 'Jungle Love' Contest Opens



Do you resemble Dorothy Lamour in size, coloring and features? If so, you may win cash or guest theater tickets to "Her Jungle Love" at the Paramount.

In "Her Jungle Love"—the first jungle picture ever flimed in technicolor—Dorothy Lamour is the white goddess "discovered" by Ray Milland and Lynne Overman, trans-Atlantic flyers forced down on a desert island by a typhoon.

Now The Constitution and the Paramount theater are trying to "discover" the person in Atlanta who, if an understudy had to be selected, looks enough like Dorothy Lamour to "fill in" for her. First, it is necessary that your hair be dark and shimmering. Second, you must be attractive in appearance. Miss Lamour is a beauty contest winner. Third, you must be shapely. Miss Lamour was a professional model at one time.

If you think you have the qualifications to step into the character of the white goddess of "Her Jungle Love," send your picture, with a notation of your age, coloring, height, weight, etc., to the Dorothy Lamour Contest Editor of The Constitution. Cash prizes of $10, $7.50, $5 and $2.50 will be given to the four girls who most nearly qualify. In addition, 15 pairs of guest tickets to "Her Jungle Love," opening Friday at the Paramount theater, will be given.

Thursday morning at 10 o'clock is the deadline for entries.

RIVERS ADVOCATES WORKING REFORMS

Shorter Hours, Better Pay Urged by Governor in Address to Editors.

CLAXTON, Ga., April 11.—(AP) Governor Rivers proposed shorter working hours and better pay for Georgians today in a talk before the First District Press Association.

He said only 5 per cent of Georgians get annual vacations with pay, and suggested that a program of shortened hours and increased pay would enable more people to enjoy holidays.

The Governor said he expected a new world war and blamed the conflict on "the ignorance existing among the peoples in foreign countries." He said 60 per cent of the people in the "likely theater of war" could neither read nor write.

Describing education as the route to peace, he urged extension of the American education program to reach more people.

Quart of Whisky 30 Years Old May Bring $72

A bottle of whisky bought for 90 cents may be worth $72 a year to J. A. Corley, retired Atlanta patrolman—if a friend of his is granted a liquor license.

Corley, who left the police department two years ago after 27 years' service, bought the bottle, a quart normally worth $1.50, at a sale in 1907, just before saloons were outlawed in Atlanta.

He took it to his home at 462 Tenth street, N. W., and put it away, saying he would "keep it for emergencies." No emergency arose, and the bottle remained unopened.

A long-time friend, who has applied for a license to sell liquor, promised to pay Corley $6 a month rent on the bottle, for advertising use in his planned store, the veteran officer revealed yesterday.

DANCER DROPS IN, LEADS W.C.C. BAND

Dixie Dunbar Yields Floor for Podium.

Dixie Dunbar, who usually beats time with her feet before a camera or on the stage, last night picked up a baton and directed the Girls' Military band, sponsored by the Women's Chamber of Commerce, for several numbers during their practice.

Dixie, here on vacation, heard the newly-organized band was practicing last night and decided to drop in on the girls. Before she became such a celebrity, Dixie did dance solos and played a saxophone here herself.

H. A. Taylor is leader of the band. Miss Tommie Parrish, president of the Woman's Chamber; Mrs. Howard Pattillo, and Mrs. Carolyn Seivers are on the committee helping the girls get organized.

25 DAYS IN A LIFEBOAT!

WHEN the British tramp steamer Trevessa sank a few years ago, 24 seamen were suddenly plunged into a desperate adventure, one of the longest unbroken voyages in an open boat on record. For 25 days, and 2300 miles, they sailed the Indian Ocean, jammed tightly into a tiny lifeboat, steering by sun and stars, existing on a daily ration of two tablespoonfuls of condensed milk, one of water. When they finally sighted land, the boat was lighter by the weight of seven men, and two were yet to die. The hitherto untold story of that voyage is in the Post this week. See page 5.

THE WRITING IN THE SKY

ON THAT hot dawn, thousands of people stood still in Washington streets, staring silently at the sky. Some men took their hats off and some crossed themselves. Women laughed nervously, almost hysterically. Traffic stopped. Drivers got out of their cars, to eye with terror the huge black letters, unlike any skywriting that man had ever seen before. Later they turned, wondering, toward the White House. An imaginative story by the author of The Romance of Rosy Ridge.

Popular Belles To Arrive Friday For Visit to Harriett Callaway

By Sally Forth.

THE social pace of the sub-deb contingent will be accelerated to marked degree on Friday by the arrival of a trio of popular visiting belles, Betty Lummus and Lucile McDuffie, of Columbus, and Nancy Moses, of Chattanooga. These belles will be the guests for the week end of Harriett Callaway at her home on Woodward way, and you never heard of such a whirl of gay parties planned for every minute of their visit!

Betty, who as you know, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lummus, and Nancy, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Moses, have visited Harriett before, and a cordial welcome awaits them from their contemporaries. This will be Lucile's first visit to Harriett, whom she met when the two attended Rockbrook Camp at Brevard, N. C., last summer. Lucile is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. H. McDuffie, of Columbus, and judging from advance reports of her attractiveness, she will be as much in demand as Nancy and Betty with Harriett's wide circle of friends.

Harriett has planned a scavenger hunt for her guests on Friday evening, the affair to be followed by a buffet supper at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Callaway. Later that evening the hostess and her visitors will be the guests of Anna Lane at a spend-the-night party at her home on Palisades road.

Peggy Crosswell has planned a breakfast for Saturday at her home on Wieuca road, the occasion also to mark Peggy's birthday anniversary. In the afternoon Laura Palmer will be hostess at tea at her home on Woodcrest avenue in compliment to the lovely trio and their hostess who ranks as one of the most popular and attractive members of Atlanta's school set.

PRETTY Joyce Estes, one of the most popular members of the younger set, is wearing a beautiful jeweled Sigma Chi pin these days in recognition of her choice as "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi," an honor many girls crave either officially or unofficially.

The young belle was chosen the sweetheart of the Tech chapter of the fraternity at the anuual "Sweetheart Ball" given by the group during the week end, and selection was made by a committee of alumni in conjunction with the active chapter members at the formal dinner which preceded the dance. Just before the Sigma Chi "no-break" it was announced that Joyce was the official sweetheart and she was presented the jeweled fraternity pin. Judy Garland and Sonja Henie, of radio and movie fame, have also been named Sigma Chi sweethearts by the fraternity chapters throughout the country.

THE spotlight falls on Sunday upon beautiful and attractive Mrs. Herbert L. Hawkes, who will arrive in Atlanta, accompanied by her distinguished husband, Dean Hawkes, of Columbia University. She is the former Anna L. Rose and was dean of women at Washington University for several years.

Since 1929, Mrs. Hawkes has been staff assistant on the Carnegie Foundation for Advancement of Teaching, and is on the national board of the Young Women's Christian Association. She holds A. B., M. A. and Ph. D. degrees and belongs to the Chi Omega sorority and Kappa Beta Pi honorary sorority.

Socially prominent Atlantans have met Mrs. Hawkes upon other visits here, and her brunet loveliness and charm made lasting impression upon them. She is an entertaining conversationalist and possesses a distinctive flair for selecting costumes that suit her graceful figure and brunet type. Mrs. Hawkes is affiliated with the Women's University Club and is a member of the Episcopal church.

ACTIVITIES of Atlanta girls at the University of Georgia never fail to create interest among the folks "back home," and today Sally Forth is happy to tell you of five co-eds who have been elected to membership on the Pan-Hellenic Council, the governing board of the sororities at the university.

Those chosen are Jane Coffin, a Kappa Delta; Rannie Geissler, and Louise McKie, Tri-Delta's; Lois Bridges, an Alpha Delta Pi, and Marion Ehrhardt, a member of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. The president of the council, which is composed of two representatives from each sorority, is Bessie Dreizin, of Butler, Georgia.

Miss Laura Rapaport Will Be Honored.

Miss Laura Rapaport, of New York, field worker for the National Council of Jewish Women, will be honor guest at the tea to be given Friday at the home of Mrs. Herbert Kuhlman on Clifton road. She arrives in Atlanta on Wednesday to attend a board meeting of Atlanta Council of Jewish Women.

Mrs. Herman Heyman will preside and on Thursday Miss Rapaport speaks on "What the Council of Jewish Women Offers to the Jewish Women of Today, and Her Place In An Ever-Changing World."

To Honor Mrs. Rohde.

The meeting of the Atlanta chapter of Delta Gamma sorority has been changed from today to Thursday, in order to honor the distinguished Delta Gamma, the Hon. Ruth Bryan Rohde. A luncheon will be held at Rich's tea room at 12:30 o'clock.

MY DAY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sunday.—I did not have space the other day to tell you of a very delightful dinner I attended in New York city, given by the Hon. James W. Gerard in the interest of the Todhunter School building fund. Mr. Gerard's house is one of the most charming I have ever been in. I was interested to hear Mrs. Gerard say that everything in it was an expression of her own taste and interests.

Some of the furniture had been inherited from her own family, some from Mr. Gerard's family, and she had picked out everything else herself. That is the reason, I imagine, why it gives you a sense of unity and restrained good taste throughout. They are charming hosts. Mr. Gerard has managed so many public functions that I think he even succeeded in limiting the speeches of his guests to a reasonable length of time, so that no one went away feeling he had been talked to death.

We arrived in Hyde Park on Friday, to find patches of snow still on the ground and anything but a spring climate. My hopes of premature summer were not realized and the rain fell all afternoon and all night. It didn't make a great deal of difference to me, because some work was done during the winter in my living room and all the books had been taken out and stood in piles around the room. I spent the entire afternoon sorting and arranging books. When my feet became weary, I sat on the floor and looked at the books for a few minutes. Altogether, it was a very satisfactory way to spend a rainy afternoon.

I came across some delightful picture books with texts to add to their interest. I enjoyed "Noodle" all over again. I also enjoyed "Ezekiel," by Elvira Garner. It may be written for children, but I am sure no one will open it without being amused by the illustrations and interested by the text.

I can see a small lake, instead of the old swamp, out of my living room windows now, and I rejoice at the outlook even through the rain.

After supper we lit a fire and talked a while before retiring early. Saturday the rain still came down, but there was a new horse to be tried, a lovely one that looked somewhat like "Black Beauty." The rain changed to a heavy drizzle for a little while and so we went out for a short horseback ride. But there seems no chance whatever for a real change, for Miss Cook came in and told us the barometer was dropping steadily and she thought it would soon reach the cyclone stage.

I have been reading the statements made by Director Simmons, of Cornell, before the committee considering the youth act in Washington. I am struck by the fact that he stresses the great need there is for a better understanding of the problems of rural youth and for more adequate training, not only in agricultural pursuits, but in other ways to give these youths skills by which they can add to their agricultural income.

Hollywood Today

By SHEILAH GRAHAM

INTERVIEW WITH MITZI GREEN.

HOLLYWOOD, April 10.—Four years ago, Mitzi Green left Hollywood, a healthy, plump brunette brat, aged 13, with a well-known, if mean, movie reputation. She returned this week, a fragile, slender blonde, with charming manners and a good word for everybody and everything—especially Hollywood.

"It's wonderful to be back," says Mitzi over a mushroom omelette in her Chateau Elysee apartment. "It'll take me some time to get used to the place, though—I feel like a tourist—everything is so much bigger—it's almost like New York. And so much has happened since I was here last. All the children I used to work and play with are married — Jackie Coogan (Mitzi was Becky to Jackie's Tom Sawyer in 1932). When I think of the fights Jackie and I used to have! And little Anne Shirley—we were brought up as children together—oh, she's so sweet and beautiful. I saw her in 'Stella Dallas'—wasn't she wonderful? I can't believe she's a married woman." To the question, "How about you—any marriage plans?" Mitzi replies, "I have plenty of time for that."

Right now, the ex-pest of the screen is more interested in meeting her old friends—and the new starlets who have twinkled to fame during her absence.

"They tell me Jackie Cooper is quite a big boy now. It doesn't seem possible. He was such a kid when we did 'Skippy.' And Shirley Temple—tell me about her, isn't she cute? I've seen her in every picture." Jane Withers, sugar-coated Mitzi Green of today, is equally popular with her predecessor.

"It was a lot of fun being a child star—no responsibility and all play," sighs Mitzi. "They have a better time today than we did. Stories are written especially for them. In my day, we had to take pot luck. And, of course, they are paid more." (Mitzi's top salary as a moppet star was $1,000—and there were no indorsements.) "But Mum and Dad saved my money and I'm comfortably set for life.

"Adolescence has become box-office," continues Mitzi, "but I think it important for a child star's future to leave Hollywood during the in-between period. I've learned so much in the four years I've worked out of movies."

Radio, personal appearances, a summer of stock in Skowhegan, night club singing, and the leading role in the New York musical show, "Babes in Arms," prepared Mitzi for her re-entry into films. First picture is "Fiddlesticks" for RKO-Radio. If Miss Green is a success, there is a long-term contract awaiting her.

"Oh, I do hope I make good—I want to stay in Hollywood. I love it here." There is no definite starting date for the film. "I want to rest up. It's only now that I've stopped working I realize how tired I am." Mitzi is underweight and very pale—109 pounds—height, five feet six. "It's what I weighed when I left here."

After a rest of two weeks—"I'm going to investigate Hollywood night life—I was too young for it when I worked here before." And she wants to meet all the film stars — particularly Clark Gable and Fred Astaire. "They were only just getting known in pictures when I left."

Mitzi first saw Los Angeles at the age of 8, giving impersonations with her vaudevillian parents at the Orpheum. "Elsie Janis told Paramount about me and I was signed for 'Marriage Playground.'" Stars of the picture were Fredric March and Mary Brian (what's happened to her?) and the late Lilyan Tashman. Kay Francis played a tiny role as Mitzi's mother.

Mitzi's concluding speech will depress ambitious mamas of embryonic prodigies.

"It's always hard for children to break into pictures. Why? Because the market is always flooded with clever children."

The man who made out the "sucker list" for a lottery couldn't have done a poorer job. One of 50 letters was addressed to Fred North. North is the Rocky Ford, Cal., postmaster.

A PRETTY APRON THAT REALLY FITS.

This apron protects your dresses just where you are most likely to splash and spatter them when getting a company meal. Besides that, it fits perfectly and it will not slip off the shoulders. It's decorative, too, so that you need never be embarrassed if early guests find you still wearing it. The square neckline, the flare, the braid trim, all make it attractive. You can make it in just a few hours. The diagram shows you how quick and easy it is!

Make this one up in percale, gingham, broadcloth, plain or printed, and trim it with braid to harmonize or contrast. The gayer in color aprons are, the better!

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1479-B is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 1 7-8 yards of 35-inch material. Five yards of braid for trimming.

PLEASANT HOMES

By ELIZABETH M'RAE BOYKIN.

A KITCHEN TO BE PROUD OF.

Lettie makes an art out of cooking.

A pocketful of posies to Lettie K. who has done the almost impossible in making herself a kitchen that has charm on its own responsibility — without sacrificing convenience and efficiency either.

A Repertoire of Kitchen Parties.

In the first place, Lettie makes an art of her cooking, so she felt she had a smart kitchen coming to her. Besides she loves to entertain in her kitchen and has a whole repertoire of parties that seem naturally to center there. Candy pulls, welsh rarebit suppers, waffle breakfasts, chicken fries, spaghetti suppers and ever so many other specialties of her house add to the interest of life for her friends. So 'tis no wonder she wanted a setting worthy of her and her recipes. Different, too, it must be—don't forget that.

Green and White Gingham.

It's a big kitchen, it goes without saying, and sunny. Because all her cabinets are the usual white, Lettie had the walls painted white, too, so as not to cut up the spaces. But she had her ceiling "papered" in the loudest plaid gingham she could find in brilliant green and white. (Put up with starch paste, but it can be peeled off, washed and put back up). Curtains are of this same green and white plaid gingham, but made on little brass rings so they sweep out of the light with a swish. All the chairs have slip covers of this gingham which Lettie keeps looking as fresh and starched as a little girl off to school in the morning. The linoleum floor is a pine board pattern and the big kitchen table is an old-time wood one that she keeps scrubbed white all the time. And, of course, there's a rocker with a green and white cushion in it.

Extra work? Of course. All the gracious things of life take a little extra work, if you want to call it work. But an artist at her job—whether she's painting a picture, baking a cake or ironing a curtain—doesn't call it work. So, lady dear, better watch your words or you'll give yourself away.

"HATE" WAR.

Students at the Los Angeles campus of the University of California voted war as being their worst "hate." After that came injustice, poverty, reckless drivers, slow drivers, turnips and beets.

Your Figure, Madame

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

This little white rat had vitamin G . . . but that little white rat had none! And you should see the difference. The one who had plenty of vitamin G attained better than average growth, had a rich, glossy coat, and was really handsome. The other little fellow weighed only one-fourth as much, appeared weak and depressed, had a very poor posture and lost his hair in big patches.

Personally, you may not care for little white rats, but the nutritionists regard them as the real benefactors of humanity. Since their life span is 30 times as rapid as man's, it is possible to study in a comparatively short time the effect of certain foods or the lack of those foods on several generations. The insidious thing about malnutrition in children is that the ill effects are not discovered until too late.

Laboratory nutrition furnishes a control diet for the rest of the world. The discoveries about vitamin G show it to be a necessary factor in growth and in adequate nutrition at all ages. On a diet low in vitamin G the results are a susceptibility to skin infection, increased nervousness and premature old age.

In a group of experiments conducted at Columbia University the object was to determine the proportion of vitamin G in food which gave the best results. The rats, which were already being fed adequately, were given extra amounts of vitamin G and the effect of the diet was observed carefully. On three times the amount of vitamin G as had been contained in their normal healthy diet the animals showed increased vitality and more vigorous health. The experiments were then continued with the next generation, which was given up to ten times the normal amount of vitamin A and which continued to show increasing benefits to health.

Milk is the most important source of vitamin G.

In a report before the American Chemical Society, Dr. Henry C. Sherman, of Columbia University, said: "Thus it is found that differences in the relative proportions in which we choose our everyday staple foods may make sufficient difference in the body's internal environment to influence measurably one's well-being, especially when such differences are continued throughout a lifetime."

Vitamin G, being one of the lesser known vitamins, needs a little publicity. Scientifically it is known as riboflavin and also as vitamin B2. The sources of this vitamin are eggs, lean meats, milk, fruits and vegetables. Liver is richer in the vitamin than the muscle meats and eggs are richer than most meats. Milk, according to Dr. Sherman, is the most important source in that it supplies so many other essential dietary factors.

Extensive research indicates that it is possible to get too many vitamins in concentrated form. Nutritionists urge us to think of vitamins as food rather than as medicine—and it is not possible to get too many protective foods.

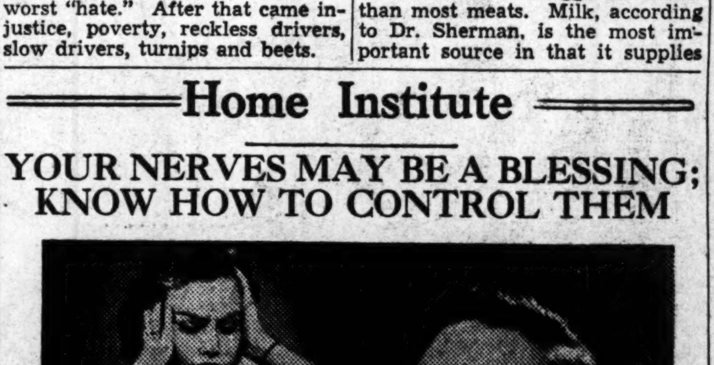
YOUR NERVES MAY BE A BLESSING; KNOW HOW TO CONTROL THEM



NERVES HINT YOU'RE KEENER, BRIGHTER

What a bright personality Phyllis has since she conquered her nerves! "A peach," people say.

Nobody weeps for the old Phyllis. Everybody gets sick of tantrums, spells of fatigue, talk of insomnia and nervous indigestion.

How to change from a miserably nervous person into a charming happy one?

Look at your nerves for what they are—an asset. You go to pieces easily because you're keener, more thin-skinned and impressionable than most people. Abuse this extra sensitiveness and nerves—perhaps a breakdown—result. Use it and your face is expressive, your talk gay, enthusiastic. You are more vital than a placid type can ever be.

What did you do today to abuse your nerves! Did you brood about Phil's silent streak? Did you eat a snack for lunch, standing up in the kitchen? Did you skip a movie you wanted to see, to stay home and mend curtains?

How different you'd feel and be if you'd give your nerves a healthy outlet.

Ask Phil right out why he's so silent. Show that you understand. That pleases him and gives your emotions the outward flow they need.

At meals relax. Even if you're alone, put out a pretty plate, get cheery music on the radio.

As for the movie you missed, your nervous type needs fun. Plan good times as regularly as you plan meals. Give your naturally high spirits expression and you'll be the charming animated person you were meant to be.

Simple to plan a program for your nerves. In our 40-page booklet, "How to Avoid and Overcome Nervous Troubles," a practicing nerve specialist tells how to understand and treat nerves, attain poise, vitality.

Send 15c for our booklet, HOW TO AVOID AND OVERCOME NERVOUS TROUBLES, to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Atlanta Council Indorses Program.

Believing that a planned public recreation program is a basic necessity for any community, Atlanta P.-T. A. Council Thursday adopted a resolution requesting the mayor to call a conference of representatives of city council, the parks department, the school department, the Carnegie Library and the health department with a view to considering ways and means for establishing a definite recreation program for the city and securing funds and leadership for such a program.

The resolution introduced by Mrs. H. R. O'Quinn, Atlanta council recreation chairman, included the fact that the Reed report emphasized this need and made definite recommendations to the city concerning it.

Another phase of the Reed report was brought before senior high section by L. R. Chubb, Dr. Reed's assistant. Mr. Chubb in speaking on "The Citizen's Part in Solving Atlanta's School Problem" said that the building need is the most important in the school situation. His suggestion and that of Dr. Reed was a 10 per cent reduction in the pay of all teachers receiving $110 or more, this money to be used in building the necessary schools. Mrs. Z. V. Peterson, of the Board of Education, took issue with Mr. Chubb upon the accuracy of the Reed report in the comparison of Atlanta teachers' salaries with those of other cities. She said that it was unfair to compare the restored Atlanta salaries of 1937 with those of other cities of 1934.

Miss Gertrude Corrigan, principal of Highland Avenue school, and Mrs. M. M. O'Sullivan addressed the elementary group. Mrs. S. M. Hastings spoke to the junior high section on "What Aid, Besides Financial, May a P.-T. A. Contribute to a School?"

Mrs. Percy A. Rich, who was elected president of Atlanta Council, and officers will be installed in May. Other officers are: Mesdames R. A. Long, first vice president; W. C. Arnold, second vice president; R. E. Wise, third vice president; Sol Epston, fourth vice president; R. L. Ramsey, fifth vice president; M. P. Estes, sixth vice president; J. A. Cox, recording secretary; Sam Asher, corresponding secretary; H. H. Allen, treasurer; George B. Little, auditor; A. L. Bowden, historian; J. Elmer Slider, parliamentarian and standard of excellence.

A recommendation presented by Mrs. Ralph McClelland, and accepted by council, adopted a change in by-laws of Atlanta Council, abolishing the office of seventh vice president, which directed the department of health and placing the chairman of that deparmtent in the department of education.

Awards for having the largest increase in membership were made to pre-school, Frank L. Stanton; elementary, Morningside, Mrs. Henry Taylor, president; senior high, Mrs. Lester Forbes, president; junior high, Mrs. Percy A. Rich, president.

Mrs. Max Kessler, safety chairman, announced that the safety loving cup will be awarded in May. The safety patrol boys will leave for Washington on May 4, Mrs. Kessler said. She urged that as many as possible make plans to take the trip. The total cost for boys is $23, and for any sixth grade teacher who might like to accompany them the cost is $31.

Mrs. Henry Taylor, study director, announced a class in parliamentary procedure, with Mrs. Z. V. Peterson, leader, to begin Monday at 10 o'clock, eleventh floor of the city hall. Songs were rendered by the Kirkwood P.-T. A. Chorus.

North Side Library Group Will Meet.

North Side Library Association meets with Mrs. Edgar Watkins, 3511 Piedmont road, on April 13. Sewing for the Needlework Guild will be at 10:30 o'clock and the business meeting at 2 o'clock. Mrs. H. B. Nelson, president, will preside.

A current events reading will be given by Mrs. E. E. Limbaugh. Miss Eleanor Pepin speaks on interior decoration, and Mrs. Hubert Rawiszer will give a book review. Co-hostesses will be Mesdames Paul Yopp, W. A. Yarborough, Walter McElreath.

HEALTH TALKS

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

NEURITIS FROM NUTRITIONAL DEFICIENCY.

Only acute nerve inflammation (neuritis) gives rise to the pain or aching popularly associated with neuritis. A great deal of the "neuritis" in popular fancy is actually not neuritis at all, but some passing discomfort. Often a referred pain is wrongly regarded as "neuritis." Thus, in a majority of cases, sciatica is not neuritis (inflammation of the great sciatic nerve) but a referred pain due to some sprain, strain or partial displacement in the sacro-iliac junction or perhaps to some lesion of the lumbar spine about the roots of the nerves which lead into the sciatic nerve. Typical example of referred pain which might give the impression of "neuritis" is the ache and tingling in the little finger and ring finger when the "crazy bone" is struck a blow or subjected to pressure—the "crazy bone" being the ulnar nerve in the groove just inside the tip of the elbow. Such referred pain, felt in the intercostal nerves which supply sensation to the thoracic and abdominal wall, has led to a good deal of wrong diagnosis. Reflex pain in the belly (wall) due to acute pleurisy in the onset of pneumonia has more than once led to a hasty "appendicitis" operation which of course disclosed nothing wrong in the region of the appendix. Severe, sharp, burning neuralgic pain in the flank, side or perhaps over the heart, continuing or recurring for several days before its nature becomes obvious, has led to many a false diagnosis of "gastric crisis," "gallstone" and even "angina pectoris"—until finally the characteristic crop of vesicles unmasks the shingles (herpes zoster).

In most instances real neuritis is a chronic, gradually developing and long enduring condition—not a pain or disability here today and gone tomorrow. Aside from remedies which benumb pain, and physiological rest such as one would give a broken leg, there is no specific treatment for acute neuritis. In each case the skill and judgment of the physician must determine the treatment which is likely to give the greatest possible comfort and prevent further damage. In some cases this involves the immediate application of surgery, perhaps. But then, acute neuritis and its treatment concerns the layman no more than coronary thrombosis does.

Chronic arsenic poisoning, chronic lead poisoning, and chronic alcoholism are the most common causes of neuritis. People today are much exposed to lead and arsenic in industry and in domestic life. That's all we can say about these poisons here.

Multiple neuritis from chronic alcoholism which leads to total disability and mayhap to death from exhaustion if the nature of the trouble is not recognized and properly treated, was regarded frankly as "alcoholic neuritis." Today it is more accurately described as a nutritional deficiency, virtually the condition known in the orient as "beriberi" (Singhalese for extreme weakness).

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield in care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: I have been reading answers to questions on problems of heart and home and your understanding of human nature seems to be quite wonderful. I have been able to give some advice to a woman who came to me with her troubles that really helped her and I was able to do this because I have followed your columns. I have no personal complaint but it might sound good to you to have a woman say she has a kind husband, four normal sons and a happy home. I suppose this is the best life has to offer a woman. F. W.

Answer: A spring in the desert, kind friend! Recently at a public gathering I sat behind a family such as yours. And as I watched them I said to myself: there is the heaven on earth: an upstanding man in his forties, a plumpish wife and four fine children. There was no fur on the coats of mother or daughter, nor ornaments on their hats, indicating that they hadn't much money to spend on furbelows and fixings. The younger children, dressed plainly but in perfect taste, were slicked and shined as though the cat had licked them. Papa at one end of the line and mama at the other, exchanged sympathetic glances now and again and the children in between behaved as normal children, twisting, wriggling, giggling and having a grand time as a group.

Does anybody think this sort of family life is a miracle of chance? Does anybody imagine that this husband and wife got married, lived gaily, had plenty, brought four children here and let them grow up in irresponsible fashion? Is anybody so short-sighted that he can't see what lies behind this picture? It's no miracle. It's the result of straight thinking, square shooting, right living and dutiful devotion on the part of a man and woman to one another and to their progeny.

It's dollars to doughnuts that pair have known the pinch of poverty, the struggle of feeding and clothing and training their little brood. And before this they had the struggle of adjusting themselves to one another, rubbing down rough edges, accepting irritating traits of character which neither could change in the other. No doubt they had the temptation to fight and fall out and set the children a bad example. They had dealt with the perplexing problems of settling disputes and quieting quarrels among the youngsters. They had what it took.

And now they sit, papa at one end of the line and mama at the other, surveying their handiwork with evident satisfaction. Why not? One glance at the picture and a stranger knows it was painted in a happy, well ordered home. A second glance and stranger can see the comradeship that exists between all six of them. They are a peaceful, contented little world within themselves. Talk about old age insurance? Such parents as these have it.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

NON-FORCING JUMP BIDS.

All Culbertson jump bids of exactly one more than is necessary, while revealing added strength, are not game-forces. . . . Ability to recognize these nonforcing situations is many times the split difference between the average and better-than-average player.

TWO NOTRUMP.

An opening bid of two notrump promises 5 1-2 to 6 1-2 honor tricks, protection in all suits, a 4-3-3-3 distribution, but is neither a game-force nor a one-round force. With a trickless hand of balanced distribution, partner may pass.

A jump rebid to two notrump by either partner is semi-forcing but permits a pass when responder lacks added values, as:

(1)	1 Heart	1 Spade
	2 Notrump
(2)	1 Club	1 Heart
	1 Spade	2 Notrump

DOUBLE RAISE.

When dealer passes originally, and then responds with a double raise or two notrump when partner opens the bidding, neither bid is game-forcing. If opener's hand lacks values over and above the minimum requirements for his opening bid, he may pass.

(3)	Pass	1 Club
	3 Clubs
(4)	Pass	1 Club
	2 Notrump

JUMP REBID.

A jump rebid in the same suit is assumed to be 99 per cent forcing in the Culbertson system, urging partner to continue with only distribution strength, as:

(5)	1 Heart	1 Spade
	3 Hearts
(6)	1 Heart	1 Notrump
	3 Hearts.

Jump rebidding a suit, following the non-forcing notrump takeout is a more urgent request for partner to go on with the bidding than a jump rebid made following partner's one-round-forcing suit takeout.

And jump rebid in a new suit is a 100 per cent game-force.

'Til tomorrow.

MR. ZERO

By PATRICIA WENTWORTH

WHAT HAS HAPPENED BEFORE: Gay Hardwicke, marooned in London with her Aunt Agatha while her parents are in Madeira defending a lawsuit which may impoverish the family, is in the midst of a shampoo when Marcia Thrale phones her to say she is sailing the next day to visit her Uncle George in Java. Gay's old schoolmate says she must see her. In a roundabout way, Marcia arrives at the fact that her sister, Sylvia, who a year ago married the wealthy and much older Sir Francis Colesborough, is "in another jam" and wants to see Gay. Remembering their school says when it was she, not Marcia, who always had to get Sylvia out of her jams, Gay leaves but meets the very attractive blonde, Sylvia. Trapped, Gay returns to find Marcia absent. Another roundabout conversation reveals that Sir Francis has forbidden Sylvia to play cards, after having lost 800 pounds at contract with her, but she loses 500 pounds at baccarat. A mysterious Mr. Zero phones her asking if she wants to earn 200 pounds. She does and substitutes an empty envelope for a report on sabotage in the dispatch-box of a home secretary attache named Lushington while the Colesboroughs and the Lushingtons are guests at the Wessex-Gardners. She turns over the report and receives the money without seeing Mr. Zero in the darkness of night. Now he wants more official papers and threatens to tell Sir Francis if Sylvia does not get them for him. Algy Somers, who is in Lushington's office, takes Gay out dancing. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT VI.

"She must have been a lovely child," said Cyril Brewster earnestly.

"Every one says so. I expect that was why I bit."

Cyril put his pince-nez straight. He did this constantly, but it never stayed put. "I have met her only three times," he said. "I think she is extremely beautiful."

"Every one thinks so," said Gay firmly.

"It is unusual to find any one with so many attractions. As a rule there is something lacking, but Lady Colesborough has everything. Of course, I do not know her well enough to speak of anything but externals. If it is possible to judge by those, her disposition should be as charming as her face."

"She has a very aimiable disposition," said Gay.

Algy was perfectly right. Brewster was a most efficient bore. He wanted to talk about Sylvia; went on talking about Sylvia.

"The first time I met her was not really a meeting at all. She was walking with Mrs. Wessex-Gardner, and I bowed—to Mrs. Wessex-Gardner. And the second time she was also walking in the park—"

"With Mrs. Wessex-Gardner?"

"No, she was alone, so of course I couldn't bow. But tonight Mrs. Wessex-Gardner very kindly asked me to join her party, and I was introduced to her. As you are her cousin, perhaps you will tell me a little more about her. Is she a widow?"

"Certainly not. She's only been married for a year."

"And her husband?"

"He is Sir Francis Colesborough, because his father made a lot of money in — well, I think it was timber—and gave away parks, and playgrounds, and things. So they made him a baronet. He bought a most lovely old place called Cole Lester. I believe he bought it because of the name being like his own, and of course it belongs to Francis now."

"I see," said Cyril. "And do they live there a good deal?"

"I don't think so. Sylvia likes London. She was brought up in the country, you know, so she's had enough of it. Francis seems to go away a lot on business."

"Ah, yes—I suppose he would." He went on talking about Sylvia.

And when Algy came back he did nothing but talk about Sylvia too. Even in the taxi going home he was still saying how lovely she was.

Gay caught a glimpse of herself in the glass at the side of the taxi, and saw a plain little Gay with no color at all and the sparkle gone from her eyes. They were very nearly home, and she was glad.

She turned, and saw Algy beside her like a shadow. They were in Hunt street again and it was fast asleep, not a light in any one of the crowded houses. Miss Hardwicke's was No. 36.

Algy came up the steps with Gay. He said, "I'll walk home. I'm short of fresh air and exercise."

Gay said nothing. She was looking in her bag for the latchkey. When she found it she didn't put it in the lock. They just stood there. The hooded porch was over them, and the street was dark. There was no sound at all—no sound. Neither of them moved. Neither of them spoke for a long time. Then Gay lifted the key and put it into the lock, and as she did that, Algy's hand came past her shoulder and closed down over her head and over the key, and Gay's hand shook. Algy said, "Gay—" in an odd muffled voice, and Gay turned the key, pushed the door open, and ran in. She stood just inside with the hall light shining behind her, and said in a bright, clear voice, "Night, Algy. Thanks ever so, much," and sent the door to with a bang that brought Aunt Agatha out in dressing gown and cap to inquire what sort of hour of the night Gay thought it was.

Gay went up to her room and shut the door with a sense of escape. She was rather out of breath, and her cheeks were hot, but her hands were cold.

She was angrier with herself than she had ever been before in all her life. What did she think she was doing, turning hot and cold and going all dithery inside just because Algy Somers had grabbed her hand like that? Only he hadn't grabbed it. His hand had come down upon hers and stayed there. Gay spoke very fiercely to herself. "You just get into bed as quick as you can. And don't you dare think about Algy again tonight.".

Algy Somers walked home through a number of dark, quiet streets. His footsteps had only their own echo for company, and as he walked he was wondering what had happened to him. He hadn't known that he was going to take Gay's hand like that. Something had come up between them as they stood together in the dark porch, and before he knew what he was going to do his hand had closed on hers. The feel of that little hand, and the way it shook under his, was tingling in him still. What he ought to be feeling was relief, because if Gay hadn't pulled away like that and run into the house, there was really no saying what he might have said or done. He might have said anything, he might have committed himself quite hopelessly. And instead of being grateful for a most providential interruption he was raging because Gay had run away from him. And why? That was what he wanted to know. Why had her hand been all shaky under his, and why had she run away? Was she angry with him, or was she afraid or . . . ?

It was some time after this that he came to with a start; he hadn't the very faintest idea where he was. It took him quite a long time to get home.

The faraway voice said "Hullo!" again.

Sylvia said, "Who's there?" and the voice said, "Mr. Zero."

The receiver in Sylvia's hand shook.

"I can't talk to you—I really can't. Please, please go away."

Mr. Zero laughed. He had an odd, cold laugh which frightened Sylvia extremely.

"Neither of us is going away," he said, "until we've got our little bit of business fixed up. I'm a martyr to business, and if you don't want to be a martyr too, and a slaughtered martyr at that, you'll stay just where you are and listen to me until I say you can hang up."

Sylvia was puzzled to the point of forgetting to be frightened. In a tone of pure bewilderment she said, "I don't know what you mean."

Mr. Zero laughed again.

"Dear me—I was forgetting that I must use words of one syllable! Very, very stupid of me. Please accept my apologies. And now to business. If you ring off before I've finished with you, I will write and tell your husband about the paper you took last week. Is that quite clear?"

"No!" said Sylvia with a gasp. "Oh, no—you wouldn't! I mean you won't!"

"Not if you do as you're told. And the first thing is, you are not to hang up until I say you can."

Sylvia felt a slight relief. If that was all, she could do that. She pulled up a pale blue sheet and a pale green blanket and settled herself against the pillows that matched them.

Mr. Zero was speaking, still in that far-away voice.

"I will put everything very simply. As far as possible there shall be only words of one syllable. Now listen to me! Is your husband away?"

"Oh, yes."

"When does he come back?"

"Tomorrow—at least I think so."

"He takes his keys with him of course?"

"Oh, yes."

"Where does he keep them when he is at home? No, I can tell you that—he has them on a chain in his trouser pocket and changes them over when he changes his clothes. A very careful person. What I don't know, and what I want you to tell me is what he does with them at night. Does he leave them on his dressing-table?"

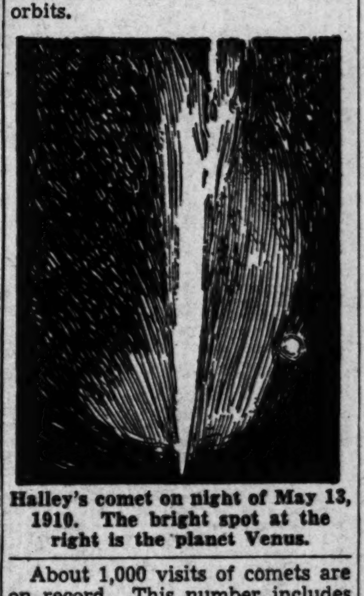
UNCLE RAY'S Corner

"THE END OF THE WORLD."

II—Danger From Comets.

In times gone by, many people were much afraid of comets. They feared some terrible event was ahead when they saw one in the sky.

Now we know a great deal more about comets than was known a few hundred years ago. Giant telescopes have been turned on them, and many facts have been learned about their size and their orbits.



Halley's comet on night of May 13, 1910. The bright spot at the right is the planet Venus.

About 1,000 visits of comets are on record. This number includes some which have been coming back every few years, and which are to be seen only with the help of telescopes. During the past 60 years, astronomers have observed an average of five or six comets per year.

The most famous comet seen during the present century is Halley's. It was a great sight in the sky in the year 1910, and no one needed a telescope to see it! The next visit of Halley's comet is scheduled for 1986.

Many persons were worried about the coming of Halley's comet in 1910. They feared it would strike the earth, and reports came from Europe of people taking their own lives because of fear. What a foolish thing that was!

As it turned out, Halley's comet did no harm to anyone. Neither has any other comet hurt a single human being, so far as our records go.

Comets differ a great deal in size. Sometimes the front part, or head, is less than 10,000 miles wide. In other cases the head has a width of a million miles. Holmes' comet which appeared in 1892, had a head 1,400,000 miles wide.

The "nucleus" of a comet is the more solid part of the head. We might call it "the real head not counting the hair." Usually it is less than 100 miles wide, but sometimes it has a width of 400 or 500 miles.

The tails of comets also differ. Some have very short tails, or none at all. Others have tails stretching out about 100,000,000 miles.

Although some comets are of huge size, they are not made of heavy stuff. Careful tests by astronomers seem to prove that the largest comet ever measured does not weigh as much as the moon. We are told, in fact, that a hundred of them together would not weigh as much as the moon.

The heads of comets are believed to contain solid objects probably like meteors. Millions of meteors have struck the earth without doing any great harm, so why worry about a comet striking us? Even if it came "head on," it probably would amount to no more than a heavy shower of meteors.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, April 11.—European currencies moved broadly against the dollar today. Banking quarters attributed the reversal of the recent flow to New York of European funds as due mainly to European distrust of inflationary possibilities in latest "pump priming" plans.

Sterling led the advance with a gain of 1¼ cents. French francs, despite widespread strike threats to the new Daladier government, rose .03 of a cent. Guilders jumped .14 of a cent, the Swiss franc added .06 of a cent and the belga .03½ of a cent.

The dollar declined moderately in London and Paris.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported $5,600,000 of gold was engaged in Japan for shipment here.

NEW YORK, April 11.—(AP)—Stocks put on an orderly retreat in today's market, leaders generally dropping fractions to 2 points with a few suffering wider declines. Dealings were quiet throughout.

While the news was not particularly disturbing, the sharp Friday-Saturday upswing apparently inspired traders to cash in part of their gains.

The principal development of the day, the President's railroad message to congress, was viewed as moderately favorable in financial quarters, but failed as a prime stimulator for carrier shares as well as for other categories.

The urgency of immediate emergency legislation to prop up shaky roads, as voiced by the chief executive, apparently found doubters in congress that much in the way of transportation legislation could be worked out at this session. Shareholders noted the comment of Chairman Wheeler, of the senate interstate commerce committee, that he was unable to see how receiverships for some lines could be avoided except by government subsidies or loans on inadequate security and that he was opposed to both courses.

Little market joy was evinced at the announcement the President and congressional and departmental leaders had placed work relief needs for the first seven months of the next fiscal year, beginning July 1, at $1,250,000,000 instead of the $1,000,000,000 originally budgeted.

Reports from Washington that congress, in its present mood, might shy at putting over any great "pump-priming" program as an anti-recession move, also tended to dim Wall Street's inflationary thinking.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .9 of a point at 39, compared with Saturday's upswing of 2.1 points. Transfers totaled 1,100,250 shares.

Brokers' Views

STOCK OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—It seems probable that the market has seen the top of the rally for the present, at least several days of consolidation and sagging prices are likely.

BEER & CO.—Monday's action, as far as the immediate outlook is concerned, was quite favorable. The drop in volume and the relative resistance to selling indicate the probability of another attempt at higher prices in the next few days.

FENNER & BEANE—Irregular tendencies are likely to be witnessed as individual prices are again adjusted to current business realities.

E. A. PIERCE & CO.—It was logical to anticipate days profit taking. Rail message to congress which did not specify legislation was something of a disappointment in its market effect and for immediate future, trend would seem in direction of minor irregularity.

COTTON OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—Recent improvement in the goods market should help the price of cotton, and we would recommend purchases on slight reactions.

BEER & CO.—Continue to confine purchases to moderate recessions is our recommendation at the present.

FENNER & BEANE—We see nothing at the moment to cause advance in prices, but expect higher values later in the season.

E. A. PIERCE & CO.—We look for advance in prices to carry further under stimulation of government aids to recovery.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.—Market still awaits some stimulating news before it can carry the advance further. Liverpool due Tuesday October 4.95, May 4.74.

GRAIN OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—When Monday's 725,000,000 bushel report is taken with weakness in Winnipeg, we think further declines will be seen in prices.

BEER & CO.—Based upon the government report issued after the close Monday, we look for the market to work lower.

FENNER & BEANE—The market looks insipid and uninteresting with more foreign competition developing and at somewhat cheaper prices.

E. A. PIERCE & CO.—We believe prospects for a 725,000,000-bushel winter wheat crop, Monday's official estimate, would seem fairly well discounted by a price level of around 80 cents for Chicago wheat, and it may be that demand side of price equation could gain increasing importance as a market factor.

COTTONSEED OIL OPINIONS.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO.—The market is very thin and affected either way by orders.

STEEL INDUSTRY SHOWS GAIN IN '37

Profits Reported at Highest Figure Since 1929.

NEW YORK, April 11.—(AP)—Aggregate net profits of the nation's steel industry last year were $231,794,000, or 6.2 per cent return on investment, the highest since 1929, and compared with $156,526,000, or 4.6 per cent return in 1936, the American Iron & Steel Institute announced today. The figures were obtained from reports of 98 companies making over 90 per cent of America's steel.

Dividends paid to 493,900 stockholders by steel companies totaled $151,145,000 in 1937, or 5.7 per cent return on common and preferred stock investment, against disbursement in 1936 to 450,000 holders of $108,799,000, or a little over 4 per cent return.

Total 1937 pay rolls of the 98 companies, including some subsidiaries which do not produce iron and steel products, were $1,124,445,000, an increase of 28 per cent over the $881,801,000 for 1936.

NEW YORK, April 11.—(AP)—The bond market closed fairly firm today after early weakness which was especially marked in the secondary rails.

Following President Roosevelt's railroad message to congress that group showed some improvement, particularly the speculatice section. The Associated Press' index of 20 rails showed a net off of .3 for the day. It is composed mostly of higher-grade loans. United States Governments were rather weak, showing generally losses up to 7-32, with a single gain of 1-32.

The foreign list, featured by strength in German issues and weakness in Austrian, showed a slight net loss in the index, although some were stronger. The industrial and utility groups had substantial net advances, and the low yield group was only slightly lower.

Trading was fairly brisk, the $6,654,200 volume comparing with Friday's $5,371,300.

Republic Steel 4 1-2s were up 5 at 50. Bethlehem Steel 4 1-4s gained 1-4 at 100 3-4. Studebaker 6s up 1-2 at 57 1-2. International Paper 5s were off 1 7-8 at 83.

CHICAGO, April 11. — (AP) — Tumbles of 1 1-4 cents in Chicago wheat prices late today more than offset early fractional gains resulting from unlooked-for sharp upturns of Liverpool quotations.

Most traders here judged correctly in advance that a bearish showing would be made by the United States government April crop report, due after the close. In line with their belief, the report indicated 1938 domestic winter wheat production would total 725,707,000 bushels, as against the latest unofficial average forecast of 717,000,000 bushels.

Adding momentum to price downturns were reports of auspicious weather for domestic crops in the southwest, together with estimates placing Australia's 1938 yield at 180,515,000 bushels, an increase of 30,515,000 bushels over last season.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were 5-8 to 1 1-8 under Saturday's finish, May 83 7-8 to 84, July 80 3-4 to 80 7-8; corn 1-4 to 3-8 up, May 60 5-8 to 60 3-4, July 62 to 62 1-8; oats at 1-4 decline to an equal advance; rye 1-4 to 1-2 down, and provisions unchanged to 25 cents drop.

AVERAGE PRICE.

NEW ORLEANS, April 11.—(AP)—The average price of middling cotton at 10 southern spot markets today was 8.64 cents a pound. The average price for the past 30 markets days was 8.76 cents a pound.

NEW YORK, April 11.—(AP)—Cotton was quiet but steady today, with steadier cotton goods markets offsetting heaviness in securities. July sold off from 8.69 to 8.65 and closed at 8.66, with final prices 1 to 2 points net higher.

Opening advances of 2 to 4 points in partial response to firm Liverpool and Bombay cables were counterbalanced by May liquidation and scattered selling. Throughout the day, interest centered principally in evening-up of the May position and in transferring to later months.

Trade estimates placed the day's sales in cotton goods in excess of a week's production at the present curtailed rate. Weather was generally favorable in the south, following last week's heavy rains. Exports 6,547, making 5,054,339 for the season thus far. Port receipts 5,780; U. S. port stocks 2,911,622.

F. D. R.'s Message on Rail Situation Fails To Aid Stocks, Says Hughes

News Regarding Automobile Industry, However, Is More Encouraging.

By GEORGE T. HUGHES.

(Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

NEW YORK, April 11.—The President's message on the railroad situation provided no stimulus to railroad stocks.

Mr. Roosevelt contented himself with submitting the recommendations of the special committee of the Interstate Commerce Commission, but he did not specify which of these recommendations should be adopted nor did he make any suggestions of his own. He reiterated his objections to government subsidies and his opposition to government ownership, but that was already known. The committee report also has been published in substance.

Opposed to Spending.

The net result was to turn the whole matter over to congress. Doubtless some legislation will result, but the responsibility for it will have to be assumed by the legislators.

Meanwhile, opposition has arisen to the proposed new spending program. Encouraged by their success in defeating the reorganization bill, the conservative element is fighting pump-priming. That, however, is a purely negative stand. If unaccompanied by any constructive program, it can only leave the deflation to burn itself out, which, however sound in principle, is depressing in practice. The chances are that the spending proposition will go through in one form or another.

It has already been pointed out that the Treasury's horde of sterilized gold could be drawn upon for this purpose, thereby obviating the necessity of new borrowings and of increasing the national debt. That resort has serious defects. The incoming gold was sterilized partly to forestall credit inflation and partly to have goid available in case of large-scale withdrawals for foreign account.

Uncertainties Continue.

While these uncertainties continue, stocks may be expected to move indecisively. They reacted Monday, as was to have been expected after the impulsive rise of the week end, which in turn was based upon the unanticipated defeat of the President on the reorganization measure. That out of the way, there was nothing immediate upon which to found an additional advance.

The estimated rate of operations in the steel industry for the coming week was only a minute fraction higher and well under the best of the recent recovery. News from the Detroit headquarters of the automobile industry was more encouraging, but not specific enough to bring any new buying into the motor stocks.

While on the stock market, it may be well to point out that in recent months the Dow theory has gained a large number of followers. The interpreters of this theory declare that the major movement is still downward, although the minor trend appears to be upward.

Strict adherence to the theory would involve staying out of the market entirely until the two averages, rails and industrials, by successive advances above their previous highs and by successfully holding on reactions above their previous lows, indicate that the main trend had changed. Of course that would mean that the Dow theory follower would not buy anywhere near what subsequently proved to be the low of the bear market. He would hold stocks only in the intermediate stage.

Business Trends In Financial News

(Copyright, 1938.)

NEW YORK, April 11.—Among the favorable and unfavorable items in the day's business news are the following:

FAVORABLE.

Douglas Aircraft Co. received a contract for 37 planes, costing $2,327,724, from army.

UNFAVORABLE.

Steel ingot production in the United States for week beginning April 11 is scheduled at 32.7 per cent of capacity, a less-than-seasonal gain of 0.1 per cent over preceding week.

United States Steel Corp. shipments of finished steel products in March totaled 572,199 tons, against 474,723 tons in February and 1,414,399 tons in March, 1937. For first three months, shipments totaled 1,565,244 tons, against 3,698,041 in like 1937 period.

Southern Floods Equal Big Hunk Of Atlantic Ocean

If the weatherman's figures are correct, something equal to a good portion of the Atlantic ocean this side of the three-mile limit blew in over southeastern states during the past few weeks to flood thousands of homes and farm fields.

The forecaster figures it takes something over 23,000,000 tons of water falling in an area the size of Atlanta—220 square miles—for residents of the surrounding country to start thinking about asking the river to stay away from their doors.

There are some 72,300 tons of water for each inch of rain over a square mile. After the first inch and a half of rainfall, the burden of caring for the excess is transferred from soil and vegetation to rivers and creeks, he explained.

Forecasters know as far as two or three days in advance when the rivers will reach flood stage at a given point. Conditions favoring the spread of recent flood waters in Alabama, Georgia and Mississippi developed several weeks ago, the forecaster asserted. Heavy rains fell during March. The ground was still saturated when another rainy season started early in April.

DISCOUNT PROPOSED ON LIQUOR LICENSES

One-Fourth of Year's Fee Till June 30 Urged by Council Committee.

Liquor license fees for the remainder of the current fiscal year will be prorated, if council adopts the recommendation made yesterday by the tax committee.

An amendment to the liquor ordinance to allow dealers to pay one-fourth of a full year's fee for the remainder of the fiscal year ending June 30 was approved. It stipulates the applicant must, at the same time, pay for the full fiscal year beginning July 1.

This would make the payment in advance total $625 for retailers and $1,250 for wholesalers. Alderman G. Dan Bridges, chairman of the police committee, sponsored the move to prorate the current fiscal year licenses. The proration is for this year only.

The police committee will act on 103 retail license applications and 11 wholesale applications before council's session next Monday afternoon.

The tax committee yesterday adversed Alderman Roy E. Callaway's proposed ordinance to abolish the city ad valorem tax entirely on household goods and furniture. City Attorney Jack Savage ruled it would be unconstitutional.

WOMEN ARE URGED TO BEAUTIFY ROAD

Mrs. Crown Proposes Coweta County Garden Club.

NEWNAN, Ga., April 11.—Mrs. E. D. Rivers today attended a meeting of about 150 rural women of Coweta county, held in the Patch Work barn at Hettie Jane Dunaway Gardens, near here. Mrs. Wayne P. Sewell introduced Mrs. Rivers, who made a short speech of welcome.

The meeting was presided over by The Constitution's garden authority, Mrs. Fletcher Pearson Crown, who spoke on "Beautifying the Country Home." Mrs. Crown proposed the formation of a Coweta county garden club, to be called the Paul Scarlett Highway Club, the main purpose of which would be to beautify the highway from Palmetto through Roscoe to Newnan by planting roses.

She further suggested that while the farmers follow The Constitution's "Plant-to-Prosper" plan, the women might "Plant-to-Beautify."

A party of engineers, managers and advisers, headed by Major General T. Q. Ashburn Sr., inspected about 75 miles of the river route today from the government snagboat Macon. They returned in cars for a banquet here tonight, and will complete the trip by boat to Savannah tomorrow.

Tyndale contends he was engaged by the society to solicit advertising to be published in a projected journal of the society. The society, however, he charges, failed to take any further action after he had procured the advertising and turned it over to the publishers.

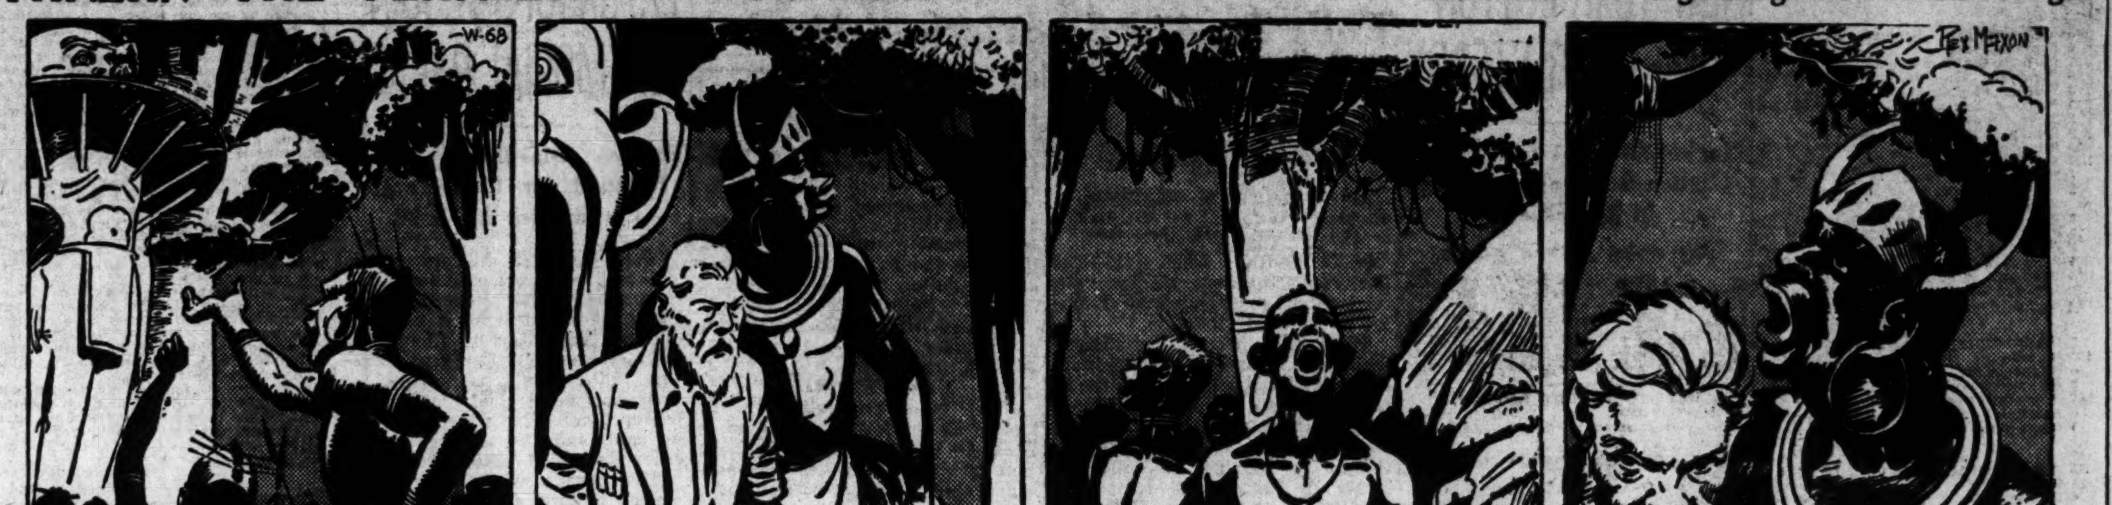
TARZAN THE FEARLESS

No. 68

By Edgar Rice Burroughs



A shout of approval greeted Kagundo's defiance of Tarzan. "Death—death to the captives!" the villagers cried. Their endorsement bolstered the witch-doctor's courage, and he turned to the hideous task of feeding Bob and Dr. Brooks to the ravenous god.

Then Tarzan's voice boomed down once more. "Now, Kagundo, shall you be punished for your defiance, you and your people. Now shall I erase the sun from the heavens as I warned. Behold, already the light of day is fading. Soon darkness will fall—forever!"

A murmur of awe went up from the assembled savages as they noticed for the first time that in fact the sun was growing dimmer. A pall seemed to fall from the skies, enveloping the whole earth in an eerie gloom. "Now will you spare the captives?" Tarzan demanded.

Kagundo knew that if he should yield to the demon, his power and prestige among his people would be destroyed. The vainglorious witch-doctor would rather lose his life than his exalted position. So, in answer to Tarzan's demand, he shouted a desperate "No!"

GOOD MORNING!

REASONS FOR HOME OWNERSHIP

By JACK H. SALMON,

Sales Manager, Rankin-Whitten Realty Company

So much has been said and written about Home Ownership, and so little done about it, I'm wondering if this isn't being taken as so much sales talk, judging from the low percentage of Home Owners in our city.

There are a number of undeniable reasons why we should own our homes, and with the many opportunities now making it possible, there is no sound reason why we should not. Most any Real Estate agent can cite you to many pathetic and tragic cases of non-owners of homes. I will mention two instances that came to my attention just recently that should make up any man's mind.

This conversation was overheard between two high school girls:

> "I understand the owners have sold the house you are living in, and your folks were notified to vacate. Isn't that a shame! I'm glad that can't happen to us—we own our house."
> The other girl replied dejectedly: "I wish Daddy would buy a home. About the time we get settled and begin to enjoy the friendship of our neighbors, for some reason or other we are moving again, among strangers. Frankly it is embarrassing to me."—One girl is proud of her independence, and the other has the beginning of an inferiority complex.
> The other instance is where a small home in West End was sold recently for $2,750. The tenant occupying the house had lived there 18 years, paying $25 a month rent. Within this time he had paid the owner of the property a total of $5,400 rent. Had he bought the property in the beginning, he would have paid for it at the end of the tenth year, after which he would have enjoyed eight years of ownership, free of further payments, plus a saving of $2,750—or to put it another way, he could have had a home for 18 years free of rent. Instead—he was given notice to vacate the home he had paid for and should have owned.
> When asked why he had not bought this, or some other home, during his 18 years of rent paying, he replied that he had put it off from year to year, and just never did get around to it. The worst part of it, he said: "We have grown to love the place; my children were born here, and it will break their hearts to leave it. Yes, I'm going to buy now. This will never happen to me again!"

Procrastinaion—WHAT A TRAGIC MISTAKE. Will this happen to you?

These are not unusual cases. On the contrary, they are common occurrences among those who procrastinate.

By referring to the real estate listings in the WANT AD PAGES of The Constitution, you'll find the best home and home site values ever offered; homes in all sections of the city at prices you can afford to pay with terms within the reach of everyone. Refer to them now.

Under-Graded Cotton Losses Debated at Senate Hearing

Agriculture Committee Takes Up Charges That Product Handled by Co-operative Association Was Sold for Millions More Than Growers Received.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—(AP) The quality of more than 3,000,000 bales of cotton that moved into government loans and pools became a hotly debated issue today before the senate agriculture committee.

The committee started public hearings on charges by its staff of investigators that cotton growers had lost millions of dollars as a result of under-grading of cotton handled by the American Cotton Co-operative Association for the loans and pools.

Grading Rechecked.

Chairman Smith, Democrat, South Carolina, a cotton farmer, has indicated that the federal government may be asked to provide several million dollars for growers if the charges are substantiated.

Senators Ellender, Democrat, Louisiana, and Bankhead, Democrat, Alabama, opposed Smith's request for $25,000 in addition to $25,000 previously provided by the senate for the ACCA investigation. They agreed to $10,000 additional to present data already accumulated under direction of Colonel Lawrence Westbrook, one-time assistant WPA administrator.

Karl Karsten, statistician on Westbrook's staff, opened hearings by presenting a mass of charts on rechecking quality of cotton handled by the co-operative in the government loans and pools.

The statistician said that data indicated low grading by the co-operative had cost growers heavy losses.

Ellender, briskly questioning Karsten, asked if his conclusions were on a basis of "actualities rather than statistics."

The Louisiana senator insisted that cotton frequently was rated higher in quality than actual sales prices commanded, and that the mass of figures reflected statistical rating of value rather than actual market prices obtainable.

Profit Made on Farmers.

Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, a westerner and admittedly no cotton technician, questioned Karsten about grading cotton. He learned it was rated according to staple length and grade for prices, and that a slight error of under-rating could cost the grower $5 a bale.

Senator Bankhead observed that cotton grading was "no exact science."

Karsten, sticking to his tables and charts, said the ACCA had sold one lot of cotton for $1.96 a bale more than farmers received on its grading.

Under questioning by Bankhead, Karsten admitted that "under the theory" of the co-operative this profit would go back to farmers in the co-operative.

Ellender at one point observed the statistician was "reading your answers from a paper."

James D. Williamson, short, white-bearded attorney from Waco, Texas, who was acting as counsel for the investigating staff, promptly explained the questions and answers had been prepared to save the committee's time.

"It is the general practice in these investigations," observed Senator Wheeler.
